CITY FIGHTS FOR SIX DAY FREIGHT RUNS TO COAST

Battle Delays Due to Rail Pact.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago, striving to break the squeeze of the Panama canal upon midwest industry and employment, faces the following transportation problem: Why should it take seven days to deliver Chicago package freight to Pacific coast points when the fast freight trains make the run in six days?

The answer, trafic experts declare, is this: When the fast trains reach destination the merchandise is kept in the yards a day to enable trains on slower railroads to catch up.

Such is the gist of a question to be taken up at a conference tomorrow between the presidents of the western lines and the transportation committee of the Association of Commerce. The association is urging that the running time of package freight to the coast be cut from seven days to six. To the reader freight trains may seem a dull subject, but they are the great builders of commerce and pay rolls.

Pact Holds Up Delivery.

The association experts hold that, although trains are being speeded up, deliveries are being held back by railroad agreements at both ends of the run. By a pact seven days is set as the transit time from Chicago to Los Angeles and San Francisco, Portland, Ore.; Tacoma and Seattle, Wash.

This puts railroads with longest routes over the plains and through the mountains on an equality with roads having shorter routes. Some of the fast freight makes it in six days, but to preserve the mythical seven days' transit time the cars are kept in the yards a seventh day before goods are delivered

Thus the delivery time of the fastest freight trains is slowed down to the pace of the tortoise trains. Such is the argument as outlined by the association experts.

Meanwhile St. Louis has six days' package freight service to California ports, Los Angeles and San Francisco. The association holds that no reason exists why Chicago should not get similar service, as the distances are comparable.

Fight Eastern Agreement.

At the eastern end the association says it has long been trying to break through an old agreement among the railroads, under which Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana are given the same time to the coast as is Chicago. Under this, the experts say, Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, O., Cincinnati, Detroit, Indianapolis, and Louisville have the same seven days' package freight service to the Pacific coast as has Chicago, although they are 200 or 300 or more miles east of Chicago.

The bulk of the goods shipped by rail to the coast comes from Chicagoland, as eastern points find a rate advantage in using the Panama canal route. To drop a day from the transit time to the coast from Chicago will be a reduction of one-seventh.

This is of more importance than it may seem, for swift transportation is Chicago's means of offsetting Panama canal constriction. On valuable merchandise, such as silks, dry goods, hardware, worth thousands of dollars a carload, the item of interest on goods while in transit is a considerable factor.

By ship from New York the time via Panama to Los Angeles averages 14 days, to Seattle 17 days. With six days by rail from Chicago, the difference in interest would help equalize the influence of the Panama canal.

Demand Change Tomorrow.

All these are arguments which the association is to press before the railroad executives tomorrow.

Extension of free pickup and delivery service on all less than carload freight seems in prospect. Some railroads operating eastward from Chicago have been establishing this service for a distance of 260 miles. Lines running westward have been slow to act, but the Chicago and North Western railway and the Chicago Great Western railroad have announced their intention of establishing pickup and delivery service.

The Association of Commerce holds this starts the ball rolling. Joseph B Eastman, federal coördinator, has suggested that nation-wide pickup and delivery service be established if the rails expect to retain their share of the merchandise trafic against motor truck competition.

Italy Can Arm 8 Million Men, Il Duce Warns

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 26.—Premier Mussolini hissed his defiance at enemies abroad and at home tonight in a bristling communique issued by his press office which told Europe and especially Nazi Germany that he is ready to put 8,000,000 men in the field if Italy is menaced.

At the same time he apparently sought to mollify aroused Italian opinion with the announcement that he would not call up any other conscripts, except those of the class of 1911 who are at present being mobilized for possible service against Ethiopia, "except in case of European complications."

The boldness of tonight's communique in invoking a potential European complication caused much alarm in diplomatic circles which, however, are accustomed to discount for a certain amount of bluff in all pronouncements from the Palazzo Venezia.

Trouble with Allies.

But this outspokenness was taken as warning from Mussolini that not only would he refuse to be restrained in his designs on Ethiopia, but also that he is strong enough at home to defend Brenner pass in case his fellow dictator, Reichsfuehrer Hitler, should choose to take advantage of Italy's commitment in a colonial war.

The European press for the last few days has been openly referring to the possibility of war between Italy and Germany over Austria.

The communique also reflects a certain amount of disturbance between Mussolini and his French and British friends. In Italy there is no doubt that the populace is uneasy and that the situation is obscure because of fears for economic uncertainties.

Many people think that developments which may have a far reaching effect are in the offing, for there is no remaining doubt now about the unpopularity of the African adventure.

Menacing and Reassuring.

The language of the communique which is issued a day after the departure of the 29th division for East Africa is equivocal. It is menacing at the same time that it is reassuring in a way. It seems to indicate that Il Duce's government is as much dismayed by the developments at home as by the commitments which have been made abroad, and as this correspondent indicated in a previous dispatch, it is Austria and the European situation rather than Ethiopia which is mostly concerned in Il Duce's nervousness about the mobilization of troops.

There is no difficulty in reading between the lines of the communique that Il Duce is at outs with the interests at home as well as abroad and means to leave nothing undone to defend his position.

Mussolini's defiance is hurled at a moment when Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria has been paying a visit to France and England to seek support there for Austrian Fascism and as Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, is preparing to visit Berlin.

Two New Divisions.

Mussolini points out that his enemies need not think that because he is sending two divisions to Africa, he will be weakened at home. He says that two more new divisions will be constituted to replace those which have left the country and that Italian industry which badly needs orders will get new orders to replace all the war material, such as cannons, planes, tanks and guns which have gone to Africa.

Later tonight the Italian press bureau announced that the steamer Leonardo da Vinci left Messina, Sicily, with 1,200 troops and 110 officers and more war materials. The steamer Arabia will leave Naples tomorrow with troops and supplies.

LINDBERGH RANSOM MONEY TURNS UP IN PLANE TICKET OFFICE

Boston, Mass., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The purchaser of a ticket on the American Airlines at East Boston who paid his fare with Lindbergh ransom money was being sought by department of justice agents today. Two $10 gold certificates were deposited by the air transportation company in the State Street Trust company. The trip for which the earmarked money was paid was taken over the week-end, but the destination of the purchaser could not be learned today.

Agents who were working in the strictest secrecy believed that considerably more of the ransom money could be traced to the vicinity of Boston.

Reports that department of justice investigators have been working on similar lines for the last few weeks could not be confirmed today.

Fear 26 Lost; Fail to Find SOS Vessel

LONDON, Feb. 27 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Fears that the British freighter Blairgowrie had foundered in a mid-Atlantic gale with her crew of 26 were prompted early today by a wireless message from the S. S. Europa that rescue ships speeding to the Blairgowrie's aid were unable to locate the stricken craft.

The Europa's wireless said the steamships American Banker and Blommersdyk, a Dutch vessel, had reached the British ship's last reported position and found no trace of her.

Steering Gear Gone.

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The British freighter Blairgowrie called for help tonight, saying it was in a "desperate situation" with no steering gear and its hold "full of water."

The liners Europa and American Banker wirelessed that they were proceeding to aid the distressed vessel, which was in the North Atlantic ship channel en route to Boston from Swansea, Wales.

The American Banker told Radiomarine corporation it was encountering "mountainous seas" and was about 30 miles away. The Europa, 60 miles away, reported that it was in a "heavy westerly gale."

Radiomarine said the American Banker reported the Blairgowrie had 26 men aboard.

SPEED ABOUNDS IN HUEY LONG'S SPECIAL SESSION

Baton Rouge, La., Feb. 26.—(AP)—With Huey Long in the saddle, Louisiana tonight lost an "acting" lieutenant governor, got a new one, saw another special session of the legislature meet, and watched 86 new laws started toward rapid passage.

With National Guard troops here enforcing martial law and an undetermined number of plain clothes state police in the city to augment them, gavels pounded in both houses of the legislature at Long's orders.

Just before the senate and house met at 10 o'clock Thomas C. Wingate, in a hospital in Shreveport, announced his resignation as president pro tempore of the senate and as "acting" lieutenant governor because of ill health. He was an administrationist.

As soon as the senate met it named James A. Noe of Monroe, Long follower, to succeed Wingate after administrationists beat down a contest which developed over acceptance of Wingate's resignation.

After the resignation was adopted Senator Harvey Peltier, an administrationist, who was presiding, ruled that Wingate remained a member of the senate.

Siamese King's Eye Doctor Loses Eye of His Own

Mrs. Gray Congratulates 'Whoever Wins' in G. O. P.

Mrs. Grace A. Gray, only woman ever to run for mayor of Chicago, acknowledged defeat in the Republican primary early last night by issuing a statement congratulating the Republican winner, "whoever he may be." "The chief duty of the Republicans right now is to unite and restore the city hall to the people," she said. "It can be done."

BEAT MORELAND AND WILLISTON IN COUNCIL RACE

P. S. Smith Neck and Neck with Healy.

Two sitting aldermen, James C. Moreland [forty-first] and George A. Williston [forty-ninth], were defeated; three other incumbents were forced into run-off contests for April 2, and 37 were reëlected to four year terms in the city council in the aldermanic election yesterday on the basis of complete unofficial returns.

Two of the three run-off elections had been forecast, but Patrick Sheridan Smith, former city clerk and present Republican committeeman in the Sixth ward, dealt a surprise blow to the Democrats, who thought his power slipping, when he pushed Ald. John F. Healy into a run-off election. Healy topped him by less than 300 votes, and three remaining candidates got sufficient ballots to prevent a clear majority.

Northrup Into Run-off.

In the Nineteenth ward John J. Duffy, backed by the Democrats, came within 84 votes of defeating Ald. O. E. Northrup due to the surprising vote polled by Robert C. Rohn, also a Republican. Northrup and Duffy will be in the run-off.

Third among startling election results was the ability of William J. Cowhey, former fireman and novice in politics, to beat the veteran Ald. Moreland in the first election.

Concentration of Democratic fire on Moreland during the campaign led observers to believe that Moreland would be forced to a run-off and ultimately defeated, but Cowhey's victory yesterday was more than even the Democrats had hoped.

Hoellen's Prospects Bright.

John J. Hoellen, a former alderman, did the expected in the 47th when he cut the margin of Ald. Albert F. Schulz to run-off proportions. Schulz polled 10,049 to 8,494 for Hoellen, but the former alderman already has the pledged support of Harry Johnson, fourth high, for the second election, and may get the aid of Thomas Devaney, third high, who leads a group of Democrats dissatisfied with Schulz.

Frank Keenan, editor of the Democrats' official newspaper in Chicago, swamped Ald. Williston, a Republican, by 10,137 to 6,879 votes in the 49th ward after one of the hottest campaigns in the city. Williston attributed his defeat to the strength of the Democrats who centered their fire in the ward in behalf of Keenan.

Beck-Lindell Fight.

The fight that Leslie V. Beck gave Ald. Arthur G. Lindell in the Ninth was reminiscent of their battle to a run-off election in 1933. In yesterday's election, however, Lindell, a Republican, took the lead early in the counting and maintained it to the finish. There were only the two candidates in the fight.

For a time it appeared that two aldermen, William L. Dawson [2d] and Thomas J. Daley [7th], would meet opposition of run-off character from two political unknowns, Aaron Payne and Floyd Saxon. Early margins given these newcomers were soon reduced, however, and the sitting aldermen took comfortable leads as half of the precincts were reported.

Ten new members of the council, one of them a former alderman, were elected yesterday. Eight of them will fill existing vacancies.

Changes in Ranks.

Michael F. Mulcahy gets the Eighth ward council place of Ald. David L. Sutton, not a candidate. Hugh B. Connelly, Democratic committeeman, won the Eleventh ward seat of the late Ald. Thomas A. Doyle, Joseph Kacena Jr. won the John Toman seat in the Twenty-third, James B. Bowler got his old aldermanic job in the Twenty-fifth, Edward J. Upton succeeded to the post of former Ald. John S. Clark, and P. J. Cullerton [Thirty-eighth] and H. L. Brody [Thirty-ninth] were named to places being vacated by Ald. Henry J. Wieland and Ald. James J. Hurley. Keenan and Cowhey are newcomers who beat present aldermen for their places.

The only two women in the campaign, Mrs. Margaret Dahlman in the Fourth and Mrs. Signa Wolff in the Tenth, got only a scattering of votes. Write-in campaigns attempted in the Thirty-seventh and Forty-third wards fared poorly, but in the Fiftieth ward Norbert Heath got 1,762 votes, as compared with 8,609 for Ald. James R. Quinn.

50.	Ald. James R. Quinn	No contest

There will be three runoff elections to be held on April 2, the day of the regular election. These are in the Sixth ward between Ald. John F. Healy and Patrick Sheridan Smith; in the Nineteenth ward between John J. Duffy and Ald. O. E. Northrup; and in the Forty-seventh ward between Ald. Albert F. Schulz and John J. Hoellen.

SLAIN IN THE BANK OF ENGLAND; HINT HOLDUP ATTEMPT

LONDON, Feb. 27 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Police announced early today that a soldier of the Welsh guards had been found shot to death in the Bank of England.

There were rumors that an attempt had been made to hold up the mighty fortress guarding much of Great Britain's gold reserve, but authorities refused to comment.

G. O. P. CHOOSES EMIL WETTEN TO OPPOSE MAYOR

656,000 Ballots Cast Despite Snow.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly emerged from the blizzard that enwrapped yesterday's polls bearing the largest vote and the largest plurality ever given a candidate for mayor in a Chicago primary.

He was nominated on the Democratic ticket to succeed himself by a vote of 479,825. His plurality was 440,672. Both these smash old records. The total Democratic vote on the mayoralty nomination was 539,596.

The Republicans nominated Emil C. Wetten. His vote was 69,600; his plurality, 32,539. The Republican total vote was 116,529, or about 21 per cent of the Democratic poll. The vote cast in the mayoralty primary by both parties was 656,125.

Brady and Brand Nominated.

The Democrats trudged through the snowstorm to roll up the Kelly vote despite the lack of a battle in the party primaries. A campaign that was without a brass band or a massmeeting wound up in a record vote for the party.

With the mayor, Peter J. Brady was renominated for city clerk by the Democrats without opposition, and Gustave A. Brand was put on their ticket for city treasurer. Mr. Brand brings an esthetic element into politics. He is an artist.

Mr. Brand won by a plurality of 305,645. The vote stood: Brand, 352,999; Stephen T. Bradel, 39,025; Edward P. Garrity, 43,227; Daniel R. Murphy, 47,354.

Kelly May Not Campaign.

Mayor Kelly, who received the returns at Democratic headquarters in the Morrison hotel, said the results indicate the public is interested in the Democratic régime. The mayor said he would keep on the job eighteen hours a day as a "full time mayor" and indicated he may not make an active campaign himself for the April 2 election.

"On Jan. 2," Mayor Kelly said, "a petition was presented to me signed by more than 650,000 men and women of Chicago representing every walk of life, requesting that I become a candidate for mayor. Various civic and veterans' groups likewise urged me to stand for election.

Mayor Expresses Gratitude.

"Today, without having made any appeal for votes and in spite of extremely adverse weather conditions 479,825 of our citizens voted in favor of my candidacy.

"These facts bear but one construction, which is: that 479,825 men and women of Chicago approve the character of administration which has been given them for the last two years. I am deeply grateful for this endorsement of my efforts in behalf of Chicago.

"Whatever has been done would have been impossible of accomplishment but for the full coöperation of all of the people of our city, manifesting their desire to make Chicago the greatest city in the world, and to keep Chicago ahead!"

Record Democrat Primary.

Working in the snowfall, the Democrat organization polled its total vote of 539,596, the largest the party has ever cast in a Chicago mayoralty primary. Only twice has it been exceeded by the Republicans.

To show the swing, four years ago the Democratic total primary vote was 258,967. Yesterday this was more than doubled. It was well spread over all the city and the poll ran high in the wards along the lake shore, formerly champion Republican territory.

Meanwhile the Republicans appeared to have been caught in the blizzard without snowshoes or skis. Their party vote of 116,529 may be contrasted with four years ago when it was 635,000 in the primary. Eight years ago it was 504,000.

G. O. P. Slips Back 25 Years.

Yesterday's was the smallest vote the G. O. P. has cast in a mayoralty primary since the first primary in 1911, when it polled 110,000. Yesterday the Republicans slipped back a quarter of a century.

Mayor Kelly's vote of 479,825 was double that of 234,258 polled by the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak in the 1931 primaries. That was the Democratic high point of the time.

Likewise the Kelly vote smashed the high Republican record of 342,337 for the G. O. P. nominee in 1927. The Democrats yesterday snowed that mark under by more than 125,000.

Against Mayor Kelly were running three candidates: James F. Robertson, a real estate dealer, John P. O'Meara, an ex-marine and college graduate in the dairy business, and Martin Powroznik, a contractor and ex-carpenter, virtual unknowns in politics.

The three got 59,771 between them, the vote standing: Robertson, 15,541; O'Meara, 5,077; Powroznik, 39,153.

Fusion Party Snowed Out.

While the Democrats were rolling up the votes in the snowdrifts and the Republicans were sticking in the igloos, the petition for the "fusion party" faded in the blizzard. Prof. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago, its progenitor, announced it had been unable to get enough signatures.

The professor besought Mr. Wetten to retire and have the Republican city committee nominate either Dwight H. Green, United States district attorney, or Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago for mayor in the vacant place on the ticket. Prof. Merriam was G. O. P. nominee for mayor in 1911, and his manager was Harold L. Ickes, now secretary of the interior.

The one "new party" ticket filed before the time limit expired last night was that headed by Newton Jenkins. The Democrats say they have no thought of contesting the Jenkins petition. Their experts hold that Wetten and Jenkins will draw from the same class of voters, and thus increase the size of Mayor Kelly's victory in the election April 2. Prof. Douglas called on Mr. Jenkins to retire with Mr. Wetten in favor of Mr. Green or Prof. Merriam. In a statement last evening Mr. Wetten said he would not withdraw, and indications are that Prof. Douglas' adjurations also will fall on deaf ears in the Jenkins camp.

Statement of Chairman Nash.

To the group around the Democratic headquarters table as the returns came in P. A. Nash, Democratic national committeeman and county chairman, said the blizzard cut down the vote, as did the lack of a contest over the mayoralty and the fact that only a few wards had stiff aldermanic battles to draw out the vote.

"I am surprised at the great vote cast in the primaries," said Chairman Nash. "I have no doubt, however, that the bad weather and the lack of contests in the wards reduced the size of the vote.

"If we had had aldermanic contests in every ward 100,000 more Democratic votes would have been cast, and, if the weather had been good, 200,000 more. Credit for the tremendous showing must go to the party workers and to the organization."

Looking it over, a general opinion among experts last night was that in the April 2 election Mayor Kelly's victory will be greater than the Democrats were forecasting a week ago.

SEEK 2 DOCTORS AFTER GIRL DIES OF OPERATION

Search began yesterday for two physicians after Miss Marie Dwyer, 26 years old, 5215 Fulton street, university graduate and laboratory technician, died at the Lakeside Clinic and Post Graduate hospital, 3910 Rhodes avenue. Her death was caused by an illegal operation performed last Friday, according to physicians at the hospital.

The accused physicians are Dr. Maurice L. Dale, 32 years old, 3568 Harrison street, and Dr. Frank R. Braune, 2605 Clyde avenue, who has offices at 306 South Wabash avenue. On Saturday, Miss Dwyer named both men in a statement to police, and warants were issued charging them with performing an abortion. Dr. Dale was arrested, and released in bail for a hearing this morning in the Felony court. Dr. Braune has not been found.

On behalf of Dr. Dale Attorney Samuel A. Hoffman denied last night the doctor's complicity in the case and said he would surrender at the inquest today.

Miss Dwyer's statement blamed Dr. Dale for her condition and said he took her to Dr. Braune's office, where, she related, the operation was performed while she was unconscious. On Jan. 11, when she attempted suicide in Dr. Dale's office, he denied any affair with her.

THREE IN MAYOR RACE CAST VOTE AT SAME HOUR

Promptly at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning three mayoral candidates, one Democrat and two Republicans, appeared at the polls in widely separated sections of the city to cast their ballots.

Out in the Fourth ward Mayor Kelly, Democratic candidate, accompanied by Mrs. Kelly, stepped casually into the Twenty-fourth precinct polling place at 1035 East 47th street. At the same time, in the distant Forty-second ward, Emil C. Wetten, Republican candidate, arose from his sick bed in the Seneca hotel and cast his vote in the polling place for the Twenty-sixth precinct, which is in the hotel lobby. Mortimer B. Flynn, Republican, cast his vote at 6843 Ogleshy avenue, polling place for the Twelfth precinct of the Seventh ward.

Mrs. Grace A. Gray, remaining Republican mayoral candidate, tarried until 12:30 o'clock and then balloted in the Forty-seventh ward at the Fiftieth precinct polls, 1524 Montrose avenue. Gov. Horner, a resident of the Fourth ward, voted at 12:30 o'clock at the Thirty-second precinct polls at 5056 Woodlawn avenue.

3 Slayers of Policeman to Die Week of April 28

Dedham, Mass., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Millen brothers, Irving and Murton, and Abraham Faber, convicted killers of a Needham, Mass., policeman, were sentenced today to die in the electric chair at Charlestown state prison during the week of April 28.

SIZE OF WETTEN LEAD SURPRISES G. O. P. BACKERS

Party's Slump in Primary Called Tragic.

The only surprise in the Republican municipal primary yesterday was the size of the victory for Emil C. Wetten, the man who spent almost the entire campaign period in a sick bed.

Complete returns showed that Wetten beat his chief opponent, Mortimer B. Flynn, almost two to one. A closer race had been expected, but Flynn's outburst of indignation over the manner in which a number of ward committeemen were deserting him last week-end was believed to have hurt him materially. The offended committeemen and some of their associates, it was reported, went out to beat the coal man decisively.

Vote for Wetten Is 69,600.

Wetten's total vote was 69,600 and Flynn's was 37,061. Mrs. Grace Gray, who was forced to be content with her self-accomplished achievement of being the first Chicago woman to run for mayor, received 9,868 votes.

These figures gave Wetten a lead over Flynn of 32,539.

There were only 116,529 Republican votes cast on the mayoralty, but this was not a surprise because of the disorganized condition of the party, resulting, it is charged, from the character of the ward committeemen brought into power by the last Republican city and state administrations. This group has retained enough power to block anything like coöperative action such as has been demonstrated year after year by the Democratic organization.

Thousands Leaving Party.

To old line Republicans who recalled the party methods of a few years ago, the poor showing at the mayoralty polls was a tragedy, but it was known in advance that many thousands of them would refuse to vote and that just as many other thousands were intending to change over to the Democratic party now or in the near future.

Last year in the state and county primary the Republicans cast 319,097 votes and the fact that not much more than one-third of that total went into yesterday's primary was considered evidence of dissatisfaction with the party management as much as with the candidates offered for approval.

All three of the mayoralty candidates who remained on the ballot to the finish started without any organized forces behind them. There was a fourth who filed a petition, Sol H. Goldberg, but he withdrew before the time for campaigning arrived.

Campaign Without Campaigning.

The time for campaigning arrived but there was no campaign. Flynn and Wetten were negotiating for the support of ward committeemen, some of whom traveled constantly back and forth between the two candidates, many of them making vigorous efforts to obtain cash in advance for their support, according to assertions of the candidates.

Wetten was laid up with a succession of ailments, from the last of which, sinus infection, he is still ill. Flynn addressed a number of ward organization meetings, but not right up to the opening of the polls was there an out and out Flynn or Wetten meeting. And there was very little money spent by anybody.

Wetten Makes Statement.

After he was certain of the outcome Mr. Wetten, from his apartment in the Seneca hotel, issued this statement:

"Naturally I am very grateful to the many Republicans who voted for me at the primary and am glad of this opportunity to express my appreciation.

"In view of repeated rumors during the last few weeks that I was likely to withdraw from the mayoralty contest on account of the condition of my health, I wish to state definitly and positively that, while I have had a very persistent and troublesome case of the flu, I am assured by my physicians that it will be but a question of a few days when it will be safe for me to take a short trip south which they are convinced will fully restore me and I will be able to go into the mayoralty campaign with all the strength and vigor I ever possessed and I am certain that I and my friends can make an active and aggressive campaign which will assure my election on April 2.

"Therefore I wish to state positively that under no circumstances will I withdraw from the contest."

Flynn Refuses Statement.

Mr. Flynn was found at his residence in the south shore district, but declined to issue a formal statement. His informal remarks were hostile to "the city hall," which he blamed for his defeat.

Otto M. Webb, backed by the Eden Brekke wing of the Republican organization, won the Republican nomination for city clerk with a total vote of 40,062. The vote on the other three aspirants stood: Stanley Bartecki, 18,403; Anthony L. Golusinski, 19,030; Sigfrid L. Blomgren, 24,337. Webb's plurality was 15,725.

Charles W. Swanson, put forward by the Young Republicans, Inc., won the city treasurership nomination with a total vote of 52,486. The vote on his opponents was: George J. McKerr, 21,567; S. J. Simon, 29,077. Swanson's plurality was 23,409.

Find Former Film Actress Dead in Room of Chinese

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Gazelle Marche, 42 year old former moving picture actress, was found dead today in the apartment of Charles Lun, above his Chinese restaurant in the Bronx. Police said the woman had been scalded from the neck to the abdomen and that Lun told them she had called on him Saturday night and told him she had been burned. The woman remained in the apartment, refusing to allow Lun to call a doctor, he told police.

High School Fire Sends 60 Families Into Streets

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Sixty families fled to safety today when fire destroyed Western High school. The loss was estimated at $1,000,000. Firemen ordered occupants of 16 nearby houses into the streets and a 48 apartment building was evacuated. Charles Foss, school janitor, discovered the fire on the second floor.

WETS WIN LEAD IN ALABAMA'S DRY LAW VOTE

Modification Is Favored in Close Poll.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A majority of nearly 7,000 was maintained tonight in favor of modifying Alabama's stringent dry law as returns from a three-fold referendum piled up.

The final result, however, still was in doubt, as many ballot boxes in counties running predominantly dry still were unreported.

How Vote Stands.

The vote from 1,253 out of 2,158 ballot boxes gave modification 77,548 votes to 70,635 against.

On the legalization of beer and wine the vote was 77,002 for and 68,673 against, while the hard liquor legalization stood 76,168 for and 70,607 against.

Georgia House Votes Beer.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The house today voted to legalize beer, which has been sold openly in Georgia for more than a year.

The vote was 112 to 58. The bill provides for an excise tax of $2.50 on 31 gallon quantities. Funds accumulated from the tax will be used to buy school books for free distribution to Georgia children. The bill was ordered sent to the senate, where it will join a liquor referendum local option bill passed yesterday by the house.

Many towns and cities granted local licenses for sale of beer more than a year ago, although such action was contrary to existing state law.

PLANE REPORTED DOWN IN OCEAN; FAIL TO FIND IT

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 27 (Wednesday).—(AP)—After searching for more than four hours for an airplane reported down at sea offshore here, Coast Guard Officer C. D. Toler and municipal life guards early today came ashore and announced they were satisfied reports of the accident were groundless.

Toler said he was satisfied there was no plane down anywhere in the vicinity of Daytona Beach and that persons who said they saw an airplane land on the waves and signal with lights were mistaken. He said lights from shrimp boats some distance off the beach easily could have been mistaken for the reported signals.

Coast guard division headquarters at Jacksonville had ordered a seaplane from Miami and guard boats from Ferdinanda, Savannah, and Fort Pierce to join the search here. Toler said he would advise the headquarters of his findings and felt sure the rescue plane and boats would be recalled.

Petition Defects Halt Vote on Local Option in 1935

Port Byron, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Votes on local option, planned both in the village and township of Port Byron for the April elections, cannot be taken. The joint petition for such voting was prepared, but township officials have been informed that separate petitions should have been circulated for the village and township elections. Now no action can be taken until April, 1936.

FARMER DROPS DEAD.

LIQUOR IS WINNER IN 44TH PRECINCT OF THE 7TH WARD

Liquor won a victory yesterday in the 44th precinct of the Seventh ward. This quiet residential district was the only one in which voters were asked to take a stand on local option. The vote was 175 to 112 in favor of permitting sale of liquor.

The district is bounded by 75th and 77th streets and Jeffery and Paxton avenues. One saloon is now operating there, one was temporarily closed awaiting the outcome of yesterday's balloting, and a third closed Feb. 1.

Residents of the neighborhood favoring a ban on sale of liquor in the precinct explained they were not opposed to liquor, but did not want saloons at the doorsteps of their homes.

Seek Funds to Buy Mothers' Milk for Triplet Girls

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—An appeal was issued today by St. John's hospital, Long Island City, for the public to contribute funds to provide mothers' milk for the triplet girls born to Mrs. Joseph Rean, 28, at the hospital last night. It will cost $9 a day to provide the milk.

Body of Motorist, Storm Victim, Found Beside Road

The body of a man identified through an automobile license as Walter J. Mueller, 25 years old, of Mount Prospect was found yesterday along a road near Rochelle, Ill. His death apparently was caused by exposure during Sunday night's severe sleet and snow storm. Police believe he was overcome while walking from his automobile which was found out of gas a mile away.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

Ickes Will Present Data on Inquiry Soon.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Subjected to a hotter fire of official and unofficial criticism than any cabinet member since the days of the Harding administration, Postmaster General James Aloysius Farley stood his ground today, refusing to reply to his detractors.

It was intimated, however, that the postmaster general might have something to say after the senate receives and makes public the results of the investigation Harold L. Ickes, public works administrator, made of certain companies having a big stake in public works contracts. Mr. Farley expects a complete exoneration from the Ickes report.

Building Companies Eyed.

One of these companies is the General Builders' Supply corporation, biggest building material concern in New York, the presidency of which Mr. Farley resigned when he entered the cabinet, of which his brother-in-law, Harry B. Finnegan, now is vice president and acting head, and of which Mr. Farley continued to be stockholder after taking federal office. The other is James Stewart & Co., contractors, which has obtained more than 10 million dollars' worth of public works contracts and which purchases materials largely from the Farley company.

Mr. Ickes said today that he is about ready to respond to the senate resolution calling for the information. He thought he would be able to send the data to the senate in a day or two.

Long Starts Inquiry.

The senate resolution which was introduced by Senator Huey P. Long [Dem., La.] was opposed at first by administration senators, the majority leader, Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], charging that the Louisiana Kingfish was undertaking to retaliate for the government's inquiry into Mr. Long's income taxes.

The government has procured indictment of several of Senator Long's henchmen on charges of evasion of income taxes and still is pursuing the investigation. The next day, however, Senator Robinson withdrew opposition to the adoption of the resolution in a slightly amended form.

The charges piled up against the postmaster general so far are:

1. That the Farley company and concerns patronizing the Farley company have been favored in the letting of public works contracts.

2. That Mr. Farley halted the prosecution of John Lazia, since deceased, for income tax evasion at the request of Thomas J. Pendergast, Democratic boss of Kansas City.

Charge Levy on Employés.

3. That contributions to the Democratic national committee are being levied upon government employés, in violation of the law, with the approval of Democratic National Chairman Farley.

4. That the postmaster general distributed to his friends unperforated, ungummed, and autographed postage stamps which were valued by philatelists at 2 million dollars, being compelled under fire to cease the practice and make similar stamps available to all collectors.

The Ickes investigation took place last fall in the course of routine inquiry into the status of concerns interested in PWA contracts. The inquiry, which revolved largely around the contracts for the 6 million dollar federal building and 4¼ million dollar postoffice annex in New York City, was conducted by Louis Glavis, chief of the Ickes bureau of investigation.

Holds Some Facts Back.

At the time of the inquiry Harry D. Watts, vice president of James Stewart & Co., general contractors for the two buildings, said that the company had given the Ickes investigators all information requested regarding the postoffice annex but had declined information on the federal building upon the advice of the treasury department because no PWA money was involved therein.

"So far as our firm is concerned," said Mr. Watts, "there has been nothing improper or irregular in connection with either of these contracts. While it is true that some of the materials used in these buildings were purchased from Postmaster General Farley's building supplies company, there was no political intrigue whatever."

Mr. Farley's brother-in-law, Mr. Finnegan, said that the Farley company was supplying approximately $200,000 worth of cement, plaster, brick, and terra cotta blocks to the contractor and sub-contractors on the postoffice annex job and $185,000 worth for the federal building.

"We have been doing business with the James Stewart company through Harry Watts for years," said Mr. Finnegan. "However, we never have helped that company in a political way."

First Bids Rejected.

On the postoffice annex the treasury called for bids four times. The first set of bids was rejected when the appropriation was diverted to other work. On the second bids, the George F. Driscoll company of Brooklyn was low and the Stewart company second low. These bids were thrown out when the Stewart company charged that Driscoll was disqualified because he had not signed the President's reemployment agreement within the required time. On the third set of bids Driscoll was again low and Stewart was next low, but the bids again were thrown out. On the fourth bids, Stewart was low and was awarded the contract.

Rear Admiral C. J. Peoples, director of procurement for the treasury department, said the third bids were thrown out because of charges of inequity in calling for bids under two forms of specifications—one for the completed, the other for the incomplet-

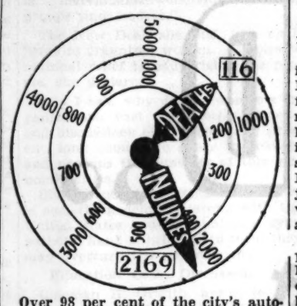
AVOIDABLE
Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile accidents are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

AUTOIST FACES QUIZ AS INJURED PEDESTRIAN DIES

An inquest into the death of Morris Friedman, 55 years old, 1850 Clifton Park avenue, who died early yesterday in his home, will be opened today. Friedman died of heart disease, which apparently developed from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile while he was walking at Douglas boulevard and Central Park avenue on Oct. 21.

Frank Sutphen, 26 years old, 2535 East 72d street, driver of the automobile, was notified to appear at the inquest. The death of Friedman brought to 141 the Cook county motor toll for 1935. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday the 1935 toll inside the city limits was 116 and the number of injured totaled 2,169.

Lawrence Skewes, 31 years old, 1511 Walnut avenue, Wilmette, a leather salesman, was seriously injured last night when his automobile was struck by a Chicago North Shore & Milwaukee railroad train at the Forest avenue crossing in Wilmette. The machine was wrecked and dragged for half a block. Skewes was taken to the Evanston hospital. Police said the crossing signals were working, but that the street was icy.

Two school teachers suffered only slight injuries last night when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into the side of a freight train on the Rock Island road at 159th street, Tinley Park. They are James A. Rickhoff, 24 years old, 14717 Leavitt street, Harvey, a teacher in the Washington school there, and E. G. Kich, 35 years old, 147th street and Western avenue, Blue Island, who teaches in the McKinley school at Dixmoor.

ed structure. Stewart had bid low on the incomplete. Driscoll low on the complete building.

The Driscoll company was the builder of the parcel post building in New York City. On that work Driscoll had declined to purchase materials from the Farley company and continued to do business instead with the J. P. Duffy company of Brooklyn.

John Lazia was an ex-convict, deputy political boss and dispenser of protection to gambling joints and other illegal resorts in Kansas City. In March, 1933, he was held to the grand jury on the charge of failing to report $125,000 of his income for tax purposes.

On May 12 Boss Pendergast wrote a letter to Mr. Farley in which he said that Lazia, "one of my chief lieutenants, has been in trouble with the income tax department for some time." Pendergast said he knew Lazia had been "jobbed because of his Democratic activities," presumably during the previous Republican administration.

What, if anything, Mr. Farley did in response to this letter is not clear. It does appear, however, that some influence operating before Mr. Farley received the letter from Pendergast had caused the attorney general to instruct the district attorney at Kansas City to halt action against Lazia. In the following September the grand jury insisted on indicting Lazia. He was convicted but was killed while his appeal was pending.

The assessment of government employés for contributions toward the liquidation of the Democratic National committee's deficit is being conducted by the "Democratic finance committee of the district of Columbia, Joseph J. Cotter, chairman." Mr. Cotter has sent out thousands of letters appealing for funds, on a letterhead bearing the name of Mr. Farley as chairman of the Democratic National committee.

Stamp Episode Stirs Ire.

The stamp episode recently was the subject of angry debate in the house. On behalf, he said, of 9 million stamp collectors, Representative Charles D. Millard [Rep., N. Y.] sought an investigation of Mr. Farley's gifts of stamps.

Mr. Farley, it appears, had autographed sheets of unperforated and ungummed Mother's day, national parks, and oher special stamps and presented them to President Roosevelt and Mr. Ickes, both enthusiastic stamp collectors, to Mrs. Roosevelt, Louis Howe, the President's confidential secretary, and to numerous other friends.

To philatelists these became extremely rare and valuable stamps, inasmuch as ordinarily it is only by inadvertence that stamps go out unperforated and ungummed, not to mention autographed by the the postmaster general.

When a Norfolk friend of Mr. Farley's sold his gift stamps for $20,000, a roar went up from the ranks of the philatelists. Mr. Farley said the gift to the Norfolk man "probably was a mistake."

The Democratic majority voted down the Millar resolution of investigation and Mr. Farley immediately announced that he would place on sale to philatelists stamps identical with those he gave away, thus depriving the gift stamps of any greater value than that accruing from the postmaster general's autograph.

Democrat, 97, Votes; Fails Only Once in 76 Years

Joseph Vorda, 1649 West 18th street, who has lived in what is now the Twenty-first ward for sixty-three of the ninety-seven years of his life, marched to the Sixteenth precinct polling place at 1856 South Ashland avenue yesterday and voted in the Democratic primary. A Democrat all his life, he has missed voting in only one election since he was 21 years old.

FOES OF PRESENT MAYORS WIN IN THREE SUBURBS

Primaries Held in Many Nearby Towns.

Results in the primary elections yesterday in Waukegan, Chicago Heights, and Harvey gave small comfort to the present administrations.

In Waukegan Mayor Peter W. Petersen was fourth man in the race for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself. Philip Meyer was the party choice for the office and will be opposed in the election by Mancel Talcott, Republican and former postmaster of the city.

Other Waukegan victors are: Police magistrate, Clarence Brown, Republican, and James Tiernan, Democrat; city clerk, John P. Wyllie, Republican, and Frank Wallin, Democrat; city treasurer, C. W. Berry, Republican, and Edward McDermott, Democrat.

Loss of Whiskers Pays.

In Chicago Heights Joseph Gannon, opponent of the present administration, received the highest number of votes in the mayoral primary with 3,881. John E. Thomas, the other nominee, received 3,453, and the third candidate, James Clark, 195. Carl L. Fiedler, candidate for commissioner, proved that the sacrifice of his whiskers last week for campaign purposes was justified. He ran second of the eight nominees for the four places on the city commission. Carl W. McGeehee and August I. Zeller were the choices for police magistrate.

Harvey voters gave Einar B. Bloom 2,650 votes for mayor and the incumbent, Frank Bruggemann, 2,262. Bloom, in his campaign, waged stern war on the present mayor's proposal to lease the Harvey water department to private capitalists. The Harvey candidates for police magistrate were Joseph S. Flaherty and William E. Tompkins.

Elgin Incumbent Leads Ticket.

Mayor Myron M. Lehman, with 4,738 votes, and Earle R. Kelley, with 3,926, were nominated in Elgin's mayoral race. Four sitting commissioners were renominated. A daylight saving proposition was approved, 8,467 to 4,603. The total number of votes cast, 13,491, set a primary record for Elgin.

In Highland Park the mayoral nominees are Renslow P. Sherer and William Dooley. Four sitting commissioners were nominated, but received fewer votes than Mrs. Florence T. Law and George Wallace Carr, allied with Sherer for a "new deal" for the commuting element in the city. Herman Schwery and Charles C. Buell were nominated for police magistrate.

For mayor of Downers Grove the choices were Henry C. Dicke and Walter C. Barber. Joseph V. Dieter and Earl Whidden won nominations for police magistrate.

With the count not quite completed, William A. Hennessy and George T. Jones, steel company official, appeared to have been nominated over seven other candidates for mayor of Joliet.

Largely Nonpartisan.

In Wheaton, Mayor W. H. Caldwell was renominated and will be opposed in the election by O. M. Olson. A. W. Bruhn and F. E. Herrick were nominated for police magistrate. Nominations, as in nearly all the suburbs, were on a nonpartisan basis.

James W. Mahaffay and E. J. Umlor were choices to run off the mayoral race in Palos Park. Lester F. Mahaffey and Carl Brink were nominees for police magistrate.

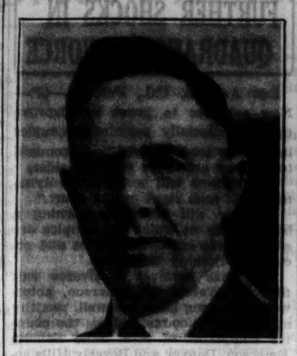
Forest Park's hard fought mayoral primary resulted in victory for Arthur H. Schuler and Charles R. Hussey, who will be in the runoff for the office in April.

In Glen Ellyn the ticket of the Civic Betterment party, headed by Walter M. Fowler for village president, was nominated without formal opposition.

Yesterday was the last day for candidates to file for municipal office in Evanston and Aurora. Three are seeking the Evanston mayoralty. They are Charles H. Bartlett, incumbent; Stanley Franzen and Harry Hagen.

Six candidates have filed for mayor of Aurora. Among them are the present mayor, Conrad Bjorseth, and two former mayors, Charles Greene and James A. Harley. There are 80 candidates for the 14 places as alderman.

OPPONENTS IN APRIL



Peter J. Brady (left), Democratic candidate for city clerk, and Gustave Brand, Democratic candidate for city treasurer.

8 CHICAGOANS ARRESTED AT JOLIET POLLS

Eight Chicago men were arrested yesterday when they allegedly tried to vote in the municipal primaries at Joliet.

The men identified themselves as Wilbur Sawliss, 4828 Adams street, secretary-treasurer of the Municipal Sanitary, Cinder, Sprinkler, Tractor Teamsters and Chauffeurs Helpers' union; Larry Monahan, 5056 Congress street, member of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters; Walter Tryos, 4915 South Troy avenue; James Mulvey, 1748 West 14th place; John Krol, 1822 West 15th street; William Young, 2119 South Homan avenue; Edward Patzelt, 1701 West 15th street, and John Casey, 4257 Jackson boulevard.

All were booked by the Joliet police on disorderly conduct charges.

Auto Club Warms Trafic Police with Hourly Coffee

The Illinois Automobile club revived yesterday the old practice of supplying trafic policemen who must stay at their posts during cold weather with hot coffee once an hour. With the approval of Commissioner Allman the club dispatched an automobile which made the rounds of the loop area serving coffee to the policemen throughout the day and evening. Club officials said the service would be given every cold day in the future.

INVESTORS TELL OF THEIR LOSS AT HUCKINS TRIAL

Interest Rate of 26 to 52 Per Cent Paid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Almost a score of witnesses testified in federal court today in the trial of Elmer S. Huckins, formerly a grocer of Hancock, Wis., that they had tumbled over themselves to give him their money to invest on his representation that he could earn from 26 to 52 per cent annual interest for them. Some of them received their interest at that rate for a while, they testified.

The government, which charges Huckins with using the mails to defraud, contends that he paid investors dividends out of their own capital and that when the heat was put on him by the postoffice department in 1929, the dividends stopped and the capital investment disappeared.

Vague About Earnings.

Vague about the sources of his earnings, the investors related that they believed it was from the manufacture and sale of cigar seconds on which he had a particularly favorable contract.

Huckins has been tried in Iowa courts and convicted, only to have the Supreme court reverse the verdicts. This is his first trial in the United States court. Huckins gave the appearance of being in failing health. He sat most of the day with his hands cupped about his ear, listening to the witnesses.

Mrs. Della Vanderboom, 521 North 32d street, testified she had given the payments from her late husband's insurance policy to Huckins to invest. Huckins told her, she testified, that he made $10 on each shipment of cigar seconds and he would divide, giving her half and keeping half the profits. She got 26 per cent dividends on $3,150 for two years, she said, and after that got neither dividends nor capital.

Tells of High Interest.

William J. Speas, Cedar Rapids, Ia., who formerly worked for the late George E. Huckins, son of the defendant, said he started with an investment of $600 and added to it until he and a friend had put in $18,750. He received 52 per cent interest at first, he testified.

Edward Stefan, Cedar Rapids, testified he invested $1,050. Other witnesses gave stories varying only in details and amounts invested.

UPROAR DOOMS "HELL WEEK" AT IOWA UNIVERSITY

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Fraternity "hell week" at the University of Iowa appeared doomed tonight as the result of public indignation and a university investigation of the fraternity initiation practices.

The inter-fraternity council met tonight with its officers committed to the policy of abandoning hell week.

The hell week "scandal" resulted from a letter by Mrs. Joseph Runner, wife of a university geology professor, whose son was ill following initiation at the Phi Gamma Delta house, to President Eugene A. Gilmore.

Mrs. Runner said her son and other fraternity pledges came to her home "in such a pitiable condition that I scarcely could bear to look at them. Their eyes were shrunken and bloodshot and their backs were a mass of black and blue blisters."

Dr. Chester I. Miller, university student health physician, said his department had treated only one case that could be attributed directly to hell week. This was the case of a pledge upon whom chloroform had been poured.

Two fraternities—Phi Delta Theta and Pi Kappa Alpha—already have announced abandonment of hell week. They said this was in keeping with the national policy of the fraternities.

U. S. CATTLEMAN MYSTERIOUSLY SLAIN IN MEXICO

Douglas, Ariz., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Over the mountainous country of Chihuahua, Mexico, the body of James Reagan, prominent American cattleman, was carried tonight toward Hachita, N. M., as word came from Mexico, D. F., that he had been slain in a ranch quarrel.

While authorities here awaited further details of the death, the American embassy in Mexico, D. F., was informed Reagan had been shot in a quarrel with J. G. Boyd at the latter's Las Veras, Chihuahua, ranch. The information came to the Mexican state department from the American consul at Juarez.

Chief of Police Percy Bowden of Douglas received first word of Reagan's death from Hilario Gabilondo, prominent Mexican cattleman, who said the American had been "assassinated" Monday night.

Reagan crossed the border here Friday en route to the Boyd ranch, where he was to receive a herd of 1,000 cattle. Gabilondo, Chief Bowden said, is a neighbor of Boyd.

MISSING REALTY DEALER FOUND IN BOWERY MISSION

Moses H. Gulesian Victim of Amnesia.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—On the Bowery wandered a man trying to remember who he was. He did not know the police of New York and half a dozen other states were searching for him, fearing he had been kidnaped or slain.

He did not know he was Moses H. Gulesian, 71, once a millionaire and still well-to-do, or that he had disappeared from his home in Newton, Mass., a week ago.

He knew he was hungry, though, he knew he hadn't a cent. He knew there was something familar about the street he was plodding along. He could not remember that the time he had tramped the Bowery was 52 years before, when he was a poor immigrant boy, jobless, broke and hungry, and had sought refuge in a mission. He came to the buiding which houses the Bowery mission. People were singing hymns inside, and the old fellow stopped to listen, frowning a little, trying to remember when he had been there before.

Sits with Hoboes.

He went into the box of a room with dingy walls and some twenty Bowery hobos sitting in chairs, singing hymns until it was time to eat. A woman was playing the music for them on a rheumatic piano.

He listened to the singing and after awhile he croaked a few words of some hymn he remembered from somewhere. After a long time he fumbled in his coat and took out some music. He clumped up to the piano where a relief worker, a Miss Shaw, was playing the hymns. He gave her the music and he said, "This is a nice song." He said, "Please, you will play this for me?" He blinked at her and he said, "my wife . . . yes, my wife wrote this."

Miss Shaw read the words to the men in the hall and then she played the music and they sang. The song was called "Washington."

The voices of the men, cracked and tuneless, were still singing the song when the stranger stood up and stared startled, like a man suddenly awakened, at the room and the people there. He was trembling.

Asks to Telephone.

The old fellow went to the lobby of the mission and he asked the night superintendent, Edward Small, if there was a pay telephone in the building. The superintendent told him he would find one at the corner drug store.

"I'm Moses Gulesian," the old man said. "I remember now. I must telephone my family. Yes, I remember now."

He told the superintendent he would come back, but he didn't. They didn't know there what had become of him until today press dispatches told how Moses Gulesian had returned to his wife in Newton after her song had made his amnesia-stricken brain remember who he was.

PLEDGE COURT FANS FURTHER SHOCKS IN QUADRANGLE DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—New evidence to prove or disprove that two socially prominent couples informally traded wives was promised tonight by attorneys for both sides.

One witness will be used "to dynamite this case right out of court."

Another will testify concerning a beach party at which the couples are said to have exchanged wives and occupied adjoining bedrooms.

The case involves a divorce suit filed by Walter W. Emerson, actor-writer, naming Barton Sewell, wealthy sportsman as co-respondent; the counter complaint of Mrs. Jane Scholtz Emerson, Denver and Beverly Hills society matron, naming Mrs. Leah Clampitt Sewell as her husband's co-respondent; the $100,000 suit for alienation of affections brought by Mrs. Sewell, prominent in social circles here, against Mrs. Emerson.

POLICE AND U. S. TO VISIT EVERY TAVERN IN CITY

Starting this morning, a policeman and a federal agent are to visit each of the 8,661 taverns in Chicago to determine whether they are complying with revenue laws.

Capt. William J. O'Brien announced last night that fifty policemen would assemble in the new postoffice building at 9 a. m. to accompany the men of the department of internal revenue, who have been making a survey of Chicago's liquor sellers. Only taverns will be visited. It is estimated that the survey will take two months. To facilitate the check, the city has been dividend into 123 sections.

A preliminary survey made a few weeks ago by E. C. Yellowley, head of the federal alcohol tax unit, indicated that 20 per cent of the taverns were law violators. An even larger percentage was found in the federal survey of New York City.

Crowd Sees Man Plunge Off Washington St. Span

Scores of passersby saw a man climb the railing of the Washington street bridge last evening and leap into the Chicago river. Bridgetenders John Murphy and Daniel Holmes sought to recover the body at the Madison street bridge, but it sank as their boat approached.

DEBATE SOCIAL THEORIES' USE IN U. S. SCHOOLS

Educators Attack, Defend Radicals.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Academic freedom was defined today for 2,500 of the nation's educators as "the freedom of the learner to learn, not the freedom of the teacher to teach."

The definition was offered by Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education. He presided at a "trial" on public education at the sixty-fifth annual convention of the department of superintendence of the National Education association. The "jury" consisted of educators, each of whom expressed his views on public education in the changing social world.

Would Restrict Doctrins.

The advocacy of new social doctrins in the classroom was vigorously attacked by Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, Washington, D. C.

"As a superintendent," he said, "I should like to have help in defining what that new social order is for which the schools are to prepare. Teachers should confine themselves to giving pupils a clear idea of existing social order, some understanding of its strength and weaknesses."

One prediction of social change came from Prof. Jesse N. Newlon of Columbia university. He declared capitalism is "not a solution" to modern economic problems. He predicted that "we are going toward collectivism until we achieve security for all Americans."

Wants Wider Latitude.

Dr. Newlon pleaded for the freedom of teachers to speak their minds in the classrooms and declared that teachers are among the least liberal of professional people. He warned that "powerful forces" were at work to destroy the freedom of the schools. He declared that teachers can not be neutral when "Fascist rule by some privileged group or government of the people and by the people" are at stake.

Opposing Dr. Newlon was W. W. Theisen, assistant superintendent of schools of Milwaukee, Wis. He declared:

"If we deem it our function to undermine the social order, we owe it to the public to make an announcement of our intentions."

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools of Chicago, and A. J. Stoddard, superintedent of schools of Providence, R. I., are associate nominees for president.

STORK LEAVES BOYS TO THREE COUPLES OF MOTION PICTURES

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The stork paid visits to three motion picture families today, leaving three baby boys.

A 6½ pound boy was born to Andy Clyde, film comedian, and his wife, the former Elsie Tarron, actress.

The other boy was delivered to Frank McHugh, screen comedian, and his wife, the former Dorothy Spencer of Hartford, Conn. The baby, named Michael Spencer, weighed 7 pounds 3 ounces.

WOMEN'S PARLEY OPENS; SECURITY PLAN IS WEIGHED

2,000 Club Leaders from Midwest Attend.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

More than 2,000 club women from Illinois and seven other central states attended the three sessions of the second annual Conference on Current Problems which opened yesterday in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House. The conference is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Despite the snowstorm, the ballroom was crowded and the balconies filled to hear speakers in a new sort of program for women, one bristling with difficult economic and social subjects.

What the 12,000,000 organized women of this country might accomplish under coöperation, the forces that are keeping them apart, the social security proposals of the administration, the effect of the depression on education costs, medical prospects, political flames in Europe, were among the varied problems presented to these club women, representing many federated and nonfederated groups. The discussions are to be printed later and made available for local programs during the year.

Mrs. Poole Discusses Security.

The conference will continue today with sessions on social welfare and economics. Among the speakers will be Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, the Rev. John B. Hubbard, Rabbi Solomon Goldman, the Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, and Henry P. Chandler.

The problem of social security was presented by Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

"There is no doubt," she said, "but that a new day is facing the United States. We have prided ourselves for many years that the economic stagnation which has from time to time laid its stultifying hand upon Europe could not reach to the United States.

"But we know we have reached the saturation point in finding new economic paths to explore, and, like the rest of the world, we shall be faced from time to time with the problems of many people out of work and those approaching old age with no visible means of support."

U. S. Program Is Outlined.

Without advocating any particular method of meeting these problems, Mrs. Poole outlined the proposals of the administration bills on old age pension and unemployment insurance. She told of what had been done in this line in twenty-eight states. Now is an opportune time to face the problem, she said.

Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson of New York City, who has been studying women's organizations for forty years, spoke frankly to the women on what she called their failure to coöperate. She said there are 12,000,000 organized women in this country.

"If they were united in a single objective," she said, "they could work miracles. They might even put men and women back to work and do away with huge relief rolls. They could clean up local politics, turn out rascals, and put honest men and women into office.

"Never Will," She Declares.

"They could stamp out organized crime. But they are not coöperating and they never will. One reason is that women's groups do not know each other. Perhaps the greatest obstacle in the pathway of our progress is individualism—individualism of groups and leaders."

The New Deal, she said, is a challenge to organized women. Wholesale national relief is pauperizing the people, she declared.

"So I ask, why do not women's organizations cast aside book reviews and discussions of art, past and present, long enough to study the causes and perhaps the remedies of this economic crisis."

She warned that youth feels there is something definitly wrong with the United States and that unless a sympathetic hand is held out to them they may overturn the government.

Education Costs Discussed.

Coleman R. Griffith, associate professor of educational psychology of the University of Illinois, discussed the costs of education during the depression. He saw the shadow of the dollar sign on education.

In 1933, he said, we spent more for tobacco than for elementary and secondary education. The amount spent for candies, chewing gum and soft drinks almost equals the total cost of education.

"The question which society has to answer," he said, "is whether or not $600 is too high a price to pay for eight years of elementary training. A package of cigarets a day and one moving picture show a week would more than cover this item for each child."

Prince Lowenstein Speaks.

Miss Dema Harshbarger, president of the Civic Concert Service, discussed on women and the radio.

"Eighty per cent of those who absorb radio programs are women," she said. "You'll get the programs you want if you express yourselves."

Prince Hubertus Friedrich Loewenstein of Germany, a leader of the anti-Nazis, and Dr. Charles Phifer, president of the Chicago Medical society, were other speakers in the evening.

Prince Loewenstein spoke on "The Tinder Box of Europe." This tinder box, he said, is Germany under Hitler. If war comes, he said, America will be involved.

Says Hitler Can't Give Up.

"We failed to put Hitler in prison," he said. "So he has had to show a forced unity. That unity has no more reality than a unity forced upon America by Al Capone. This situation in Germany is a real danger. Hitler must have an atmosphere to overcome opposition. The whole education in Germany is in preparation for war, so that the people will forget their inner political difficulties.

"Hitler cannot stop. He must carry on to the bitter end. That this end shall not become the end of Europe needs the union of all the peaceful forces of the world. In Germany there are peaceful, democratic forces. The German army is the exponent of these. I hope it will set an end to this situation in the near future."

Tells Progress in Medicine.

Dr. Phifer summarized 40 years of medical research of peculiar interest to women. In the old days, he said, obstetrics and diseases of children were often linked together. Now, he said, each class A medical school has well organized departments in obstetrics as well as departments for prenatal care and post-natal care. This situation is repeated in each of the class A hospitals. He reviewed the progress made in many diseases, emphasizing the important rôle that the endocrine glands play in functional disorders, and how the glandular activity is controled.

Art was discussed earlier by Dudley Watson, lecturer, and by George Meyercord, president of the Meyercord company. Mr. Meyercord emphasized the need of the study of the practical on the part of industrial designers.

"Though we have no real industrial art school in this country," he said, "we have more industrial designers than any other country. These men and women who have found their forte in industrial designing are people of enterprise who may play a great part in closing the gulf between our tremendous capacity to produce goods and our oft-times faulty system which fails to consume them."

Debate on "Equal Rights."

Among the products taking to design, he said, are aluminum ware, cash registers, clocks, washing machines, stoves, refrigerators, and baby carriages. These were formerly known as the "artless industries."

The proposed equal rights amendment to the constitution was debated by two women lawyers, Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Raymond S. Simons of Highland Park. The debate hinged on the question of method rather than goal.

Conservation legislation was reviewed for the women by E. W. Tinker, Milwaukee, regional forester.

The short story form was discussed by Mrs. Margaret Weymouth Jackson, Hoosier writer. In writing, she said, "we must never turn away from what the heart knows and the ancient race lore of all people have accepted, that life follows an inevitable pattern of compensation and is governed, always, by unchanging principle."

Welcomed by Mayor Kelly.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly welcomed the clubwomen to Chicago. He told them about the youthful crime problems here and assured them that the police department was run on an efficiency basis, with no political interference.

Two Candidates for Women's Club Chief Great Friends

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Two friendly rivals around whom much attention is centering at the conference are Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson of Tulsa, Okla., and Dr. Josephine Peirce of Lima, O. They are the only candidates for the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to succeed Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole at the federation's triennial convention in June at Detroit. "No two candidates ever were thrown together so much," Mrs. Lawson said at lunch at the Chicago Woman's club yesterday. "She is one of my best friends."

Mrs. Margaret Weymouth Jackson, novelist and short story writer, of Spencer, Ind., one of yesterday's speakers, who came to the conference with her publisher husband, Charles Carter Jackson, read excerpts from a letter she received yesterday from her young daughter Ann. "Dear mother," read one. "I broke my glasses and I ruined my frames. They will cost you $14. Martha was helping Charles put his telephone out to the garage and the wire broke, and something flew out and busted the street lamp. It will cost you $5. . . . Charles lost his cap and is wearing Martha's blue beret, and they have been fighting about it, but not much. We are being very good. We have helped with the dishes every night and only broken three things."

Dudley Crafts Watson found out what the conference women thought about modern art. He was telling them how a prominent lawyer commended the old masterpieces in the Art institute and then said: "As for the modern things, they could be moved two blocks east for all I care." The women applauded. Mr. Watson flushed. "I was going to tell you that I felt sorry for him," he said. "But now I'll tell you I feel sorry for you."

Last night's audience proved that modern clubwomen consider clothes important. The gray haired Mrs. Sears R. McLean, of Holland, president of the Michigan State Federation of Women's clubs, was slender and distinguished in a black evening gown which displayed most of a perfectly sculptured back. Dr. Peirce of Lima, O., appeared regal in a gown and jacket of deep, soft blue, which set off her graceful carriage. Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, who at noon wore plum colored silk, appeared last night in black velvet, with a white lace shawl.

A man wearing a baffled expression emerged from the Palmer House grand ballroom yesterday afternoon as George R. Meyercord was addressing the club women on "Business Looks at Art." He was asked what puzzled him. "I guess I'm in the wrong place," said the man, who was M. I. Stanffer, 5455 Ellis avenue. "I'm looking for a produce meeting."

As they ate their dessert at the Chicago Woman's club luncheon for Mrs. Poole three women were discussing the morning's debate between two woman lawyers on the equal rights amendment. "The argument for equal rights was wonderful, but I think the women agreed more with the other woman's point of view," said Mrs. Arthur Osterholm of the club. "Yes," said Mrs. Edward C. Higgins, another member, "I don't think club women are feminists these days. They're content to be just women. And they're more clever about getting what they want than when they were feminists." Another member, Mrs. John Hoefels, spoke up. "Women and men can never be on equal terms, so why legislate about it?" she said. "Nevertheless, it's still a man's world, and I wish I were one."

What a husband who is an expert on measuring the human mind and its workings thinks of club work for women was revealed by his clubwoman wife, Mrs. Johnson O'Connor, who in her own name, Eleanor Manning, is an architect in Boston. She was at the luncheon yesterday with her mother-in-law, Mrs. John O'Connor, former president of the Chicago Woman's club. Johnson O'Connor is making aptitude tests of pupils in the Country Day school, Winnetka. He is associated with the human engineering laboratory of Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J. Said the young Mrs. O'Connor: "My husband says that I am of an objective type of mind, and that I should do club work and have many social contacts. He himself is subjective or introvert, interested only in research. But he thinks it fine that I am a former president of both the College club of Boston and the Boston Altrusa."

D. A. R. CANDIDATE DENIES INDORSING 'THE RED NETWORK'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—An attempt to prevent Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt from becoming a D. A. R. campaign issue was made today by Mrs. William A. Becker, candidate for president general of that organization.

Apparently seeking to check a move by her opponent, Mrs. Becker said she had not meant a mere acknowledgment of a gift book, "The Red Network"—which called Mrs. Roosevelt a radical—to be used as an endorsement of that publication. She said a blurb had been used on the jacket of the book without her permission.

STUDENTS SCORN PRANKS PLEDGE; STRIKE RESUMES

Edwardsville, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—One hundred and two Livingston High school students resumed their strike today when fourteen boys were denied admission to the school after refusing to sign an agreement to comply with school regulations and to refrain from pranks.

The break between Principal Vernon G. Mays occurred after a volley ball net was tied into knots which the boys refused to remove.

BABY RECOVERING AFTER EATING 32 SLEEPING PILLS

Barbara Jean Worth, 2 years old, 8349 Rhodes avenue, has been ill with a glandular disorder, for which a physician prescribed three sleeping tablets a day. On Sunday while her mother, Mrs. William Worth, was out of the bedroom, the baby took the box from a shelf, and swallowed 32 of the tablets. Mrs. Worth promptly rushed Barbara Jean to the Mercy hospital. Physicians treated her and last night she was reported recovering. Her father is a refrigerating engineer.

BE SAFE WITH WEED AMERICAN BAR-REINFORCED TIRE CHAINS

349,830 drivers took chances, got into accidents at intersections in 1933. Killed 7,450, injured 402,800 more. Most of these accidents were caused by inability to stop short of the "Safety Zone." Failure to use tire chains when roads are slippery causes more accidents than any other mechanical defect, even more than defective brakes. (See "The Great American Gamble," issued by Travelers Insurance Company.) 1934 was even worse.

Can you stop safely in snow? Do you know that Weed Chains enable a car to stop in half the distance of bare tires? Do you know that wet rubber slips? Safeguard yourself with Weed American Tire Chains, double grip and double wear.

BARRY FLINCHES AS STATE JABS; PAL TESTIFIES

Karatz, Too, Denies Any Part in Bank Fraud.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul lawyer, took the witness stand late yesterday afternoon in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg to follow up the fraud denial of his co-defendant, David Henry [Long Count] Barry, noted principally as the referee of the second Dempsey-Tunney fight. Karatz and Barry are on trial charged with being accessories before the fact to the embezzlement of $54,473.28 from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Jackson boulevard.

Former Attorney Karatz denied that he had any knowledge of the peculations of Otto Van Derck, 23 years old, who was a clerk in the bank, and Joseph Baiata, former convict, who has pleaded guilty to the charge. Van Derck testified as a state's witness that he juggled accounts to cover up overdrafts of Baiata, Barry, and Karatz.

Object of Putative Conspiracy.

The prosecution charges that the ultimate aim of the conspiracy wherein the young bank clerk was used as a "tool" was to gain control of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, Ill., a $13,000,000 company.

Karatz followed a line of defense differing from the contention of Barry, who said he was a "boob" in Baiata's hands because of his inexperience in business. The former lawyer, when question about checks that were withheld or about the shady business ventures of Baiata, invariably answered:

"I did not, I did not. I know nothing about that."

The session of the trial yesterday was lively while Barry, who was on the stand most of the afternoon, engaged during cross-examination in a sparring match with Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy.

The prosecutor admitted, after he had finished what court attachés said was a good job of cross-examination, that he still remembered the record fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney at Soldiers' field. Healy, a Dempsey fan, acted with other members of the University of Chicago football team, as ushers at that fight.

Way Below the Belt.

Several times during the examination Barry appealed to Judge Feinberg to save him from the relentless questions of his youthful adversary. The only solace was the admonition from the judge and his own lawyer, W. W. Smith, to answer the questions.

"You are known as Long Count Barry, are you not?" shouted Prosecutor Healy as his first question.

The defense attorneys jumped up with objections and asked that a mistrial be declared. The mistrial motion was denied, but Barry was saved the embarrassment of answering the question.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you were only paid $35 a week when you started to work in the tavern at 112 West Madison street? A.—Mr. Healy, your voice is unnecessarily loud.

Q.—Answer the question. A.—That is not the fact.

Q.—Well you say that your big name was supposed to help build up the tavern, but that you never watched the profits. Is that correct? A.—Your questions are leading and insinuating, Mr. Healy.

"You are represented by counsel, Mr. Barry. Let your lawyer make any objections necessary," the judge warned the witness. "You are to answer the questions."

More Efforts to Clinch.

Q.—You mean to tell us that you never examined the accounts of any of the enterprises? A.—That is right.

Q.—That is true, you say, even though your contract called for a percentage of the profits? A.—Mr. Healy, are you being fair?

The youthful prosecutor badgered Barry with questions about his signature on the various checks in evidence. He either answered, "I most decidedly did not," or else he did not remember the incident and said, "It is quite possible, but I do not remember it."

Although admitting it was his signature on the various checks, Barry insisted he signed them in blank, including $16,000 in four checks.

The trial will be resumed this morning with Karatz finishing his direct testimony. It was indicated that the trial might be finished up by Thursday night or Friday at the latest.

Astronomical Calendar Used by Columbus Found

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The astronomical almanac which enabled Christopher Columbus to discover the new hemisphere in 1492 is claimed to have been found at Seville, Spain, by Ernest Zinner, professor of astronomy at Erlangen university. The almanac was issued at Koenigsberg in 1481 by Johann Mueller. The pages contain marginal notes which Zinner believes Columbus wrote, thereby challenging the theory that it was the work of the astronomer Zacuto which made possible the discovery of the Americas.

'Pants' Robber Disrobes Grocer; Flees with $109

Removing the trousers of their victims to prevent pursuit appears to have become the usual procedure among robbers here. In the last two months more than a dozen such robberies have occurred. Charles Libermann was the latest victim last night. A gunman held him up in his delicatessen and grocery store at 1251 Rosemont avenue. Taking the grocer's pants, the robber removed $109 from the cash register and fled. He dropped the trousers a block away.

Little Brown Books to Rule Lives of German Laborers

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Little brown books detailing information about themselves will henceforth regulate the lives of German laborers and enable the government to control absolutely the labor market. The reich cabinet decreed today that possession of these little volumes after April 1 is mandatory, under penalty of imprisonment. The books will be considered official passes for placing workers and training them to prevent their unauthorized moving about.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The enigmatic figure of Sir Basil Zaharoff, munitions maker and Europe's "man of mystery," was introduced today into the trial before Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer and a jury of Mrs. Wilma E. Gould's $500,000 conspiracy suit.

Mrs. Gould charges that Harry Gerguson, better known as "Prince Michael Romanoff," was hired to compromise her so her husband, Edward B. Gould, a manufacturer at Seneca Falls, N. Y., could sue for divorce. Today she was cross-examined as to whether she herself had not intended to divorce her husband so that she could marry the aged and fabulously wealthy munitions king. She readily admitted an acquaintance with Sir Basil at Monte Carlo, but denied she had intended to marry him.

Met In Monte Carlo.

Mrs. Gould testified that she met Sir Basil, reputed as a wire puller behind the diplomatic screens of Europe, when she went to Monte Carlo after her husband left her in Paris in 1926. She gently corrected Leon M. Prince, defense attorney, when he asked if Sir Basil was known as the "mystery man of Monte Carlo."

"He is known as the mystery man of the world," she said, recalling that she had dined frequently with Zaharoff and his daughter.

"Were you going back to New York to get a divorce from Mr. Gould to marry Sir Basil?" Mr. Prince asked.

"I was not," said Mrs. Gould with emphasis.

The testimony regarding the munitions king came at the conclusion of a day in which Mr. Prince questioned Mrs. Gould relentlessly on the details of her past life, and introduced a letter in which she outlined her views on life and on the need for every woman to have "a good lift up from a man who has money to burn."

Read Letter to Blonde.

The letter, sent from Monte Carlo in 1929, to Gale Wendel, a blonde entertainer who was addressed in the letter as "My Dear, Sweet 'Lasses Candy," invited Miss Wendel to come to Europe "to plan out something and make a cleanup in a short time."

Mrs. Gould wrote that she could not "stand the women here; they are all a rotten lot." As an inducement to her friend she recounted that "over here you will have a Rolls Royce, ermine, and jewels, instead of having to walk to the subway and worrying your pretty head over an apartment where to rest your head."

The letter was signed "Billie," which Mrs. Gould said had been her nickname for years.

Questioned About Early Life.

Mr. Prince questioned Mrs. Gould especially about her early life in New Orleans and later in Chicago. She said she had not seen her child by her first marriage, in New Orleans, since 1912.

Justice Lauer dismissed the case as against Mrs. Anna Gould, sister-in-law of the plaintif. The remaining defendants are Norman J. Gould, the plaintif's brother-in-law; Ellwood W. Kemp Jr., an attorney, and Gerard Luisi, an investigator. Mrs. Gould's husband is now in a sanitarium.

ALGERIANS HOLD A BOSTON TEA PARTY WITH WINE

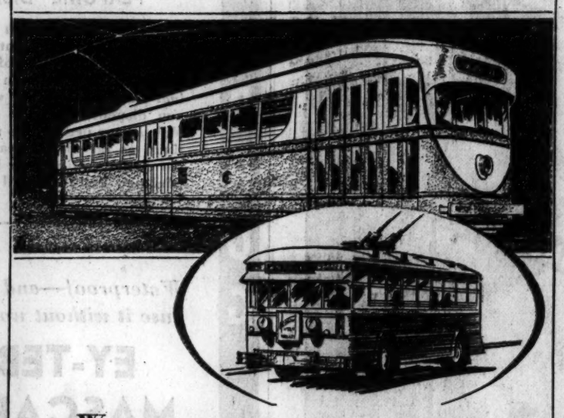
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 26.—Fresh indications that social unrest is seething in France's north African empire as a result of economic difficulties were told today in a dispatch from the port of Algiers, where 3,000 dock workers wrecked a warehouse, dumped sixty barrels of wine and loads of provisions into the sea, and tried to wreck a couple of boats.

That dispatch and an earlier one telling of jobless rioters storming the town hall at Mostaganem, department of Oran, coincided with the decision of the council of ministers this morning approving a voyage of investigation to Algeria by Minister of Interior Marcel Regnier. He will sail for Africa on March 3.

The trouble at Algiers today was caused by the bringing into service of the tanker Bacchus, which is equipped with pumps able to take on a cargo of wine quickly without the need of hogshead carriers. The dock workers cut the mooring ropes and pump hoses of the Bacchus, plundered the warehouse, and dumped wine, a crane, and other equipment into the sea. They tried to board the liner Timgad, but Capt. Thomas succeeded in getting up the gangplank. Troops restored order.

Chicago leads in transportation pioneering



WHEN the Chicago Surface Lines first began operating buses as feeders for the rail lines, it was not satisfied with the standard type of bus. The engine sticking out in front took up too much street space for the number of passengers accommodated.

So there was developed and put into service a bus with two engines within the body, thus utilizing for passengers all of the street space occupied by the bus.

Then came the trolley bus, not unlike the new-type gas bus, but driven by electric motors. And again, in 1930, the Surface Lines pioneered, installing on the northwest side the largest trolley bus system in the world.

Last year, utilizing the knowledge obtained by more than three years of research, the Surface Lines ordered two new street cars of radically new design. Quiet, smooth in operation, speedy, providing comforts never afforded street car riders before, they are revolutionizing ideas of equipment standards. They are in service in Chicago streets, under observation of engineers who will determine from them how to build Chicago's street cars in the future.

Late last year, also, four new buses with radically different motors and other striking improvements were purchased and put into service.

Thus, in the separate fields of the bus, trolley bus and street car, the Chicago Surface Lines is leading the way.

The management is looking ahead to the time when the settlement of the traction question will make it possible further to improve its facilities by adding new units and improving old equipment.

The pioneering that has been done will be invaluable.

A SINGLE DAY'S absence may mean serious loss of business or of an important contact.

How many times has your secretary had to cancel your appointments because you were laid up with a bad cold?

An air-conditioned office will help keep you fit, winter and summer. It will step up the efficiency of your employes and reduce time lost because of winter ailments and summer discomfort.

Tribune Tower is one of the few completely air-conditioned office buildings in America. Winter and summer, air is cleaned, humidified, and cooled or heated according to standards recommended by medical authorities.

Installed in 1934 at a cost of approximately $400,000, the air-conditioning system in Tribune Tower has conclusively demonstrated its value to the Chicago Tribune and to tenants in Tribune Tower.

Air conditioning is but one of the many advantages which tenants in this centrally located building enjoy. Offices in Tribune Tower are clean, sunlit and quiet. Elevators are of the latest express type. Maintenance and general service are unexcelled. Ample parking facilities are close by.

POLICE PATROL BISCUIT STRIKE N. Y. 'WAR ZONE'

Riots Common Thing as Reds Direct Walkout.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—An amazing and significant spectacle was presented today in the heart of Manhattan. One hundred and ten policemen set up a "war zone" extending over an area of several square blocks which surrounds the plant of the National Biscuit company plant.

All trafic was stopped from entering the area. No person without a police pass or credentials showing he had business in the vicinity was permitted to pass the blue uniformed sentries.

For seven weeks a battle has been waged in the "war zone." Each day sluggings, stabbings, and scores of broken heads have been recorded on the police blotter.

Many Seized in Riots.

Hourly the neighborhood resounds to the whine of ambulance sirens. Nightly the cells of the local police station are filled with prisoners captured during the rioting.

In any other city in the land this general violence in a strike on a large concern would be accompanied by much publicity. But New York apparently has become so accustomed to strikes and disorder that only a few lines now and then in the papers have recorded this walkout.

The strikers are under the nominal leadership of the heads of the Inside Bakery Workers' Federal union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Reds Direct Strike.

Actually, it was learned, the communist party is directing the strikers. At a meeting of the New York district of the communist party of the United States, according to an announcement in the official organ of the party, a resolution was adopted directing "all units and organizations under communist leadership to give full support to the N. B. C. strikers in every way possible." The last phrase is noteworthy.

The strike is for higher wages, shorter hours and "better working conditions," according to union members. The company asserted it could not afford to meet the demands of the strikers and hired non-union men to take the place of the 6,000 who walked out.

Trouble immediately started and the daily warfare ever since Jan. 3 has kept the police department busy.

"They'll Punch Hell Out of You."

To a reporter who insisted upon passing the police line today, one mounted officer warned:

"They'll punch the hell out of you if you go in there. Those pickets manhandle any stranger they see on the theory that he's looking for a job or is working in the plant."

While the communist newspapers in the city carry daily stories shrieking of "police brutality," the orders of the police, it was declared at the local station, are simply to prevent assaults upon workers coming to and leaving the factory. Many a policeman has been carried away in an ambulance after attempting to perform this duty.

"Mass picketing" is the new phrase in the communist organs. On several occasions at least 2,000 men in close order have swept forward, according to the police, and the comparatively few officers opposing the rush have been trampled underfoot.

The picketing has been extended to stores which carry products of the company. A number of storekeepers have complained that their windows were smashed when they displayed wares made by the biscuit company.

Many Other Troubles.

In addition to this strike and the recent elevator operators' strike, there are a number of other labor troubles facing the worried citizens of the nation's metropolis.

There are strikes on two of the city's grocery chain store systems. The clothing trade always has several strikes in progress or impending in its various branches. A great mass meeting of "white collar workers" has been called under the auspices of the communist party to demand a 30 hour week and a minimum weekly wage of $21.

Mayor La Guardia and other city officials are much harassed by these events. The mayor has displayed an abrupt change of front in the last year in regard to strikes in the city.

When he went into office, he announced that police would be instructed to permit strikers to engage in any demonstrations which they might deem necessary.

His many pronouncements on the subject undoubtedly, in the opinion of many observers, encouraged the strong radical element in the city to adopt a program of violence.

Now, appalled at the extremes to which the strikers in many instances have gone, the mayor has called upon the police to use stern methods in quelling disorder.

AIR LINE HELD LIABLE IN PASSENGER'S DEATH IN SPITE OF CONTRACT

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—In affirming a judgment for $50,000 obtained by Peggy C. Conklin against the Canadian-Colonial Airways, Inc., as damages for the death of her husband in an airplane crash, the Court of Appeals today ruled on the liability of common carriers, even though the passenger had signed a contract limiting recovery in the event of death or disability.

"Is it the law of this state that a common carrier of passengers," Chief Judge Frederick E. Crane asked in his opinion, "can refuse to carry them unless they stipulate on contract that the carrier shall not be liable for its own negligence or that of its employés? This state has never gone that far," he wrote.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

CLEANERS' TRUCK ATTACKED AFTER CRASH WITH CAR

Orvis Jayne, 629 South Ashland avenue, was charged with malicious mischief yesterday after his automobile collided at Broadway and Leland avenue with a delivery truck of the Peacock Cleaners and Dyers.

The truck, driven by William Thompson and carrying two policemen, had just left the company's offices at 4744 North Racine avenue, which has been picketed by the Cleaners, Pressers, and Dyers' union since the walkout of 42 of their members early last week. After the collision the truck was attacked by several persons and was badly damaged.

Jayne was booked at the Town Hall station on complaint of Edward A. Fink, president of the Peacock company, who attributed the attack to union trouble.

John Somora, 40 years old, 5831 Newport avenue, a coal driver for the Spencer Brothers company, 4618 Belmont avenue, was fired upon by three men in an auto at Grand and Kostner avenue yesterday while he was making a delivery trip. It was the only violence reported during the day in connection with the strike of the Chicago Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Helpers' union, so-called "outlaw" group. The strike was called Feb. 18 against Chicago and suburban coal dealers.

Sheriffs Plan Meeting to Discuss Proposed Laws

Sheriff Lawrence A. Doolittle of Lake county, who is president of the Illinois State Sheriffs' association, announced yesterday that a meeting of the organization will be held tomorrow and Friday in Springfield. Proposed bills affecting the law enforcement agencies of the state will be discussed, Doolittle said, including one to allow sheriffs who now serve single four year terms to succeed themselves; abolishment of grand juries and of the coroner system, and formation of a non-political state police force.

ROBBER SHOOTS SHOP EMPLOYE.

Ernest Crisp, 46 years old, colored, an employé of the shop at 843 Harrison street, was shot in the body yesterday when he interrupted a robber who was threatening the owner, Alec Blitstein. The bandit escaped.

CONFEREES MEET HORNER TODAY ON TAX FOR RELIEF

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The problem of determining from what source the state can collect 36 millions annually for unemployment relief will be tackled again tomorrow at a conference between Gov. Henry Horner and the house and senate executive committees.

Following conference last week, the committee members were given data showing eight sources from which revenue could be obtained. They were asked to study the memoranda in an effort to report tomorrow which taxes they favor for raising the funds.

To leave the committee members free to attend the conference, the house and senate, both of which met late today in perfunctory sessions, adjourned until 4 p. m. tomorrow. The senate did no business.

One new bill, introduced in the house by Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill [Rep., Downers Grove], would abolish the Illinois emergency relief commission. Cash relief would be administered, under terms of this bill, by county boards.

Another bill, reintroduced by Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville], would prohibit the printing of the communist party label on ballots. This bill originally was introduced at the 1931 session at the request of Congressman Hamilton Fish's committee that was investigating "reds," but in the jam of bills at the end of that session was not passed.

Philadelphia Woman Gives Birth to 2d Set of Twins

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Birth of two sets of twins in ten months to Mrs. Charles Connor, waiter's wife, was announced today at the Women's hospital. The first twins, Hubert and John, were born April 27, 1934. The second set were born Saturday, one weighing 5 pounds 9 ounces, and the other 5 pounds 2 ounces.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Back from Panama Cruise

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late President, returned to New York today after a six weeks' cruise to Guatemala and Panama. Met at the pier by her son Kermit, she went to the Roosevelt home in Oyster Bay.

AN APOLOGY

to our many thousand customers for our failure to deliver your garments. We assure you that it has been through no fault of our own and ask your patience until an authoritative investigation of the strike called by the Cleaners and Dyers and Pressers Union, Local No. 17742, has been made.

AGAIN with the assistance of the Chicago Police Department we attempted on Monday, Feb. 25th and on Tuesday, Feb. 26th, to make deliveries. Our trucks were wrecked on both days, which prevented us from serving our customers.

We are determined to continue our fight for fair and reasonable prices for quality dry cleaning, and are asking for City, County, State, and Federal investigation.

"_it should practically do away with harsh laxatives!"

Eaten regularly, 3 cakes a day, this new Yeast really CORRECTS constipation... thus also correcting many related troubles

THERE'S a new way of treating constipation now that doctors call "the greatest advance in years against this trouble." It is a new fresh yeast developed by an eminent American scientist ... called Fleischmann's XR Yeast.

As Dr. Zimmer, famous specialist (at right), says: "The cases I treated with this new 'strain' of yeast showed marked improvement—with normal evacuations."

Fleischmann's XR Yeast doesn't give you just temporary relief, but really "normalizes" your whole digestive tract. Your food digests more easily, wastes pass out regularly ... your blood is purified. Such related ills as stomach troubles, lack of appetite, bad skin are corrected in most cases.

You feel better, look better! Fleischmann's XR Yeast also helps you ward off colds by supplying the new "anti-infective" Vitamin A ... and Vitamins B, D and G, too. It's the greatest vitamin food.

If you're now taking cathartics, cut them out gradually as the yeast "regulates" you.

Eat 3 cakes every day, plain or dissolved in ½ glass of water—a half-hour before meals. At grocers, restaurants and soda fountains.

DR. ARTHUR ZIMMER is head of the clinic for internal diseases of a very important hospital and member of important medical societies. He says: "I experimented with the new XR yeast in my hospital. Not only constipation, but related symptoms such as skin eruptions and nervousness were relieved ... It is a great discovery ... should end the cathartic habit for millions."

TEN DAY TERM IN JAIL STARTED BY MACCRACKEN

Phones for 'Appointment' to Enter Cell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—"Hello, Ches, old timer, would it be convenient for you to lock me up in jail at 3:45 this afternoon?"

Thus a would-be prisoner today telephoned to his elusive jailer and asked to be imprisoned for 10 days. And there ended the last act of the famous comedy team of Jurney and MacCracken.

Chesley Jurney is sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, a portly gentleman given to tailed coats and carnations in his buttonhole. William P. MacCracken Jr. is the former assistant secretary of commerce for aviation whom the Supreme court ruled must spend 10 days in the District of Columbia jail for contempt of the senate in connection with the last year's air mail investigation.

So Jurney Arranges It.

After alternately dodging and chasing Jurney for a year, after fighting imprisonment all the way up to the Supreme court, MacCracken today ended it all by telephoning Jurney and asking to be jailed.

Scorning handcuffs, patrol wagons, and such paraphernalia as unbecoming among friends, Officer Jurney merely made an appointment—as though arranging to have cocktails together—to meet "Bill" in front of the jail at 3:45 p. m.

Prisoner MacCracken, lacking the guidance usually furnished on such occasions, was late for the appointment. He had had trouble finding the jail. For fifteen minutes he searched for the lockup, but at 4 p. m. Jurney, after a year of hide and seek, finally had stowed MacCracken away in a cell, as was the will of the senate.

Play Hide and Seek.

The antics of MacCracken and Jurney began a year ago this month. The senate ordered Jurney to arrest MacCracken for contempt. Thereupon began a game of hide and seek.

If Jurney could arrest MacCracken while the senate was in session, they would have him. If MacCracken could get himself arrested while the senate was not in session, he might escape on a writ of habeas corpus.

While the senate was in session, MacCracken hid and Jurney hunted. When the senate adjourned, MacCracken reappeared and hunted diligently for Jurney.

EXPERT PRAISES PITCAIRN ISLAND AFTER A VISIT

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Dr. H. L. Shapiro of the American Museum of Natural History, a specialist on physical anthropology and heredity, arrived today on the Grace liner Santa Lucia after having spent two weeks on Pitcairn island, the isolated colony in the South Seas which was the subject of a recent best seller.

The islanders are descendents of members of the crew of the Bounty, a British vessel on which there was a mutiny in 1789. The sailors took a number of Tahitian women with them to Pitcairn.

"I found them a charming and delightful people," Dr. Shapiro said. "None of that ingrown business as on the island of Tristan da Cunha. The men and women of Pitcairn island speak English and a sort of patois of their own. They have words that were never heard of before. In appearance the English strain has predominated."

Teachers Lead 148 Pupils Out of Burning School

Brazil, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—One hundred and forty-eight pupils of the Junior High school at Coalmont were led to safety today as the school, a frame church building, was destroyed by fire. Teachers and older pupils led the younger ones from the building and then saved most of the books and wraps. Senior high school pupils and volunteer firemen were assisted by citizens of Jasonville.

SLAYS WIFE, SELF

HERMAN J. SPANKNEBELL.

Herman J. Spanknebell, 67 years old, owner of the Buena Night Patrol, a neighborhood watch service, and his wife, May, 55 years old, were found shot to death in their home at 2044 Addison street yesterday noon by Ronald Hazel, a roomer. Other roomers told that they heard the couple quarreling before the shots were fired and that they quarreled frequently.

There was evidence that Spanknebell was the slayer and suicide. Lieut. Patrick Knox said Mrs. Spanknebell apparently was about to leave her husband before she was shot. Her hat, coat, and pocketbook were found on a chair in the room and two suitcases packed with women's clothing were near by. They had been married twelve years. They left no children, but Spanknebell is survived by a mature son and daughter by a former marriage.

INDEPENDENT NRA INQUIRY FOUGHT BY PAT HARRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, an administration leader and chairman of the finance committee, today raised further objections to an independent investigation of the NRA.

The audit and control committee, headed by Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], another favorite of the President, reported out two resolutions calling for NRA investigations. In one of these resolutions the appropriation was cut from $25,000 to $5,000 and the committee recommended that the finance committee do the investigating.

In the other Senator W. H. King [Dem., Utah] wanted inquiry by a judiciary subcommittee.

Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rad., N. D.] and Pat McCarran [Dem., Nev.] asked in their resolution that the investigation be conducted by the commerce committee. On the floor today Nye demanded a select committee, but Senator Harrison objected.

"Our committee is considering legislation to extend the NRA and we are very anxious to conduct that investigation," Harrison said.

The foes of the NRA object to Senator Harrison's committee because they regard him as too friendly. The administration leaders object to the commerce committee because they regard its chairman, Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], as too unfriendly.

Son Slays Aged Mother and Himself in Michigan

Muskegon, Mich., Feb. 26.—(AP)—An aged mother and her son were found dead of shotgun wounds in their home today and Coroner E. N. Stone said Sylvester Carey, 48, had killed his mother and then himself. The mother, Mrs. Anna Carey, 72, lay on a bed in a downstairs room. The son lay on the living room floor. Beside his body was the shotgun. Coroner Stone said he was told Carey had been despondent over a crippled hand and failure to find work.

'Newsboy' Ready to Face Embezzlement Charges

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A 70 year old "newsboy," identified by more than 40 persons as John S. Schnepp, former mayor of Springfield, Ill., was to start a return trip to the Illinois capital tonight to face an embezzlement charge. The police fugitive detail here said William J. Matterman, Springfield deputy sheriff, had received extradition papers from Sacramento, and advised he would leave tonight with the prisoner.

PAY ROLL BOOKS OF BOULDER DAM ARE IMPOUNDED

'Racket' Rumors Astonish U. S. Officials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Federal reclamation officials in charge of constructing the giant Boulder dam were astonished today by rumors of an alleged pay roll racket worked on the government.

Immediately upon learning that District Attorney E. P. Carville at Las Vegas, Nev., had impounded pay roll records of Six Companies, Inc., the constructing company, Dr. Elwood Mead, reclamation director, telegraphed to the supervising engineer for information. No reply was expected until tomorrow.

Cite Employé's Story.

District Attorney Carville impounded the records on the basis of an affidavit from a former dam employé who said Six Companies kept a double set of pay roll records, one of which was shown to government auditors and the other of which was the actual schedule of wages.

Six Companies is a consolidation of various construction companies, none of which wished to tackle the dam alone. One of the participating companies is the Utah Construction company of which Marriner S. Eccles, now governor of the federal reserve board, is the moving spirit.

Officials Deny Inquiry.

Public works and reclamation officials denied that they had launched any investigation which resulted in the impounding of the records. They professed to be surprised and taken unaware by the district attorney's action. Since the coming of the Roosevelt administration 24 million dollars in PWA funds have been spent on the dam.

PLANE TO HUNT MISSING SAVANT IN UTAH CANYON

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—An airplane search for F. D. Thrapp, scientist who disappeared last November in the Colorado river canyon in Utah, was ordered today by officials of the American Museum of Natural History. The museum officials requested the United Air Lines to dispatch a plane at dawn tomorrow to fly into the inaccessible region to search for him. The plane will take off from Salt Lake City.

Thrapp was on leave of absence from the institution, looking for cliff dwellers' ruins. Provisioned for two weeks, he left a ranch near Green River, Utah, last November 21. He went alone.

Dr. Barnum Brown of the museum believes Thrapp is safe.

"No one is better able to take care of himself in the wilds," Dr. Brown said.

HER HUSBAND FORGOT TO DON CLOTHES, WIFE TELLS DIVORCE COURT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—George McCleane Brown, member of a pioneer iron and steel family, apparently forgot something that night at the fashionable dinner his wife was giving in their Sewickley home.

Mr. Brown forgot his clothes, according to testimony by Mrs. Helen Witherow Brown, 49, in her divorce action against the official of the Brown Iron company.

Mrs. Percy Donner was there, and H. H. Robertson and Jack Culbertson, among other social leaders when Brown put in his first appearance. The first time he was only drunk, according to Mrs. Brown. Then he disappeared, to return in a few minutes clothed in nothing.

Brown, who is 52, did not contest the suit, which charged cruelty and indignities.

Nab 11, Break Plot Against Rio de Janeiro Power Plant

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The arrest of eleven men charged with participating in a city-wide communistic plot to dynamite cables, generators, and power houses and to set afire street cars, buses, and car barns was announced today by the police. The men arrested were electricians, mechanics, and inspectors employed by the Rio de Janeiro Tramway, Light and Power company. Police said they were preparing to implant terror in the city during a four day carnival beginning March 2.

"I want better coverage . . . and this does it!"

He knows already The Detroit News coverage of the Fourth Market in America. In fact, in the Detroit Trading Area it has at least 24,000 more circulation than the next newspaper. But coverage means little to him unless it is identified with buying power.

A survey of 25,000 homes in 1934 proves conclusively that the great circulation of The News follows a clear pattern. It increases steadily in density in proportion to the increase in purchasing power of the areas it serves. It is lowest where purchasing power is low. It is highest where purchasing power is greatest.

PRESIDENT MAPS WORK BILL FIGHT WITH MOLEY AID

Studies Possible Action Against Senate Bloc.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Before a crackling log fire in the high ceiling library of his family home, President Roosevelt this afternoon sat down to discuss the tottering 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief program with Prof. Raymond Moley, his former chief brain truster and now a New Deal counsellor without an official portfolio.

For more than two hours they explored avenues of action against the senate bloc which is attempting to force inclusion of a "prevailing wage" scale and strip the President of the powers the administration bill would give. Observers were of the opinion that the heavy set professor was summoned from New York to advise on the launching of a counter attack.

Moley Eludes Reporters.

The official staf was silent on what decision was reached at this conference. At its conclusion Molev left the estate and dashed to meet a train for New York. He eluded waiting reporters.

The visit of Moley was seen as indicating that the President is not convinced that public sentiment for the administration measure has not reached sufficient force to relinquish its position. White House aids who had previously reported that supporting messages were pouring in a steady stream into Hyde Park and Washington, were silent today.

Asked if the announcement of yesterday was a bit of administration propaganda thrown out to encourage a flood of messages, attachés said this was not true. Asked if messages were coming in today, they said they would prefer not to discuss the subject.

No Roosevelt Statement.

There was no statement from the President on the situation. It was reported that he intends to maintain his expressed policy of refraining from commenting on pending legislation. He continued to be in constant communication with Washington on the subject, however.

During the morning he worked on his shipping and transportation messages. A steady rain prevented his daily motor ride. He plans to take one tomorrow morning if the weather permits.

President Roosevelt will conclude his brief Hyde Park vacation tomorrow evening, when he will board his special for Washington. He will return to the White House Thursday morning.

SENATE DELAYS ACTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The administration leaders in the senate threw up their hands in despair today. They abandoned all efforts to resuscitate the five billion dollar work relief bill until President Roosevelt's return from Hyde Park. After routine action on the calendar bills the senate was adjourned until Thursday. When the President will return. No meetings will be held by the senate appropriations committee in the meantime.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], the President's floor leader on the works bill, were disappointed in their expectations of a public protest at the wrecking of the measure. They are awaiting the next move by Mr. Roosevelt.

Senator Pat McCarran [Dem., Nev.], author of the prevailing wage amendment which the senate adopted, 44 to 43, in the face of a threatened veto, met with President William Green and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor today. That senator announced afterward that there would be no compromise.

There was a movement among the insurgent Republicans to demand the discharge of the appropriations committee, to which the bill was recommitted after the senate's adoption of the McCarran amendment, but this movement was said to be contingent upon the present status of the measure. They don't want the bill reported out again unless it has the McCarran amendment.

Holds Amendment Is Killed.

Senator Byrnes believed the bill could be reported out in that form, but the parliamentary clerk said it could not. In recommitting the bill, the McCarran amendment was killed, together with all other action taken by the senate. If the amendment is to be added, the senate will have to add it, de novo, the expert declared.

'SHADOW SALES' OF STOCK TOLD BY MELLON AID

Securities Used to Set Up Tax Cut, He Testifies.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The charge was made today before the board of tax appeals that during the 1932 bank crisis, while he still was secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon intervened to put the financial institutions owned by his family on a preferential basis.

The full story of the part he played in that troubled phase of the "Iron City's" history was not disclosed, however. Ernest H. Van Fossan, presiding member of the board, ruled it had nothing to do with the issue being tried, which is whether Mr. Mellon owes the government three million dollars in taxes and penalties or is entitled to a $139,000 refund.

U. S. Counsel Set Back.

Earlier in the day Robert H. Jackson, government counsel, ran into another open switch when he tried to have spread upon the record the names of all persons in whose names certificates owned by Mr. Mellon are registered.

Frank J. Hogan, veteran Washington lawyer, objected to having made known all the secrets contained in the little black leather covered book which Howard M. Johnson, the capitalist's financial secretary, held in his trembling hands.

Jackson drew from the financial secretary the testimony that some 30 million dollars in securities which Mr. Mellon gave his children, Paul and Ailsa, found their way onto the books of the Coalesced corporation as "contributions to surplus."

Claims "Shadow Sales."

It was this company, all the dividends of which are payable to Mr. Mellon, which bought back from the Union Trust company the 123,000 shares of Pittsburgh Coal company stock at the same price at which Mr. Mellon sold it to the trust company when he claimed a loss on his 1931 income tax return of $5,677,956.

Jackson also unearthed a 1933 transaction similar in many ways to the one in 1931 which the government contends was "only a shadow sale."

The financier's secretary testified that on Dec. 28, 1933, Mr. Mellon instructed him to sell approximately $250,000 in stocks and bonds which showed a loss of approximately $61,000. This was deducted from Mr. Mellon's 1933 income, Johnson testified.

On the same day and from the same brokerage house, Johnson testified, he repurchased the same block of stock for the Coalesced company.

THE END OF THE SQUANDERMANIA?

The 5 billion dollar relief bill has been sent back to the senate appropriations committee. The majority in the senate insisted that any one put to work on a government project receive the prevailing rate of wages in his community. The President wants to pay a lower wage in order to make private employment more attractive. Neither side has yielded or shown a disposition to yield and a stalemate has ensued.

Dispatches from Washington say that the administration expected that the senators would be swamped with protests, but the expectation has not been realized. Here is a clear indication of the fact that the country as a whole does not favor the program of squandering. The dangers involved in the heavily unbalanced budget are too obvious. The President's program can lead only to greatly increased taxation or to inflation, and either alternative is confiscation. With that prospect to face, citizens are naturally reluctant to make commitments. They do not venture money in business expansion when they know they will bear all the losses while the government is certain to claim the greater part of the profits, if any. Therefore unemployment persists.

The action of the senate has given the President an opportunity to shelve his program without loss of prestige. He can cut the request for relief funds to the minimum and he should be the more willing to do so in view of the figures on unemployment which have just been submitted to him. He now knows that after two years of spending at a rate unprecedented in peace time there are still nearly 11 million men and women out of work. The fact that squandering has failed to make an appreciable dent in unemployment reinforces the theoretical argument that squandering would fail to achieve its objective.

The country hopes that the bill which has been sent back to committee will be allowed to die there.

THE GOLDEN GLOVES.

Consider the town bully. Maintenance of his prestige demands that he prove his prowess in the Golden Gloves competition. Somewhere in his progress toward the Tournament of Champions he meets a better lad who knocks his ears off. He goes home convinced, to the infinite relief of his associates, that he is not the toughest guy in the world.

Mr. Ward and his sports staf will be rightly indignant if we imply, however, that any considerable proportion of the youngsters who have entered the tourney are bullies. As they have pointed out, the Golden Gloves competition is today one of the great amateur sporting events of the world, drawing more than ten thousand contestants from an area bounded by Ohio and Nebraska, the gulf and Canada.

Yale's President Hadley once informed some of his fellow scholastics who were attacking football that Mars has saved more youths from Venus and Bacchus than Minerva can ever hope to reclaim. In our day the boxing ring is one of the finest substitutes for the lessons of the martial camp.

JUNK FOR JAPAN.

John Powell, TRIBUNE correspondent in China, who has been giving us the benefit of his observations during a long tour of the far east, reported the other day from Kobe that the Japanese have gone into the junk business in a large way. Thousands of tons of old car wheels, axles, beams, under frames, etc., etc., are being imported, and ancient ships are being taken apart for new uses. Scrap metal has always been a sizable item in Asiatic trade to be turned into articles of use by native artisans, but Mr. Powell remarks that never before in history has such a scrap metal market been opened as the present one in Japan.

The explanation advanced is that Japanese engineers and chemists discovered some years ago that scrap iron and steel could be combined with low grade Manchurian ore to produce shell casings and other military equipment and thus make up the deficiency of Japanese ore resources which has been accounted a serious handicap to Japan in waging modern warfare.

Whether or not this commerce can be an important factor in Japanese preparedness, the initiative and enterprise it reveals are admirable and more important to Japan in war or peace than its material profit in this case. If these virtues are active in all their military administration, to say nothing of civil enterprise, Japanese armament will give that of any other nation a run for its money. At any rate Mr. Powell's report does not remind us of our own ordnance department.

ISLANDS OF AMERICA.

The Argentine government has raised a rather uncomfortable issue for Downing street to handle. The Falkland Islands are one of those stepping stones on which British naval power marches around the globe. It was in a Falkland harbor that a British squadron lay in wait for Von Spee, fresh from Coronal, and sent his victorious squadron to its watery grave.

But the Falklands, according to Argentina, belong to her, and the minister of the interior has just canceled two police certificates of identification issued to individuals born in the Falklands and described as British subjects. The minister has informed them that when application is made to his authority the certificates will be reissued to them as Argentine citizens.

The United States will sympathize with the Argentine idea. The Falklands are geographically a part of Argentina and in a more important aspect they are or ought to be a part of her defense. Like the Bermudas and the British West Indies with us, they are a foreign outpost within easy striking distance of her shores. It is true possession of the Falklands was convenient for the British navy when the roaming squadron of Von Spee was to be intercepted, but that can hardly reconcile Argentina to a situation which in a troubled world has disquieting possibilities.

Economic considerations may find a way of suppressing the issue raised by the minister of the interior. Or it may be taken to the league court, where its fate would be observed with considerable interest. Whatever happens it is occasion to say again that the islands off the continents of North and South America ought to belong to its nations and not to Europe.

UP TO THEIR EARS IN COIN.

Federal examiners are getting into the affairs of the Clyde Products company of Clyde, N. Y., in which the RFC made a $25,000 loan, only to discover recently that the money had been put into a bootleg alcohol plant which was skinning the internal revenue bureau out of an estimated $400,000. It appears that the head of the company which obtained the neat little investment of government money had been once sheriff of the county and was favorably known as a deserving Democrat. Apparently his local political status was a guarantee for the use of the federal money.

Huey Long's attacks on Postmaster General Farley recite that the Democratic national chairman uses his influence to see that bids for federal construction go to a favored company in New York. Long has demanded an investigation, and other senators, such as Norris and Wheeler, protesting that they can't believe what the Louisianian says, are inclined to think that in the end he must get it. The New Dealers are also having trouble in preventing an inquiry into the affairs of the Home Owners' Loan association.

Mr. Secretary Ickes, in charge of public works expenditures to date, has been using an espionage system, and at Long's instigation the senate has called on him to furnish such information as he may have pertaining to public affairs under suspicion.

It has been thought in Washington that Mr. Ickes realized that sooner or later various persons responsible for the New Deal expenses would be involved in charges and investigations and that he was protecting himself, so far as possible, by trying to find out who was who in the various deals.

The American political system was never subjected to such a test of honesty as it has been under the New Deal expenditures. It never had so much public money placed at its disposal, upon such lax terms. Although many of the providers of the money are academic and new to political life, the boys back home are the familiar exhibits of politics. All that is visible to them is an undreamed supply of money, procurable on easier terms and for wilder purposes than anything that has been in their previous experience. Their opportunities are beyond their expectations, but their methods remain the old ones. Now it appears that in the five billion dollar bill even such restrictions and specifications as heretofore have governed the output of federal coin are to be ignored. The indications are that events are leading to an unpreventable blowing off of the lid.

THE UNFASHIONABLE SERVICES.

Now that the stalwart Americanism of Theodore Roosevelt and his generation has been diluted in American foreign affairs and the news which once gave Americans a thrill of pride—"the marines have landed and the situation is well in hand"—seems a thing of the past, the marine corps is a thoroughly eccentric military agency which fits neither in the army nor navy. As a military organization confined to fighting on land, with its function on the modern ship merely that of an unnecessary police force, it ought to be moved into the army. And it would avoid or rather greatly diminish burocratic resistance if done now rather than to wait for war to bring it about as in the late war. The corresponding step should be taken with regard to the coast guard, which is always incorporated in the navy in wartime, resulting in most untimely friction and ill feeling. It is obviously better to get these logical adjustments accomplished now while we are at peace, while the urgencies of war are not intensifying service pride, susceptibilities, and ambitions.

WASTE PROPAGANDA.

From news printed in the papers and from a mass of boiler plate propaganda coming to the office we observe that the legislature is being bombarded on many sides with plans to waste the taxpayers' money.

Fortunately for its citizens, Illinois has so far stood out as an island of sanity in a sea of reckless state governments. Our legislature has resisted the voice of the tempters. May it continue to do so and maintain Illinois as a refuge where industry may exist.

Editorial of the Day

PHILOLOGISTS AFT!

[Des Moines Tribune.]

England has an ACSE—advisory committee on spoken English—to decide problems of pronunciation for the British Broadcasting corporation.

Many weighty and vexatious problems come before ACSE. For instance, there is the matter of the right way to pronounce "stern," in which the committee is now embroiled.

Even seafaring men disagree; some think the rear end of the boat should be called the "starn," others vote for "sturn."

Of course, it may occur to somebody sooner or later that there is no philological law against just calling it the "stern."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A New Reform Is Born!

I'm going to try to bring about a new reform and I need expert help. Since old Demon Rum came marching home a lot of reformers have been out of a job and I could use some of them.

Then all those reformers who have been busy driving war into a corner and beating the darned thing's head off must also be a little discouraged now on account of there being so many wars and rumors of war around the world. Yes, and especially since Switzerland has extended the period of military training for the Swiss army. For if Switzerland is going to go in for a big army (and gosh! think of a bigger Swiss navy!) the Dove of Peace might tie a brick to its tail and jump in the ocean. So I ought to get some peace reformers to go along with me.

What I want to organize is a League for Making Housemaids Stop Tucking in the Blankets So Doggoned Tight on the Bed. I've begged 'em and pleaded with 'em not to wedge the blankets in so tight until I'm tired out. It doesn't do any good.

There seems to be a law about it or something. At the hotels they fasten the blankets down so tight that one has to get a crowbar or a board and pry 'em loose. I am one of those weird birds that do most of my reading in bed. I get the upper part of my blankets loose when I get in bed and try to forget that I'm strapped in from the waist down.

Then in the middle of the night I turn on the light, grab a book and start to read. Nobody can read in bed unless they pull their knees up so as to form a sort of book rack. I start to read and try to pull my knees up. Nothing doing! I'm lashed to the mast by those tight blankets.

I twist and pull, but it's no use. Finally I have to get up and go all around the bed and tug and tug until I get those blankets loose. In one hotel where I lived once I never could get the blankets loose. I think the chambermaid had them nailed to the sides and the end of the bed.

But something's got to be done about this! That's why I'm going to enlist the army of reformers. I want to make lady wives and chambermaids and housemaids and everybody that makes beds stop tucking in the bed blankets so tight. There must be a campaign of education; we must circularize the newspapers; we must send delegations to Washington. This great reform must be accomplished.

Enlist in this noble movement at once and send in a plugged Canadian postage stamp to get your badge and instructions for organizing your local chapter. And most important of all! WRITE TO YOUR CONGRESSMAN TODAY!

THOUGHTS ON LOOKING ACROSS A FROZEN LAKE.

Here chaos is suggestive of that time,
Though far removed, when ice ground down the years,
Ice in its polar strength, ice with its voracious jaws,
Ice in the veins of Time, its needles and its spears.
The gray lake lies against the grayer skies,
Remindful of the things to come, the things to be,
As this remorseless drama shall unfold,
As the old globe swings down Eternity.
Receding suns, white dwarfs and shrinking orbs,
King Winter building on chaos false, white spires,
Eternal obelisks, lone cenotaphs,
And we shall see expired our warm, bright fires.

A MAN AT LILLE, in France, wanted a job so bad he stole a locomotive and tried to run it to Paris, where he hoped to find work. That stunt will just get him into jail in France, but over here it would have been good for at least ten weeks on the stage and from fifty to a hundred appearances in night clubs. And then he could have indorsed somebody's soap and signed up for two films in the movies. We just fall for anything over in this country.

DON'T GRUMBLE at the blizzard. Think how happy it will make 'em down in Miami and out in Loz Onglaize. And poor things, let 'em be happy. Suppose you had to sit around on the sand all day with nothing to do but shoo away sand flies and mosquitoes and grin at newspaper photographers in the hope they'll take your picture? Blizzards up here in the north are about the only fun they have. Let 'em hop to it!

THE DRUMS WITHDRAW.

The drums that beat and rolled then,
The drums that would not still,
Are vanished quite away now,
Are lost beyond the hill.
And I who sprawled and dreamed there,
Who heard their urgent call
To follow, follow, follow—
Hear now no sound at all.
For all the drums are gone now,
And stilled ambition's cry,
Muted and drowned and lost now

DISEASE PRODUCING VIRUSES.

As has been pointed out in the preceding articles, many diseases have been found to be due to specific organisms, as, for example, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diphtheria, etc. In addition there are certain forms of life now called viruses, or filterable viruses, which are responsible for many diseases affecting man, animals, and plants. Inasmuch as these viruses, although living things, are too small to be seen by even the most powerful microscope, they cannot be identified or described. We can learn about them only through studying their habits—what they do and how they behave. We know that there is a definite group of diseases due to viruses just as there are certain diseases caused by bacteria.

Pasteur showed in 1880 that rabies [hydrophobia] was due to something that could not be seen with a microscope. He was unable to grow this substance as he did bacteria, and concluded that the causative factor was an invisible virus. Today between twenty and thirty diseases that affect man are laid on the doorstep of the virus group. Among these are yellow fever, cold sores on the lips, and shingles [herpes], smallpox, poliomyelitis, encephalitis, measles, and perhaps influenza and the common cold. In animals foot and mouth disease is attributed to a virus, and in plants a disease of tobacco that produces a mosaic appearance on the leaf.

Man is infected with many of these viruses by means of insects. Yellow fever is spread through the bite of a certain species of mosquito. It is not the injury resulting from the bite that causes the disease, but the insect, having sucked blood containing virus from a yellow fever patient, introduces some of this material into its victim. Typhus fever, which has repeatedly scourged central Europe, particularly the Mediterranean region, and which at one time was quite common throughout the world, has been shown to be spread by means of the body louse. This same insect is responsible for the transmission of trench fever, so common during the world war. The virus of Rocky Mountain fever is now known to be disseminated by a certain species of wood tick.

Among other virus diseases is herpes, which occasionally occurs in epidemic form and is sometimes associated with chickenpox. The virus of smallpox has never been identified. Encephalitis [so-called sleeping sickness] and poliomyelitis [infantile paralysis] have many characteristics in common; in fact, at one time encephalitis was considered but a form of poliomyelitis.

Influenza and the common cold are possibly virus diseases. At least a virus may be the means of preparing the mucous membrane of the nose, throat, and air passages for the growth of bacteria. They differ quite markedly from many other diseases of virus origin, as no immunity is conferred by an attack. In other words, an individual may suffer repeated attacks of the common cold or of influenza.

All viruses are killed by high temperatures—at least they are rendered inactive. Many of them are long lived and can retain their activity for several years. Some of them resist strong chemical agents such as chlorine and alcohol; even a 2 or 3 per cent solution of carbolic acid will not destroy certain types. Although a few investigators believe that they are not living bodies, there is fairly conclusive evidence that viruses are living forms. Some day—in the advance of science—we will know much more about them. Considerable progress has been made in preparing virus vaccines.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

G. Percival Mills, surgeon to the Birmingham General hospital, Birmingham, England, reports a case of recovery after complete stoppage of the heart for 5 minutes. He notes that many cases have been recorded in which the heart has started beating following massage of that organ, but the majority of these patients died within 48 hours from brain symptoms.

A 58 year old man was admitted to the hospital suffering from duodenal ulcer. It was decided to operate under spinal anesthesia, and percaine was employed. At the beginning of the operation the patient was breathing quietly, although the blood pressure had fallen considerably; hence an injection of ephedrine was given, supplementing an injection given earlier. The operation proceeded normally and was nearly completed when breathing ceased. The pulse at the wrist could not be felt and reflexes were absent. Dr. Mills then slipped his hand up under the diaphragm and found that the heart had stopped. He immediately began to massage the heart through the diaphragm, while an assistant injected adrenalin directly into the ventricle of the heart.

In describing the case Mills says "the look of incredulity had hardly faded from the faces of my assistants when the heart suddenly started beating vigorously at about 120 to the minute. Artificial respiration was continued while I hurriedly completed my operation." No true respiratory movements were made and it was fully half an hour later that under the administration of carbon dioxide the patient made faint respiratory movements that were continued only by artificial help. Forty-eight hours after the operation he spoke intelligibly and showed signs of brain irritation similar to those seen after a severe head injury. It was a week before he could be safely left alone for even a moment. Three weeks after the operation he had completely recovered. Dr. Mills explains the prolonged unconsciousness as due to brain anemia.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

Gloomy Gus got his name at Brooks field, the army primary flying school. He was always going to get washed out of the school the next day. When he graduated from Brooks he wasn't going to last three weeks at Kelly, the advanced school, because he had got through Brooks by luck anyway. When he graduated from Kelly, the hottest pilot in his class, he would never get a job in commercial flying, so he might just as well have been washed out of Kelly.

I saw him several months later in Chicago. He was flying one of the best runs on the western division of the mail. He was sure it wouldn't be very long before he cracked up in night flying and disabled himself for life, so what good was his mail job?

I saw him several years later, after he had been transferred to the eastern run over the Allegheny mountains. He didn't know what good the additional money he was making was going to do him when he was dead. Didn't all the hot pilots get it in those mountains?

He took a vacation from the passenger lines recently and went on active duty with the army. I saw him at Mitchel field. He said he was taking his vacation flying because he wanted to fly some army ships for a change and have some fun. "But you know, I shouldn't have done it," he said. "I've been flying straight and level too long. I almost hit a gun in formation this morning. I probably won't live long enough to get back to the lines."

I saw him a few days after he had gone back to the lines.

"How they going, Gloomy?" I greeted him.

"O," he said, "that bit of army flying made me careless. I almost hit a radio tower this morning. Carelessness is what kills all old timers, you know."

"Gus," I said, "you'd be miserable if you didn't have something to worry about. You will probably live to have a long white beard and worry yourself sick all day long that you are going to trip on it and break your neck."

Only a faint flicker of humor lit up his gloomy eyes.

PROPERTY RIGHTS ARE HUMAN RIGHTS.

Orange City, Ia., Feb. 20.—The improvident individuals who enjoy free government, free schools, free churches, free shelter, free food, free clothing, free medical attendance, and free coffins when they die have the same control over the government as any of the people who pay their bills.

This wrong is based on the mistaken impression that property rights and the so-called human rights differ in sanctity. The distinction is a myth. The fact is, property rights are human rights. Life and liberty without property rights would be in vain and without purpose. We must put an end to these people voting their own supplies by abolishing their privilege to vote. Those parasites on industry only eat, sleep, and breed.

An open season for 90 days on the so-called New Deal social workers would help some. Tax eaters themselves, they teach the rest of the loafers to be tax eaters. They swoop into homes as if the people are savages who file their teeth, wear breech clouts, and dress their hair with rancid butter.

GEORGE T. HATLEY.

A HOOVER PRODUCT.

Story City, Ia., Feb. 20.—In today's TRIBUNE I note that one N. W. H. expresses his gratefulness to Franklin D. R. because he received a loan which saved to him his home. I, too, believe in giving honor where honor is due. However, when N. W. H. says, "I have been a lifelong Republican and voted for Hoover, but Franklin D. R. saved my home," it seems to me that his letter smells more of politics than of real gratefulness.

Doesn't N. W. H. know that the Home Owners Loan corporation was organized by President Hoover? No doubt, given the same conditions, this corporation would have functioned even more efficiently had Hoover been President than under a new administration, the reason being that the change undoubtedly brought about a situation in the corporation that had a tendency to cause much of the delay which has been so much criticized during the last two years.

LISTER FARSUND.

THE ODDS ARE 5 TO 4.

Wilmette, Ill., Feb. 19.—During an emergency, due to a riot, a law abiding citizen hit a stranger in the eye.

Several weeks later this citizen was haled into court, where he entered his appearance, accompanied by an attorney from Washington, D. C. This attorney set up as a defense that the stranger's nose was not damaged and submitted evidence to that effect.

The judge ruled in favor of the defendant and dismissed the suit.

Will the defeated stranger be prohibited from suing for personal damages in the Court of Claims? EX-JUDGE.

HEARD AT A TEACHERS' FORUM.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—I wish to confirm the charges of certain congressional authorities that the federal educational recovery administration is employing teachers who are taking advantage of their positions to spread communistic propaganda among their students. As a teacher for the FERA last summer, it was my opportunity to be present at meetings of FERA teachers, the purpose of which was to have us listen to speakers and enter into discussions designed to send us back to our classes better qualified to teach our subjects.

At one meeting an open forum was being conducted. A teacher of history and civics rose to his feet. He inquired of the lecturer, "How can I be expected to teach my students the truth about history and government when I dare not teach anything contrary to the dictates and principles of the constitution of the United States?" I have stated the substance of his question, which was supported by one or two more.

Here were teachers meeting in a public school, given jobs and being paid by the United States government, meeting under the auspices of the United States government and planning to undermine the foundation stones of that very government. I am happy to say, however, that there were many immediate and violent protests to the above questions from real American teachers who were present. But the example cited proves that the FERA is harboring communist teachers. SAMUEL W. PRITIKIN.

EXHIBIT A OF CULTURE.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—As a native Kentuckian and a resident of Covington I resent your remarks in this morning's editorial. It is clearly evident that you are either unaware of the high state of culture and refinement possessed by the inhabitants of the great state of Kentucky and particularly exemplified in the citizens of the town whose good name you are attempting to besmirch or you are deliberately telling a falsehood.

Your attitude in this instance is on a par with your cheap and dastardly policy concerning local and national interests.

If you would confine yourself to the cleaning up of the vice, corruption, racketeering, and almost daily murders [a national disgrace] in your own city of Chicago, where in addition every attorney is rated by the number of judges he has on his side, making it necessary at times for even the federal government to step in, you would do a service not only for your town but for the nation as well. J. F. KESSEN.

CONTROL OF THE COURT.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 21.—By the way, isn't the personnel of the Supreme court the same now as it was three years ago when Franklin D. Roosevelt said that it was under control of the Republican party? If so, who controls it now?

PETER DE FOE.

SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—The special house committee which has been investigating un-American activities for more than a year reports that the American Vigilant Intelligence federation is a breeding place of racial hatred and religious intolerance.

Is it racial hatred to combat the influence of aliens of deportable character? Is it religious intolerance to try to prevent so-called religious leaders of socialistic and communistic type from ruining our American institutions and the teachings in our Christian churches?

The special house committee naturally makes its report of Red and Nazi progress, as there is too much evidence to deny that progress is being made. As in other New Deal committees, it has been observed that radical influence usually prevails in making the decisions. The old serpent of subversive power has already crept into our schools, our higher seats of learning, and our churches. It would only mean one more wiggle of his tail to get into this special house committee for investigating un-American movements, in order to control the opposition of the patriotic organizations and the conservative people. H. E. E.

ANOTHER REASON FOR STAYING OUT.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—I think it is very unfair that foods of any kind can no longer be brought to the inmates of the county jail. Before, different kinds of fruits, cakes, pies, candies, peanuts, and various other kinds of food were allowed. Such things as stationery, stamps, shoes, and other articles were also allowed. If the inmates want any of these articles now they have to buy them from the store in the jail. These things cost more there than on the outside.

JUDGMENT NOTE.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.] — 1. When would a judgment note for a considerable amount, dated March, 1928, become outlawed, or how many years must elapse before it is null and void? 2. This note was executed in Illinois. Can I prosecute in the state of New York, where the parties interested are now living? 3. Can I garnishee moneys coming to the debtor, such as commissions, etc.? C. R.

1. The Illinois limitation period is ten years from the maturity date.
2. You could bring a civil suit against them there.
3. Yes, by appropriate court proceedings, for which you should employ an attorney.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

BRITISH TO BUILD BIG ARMAMENTS PLANT FOR TURKS

Former Khedive of Egypt Finances Scheme.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—A contract has been signed between the Turkish government and Metropolitan Vickers Electrical company to build a great new port on the Black sea at Eregli, situated near the coal mines of Zunguldak, and destined to be the Newcastle of Anatolia.

At the same time representatives of Vickers Armstrong have initialed a preliminary agreement with the Turkish government to build a big iron and steel plant in the same neighborhood and to setup an arsenal where heavy guns can be cast.

The money for this venture is being provided by the former khedive of Egypt, the richest of fallen monarchs whose fortune, including vast estates in the Balkans is computed at $150,000,000.

Terms Secret.

The terms under which the khedive is financing the Turks have not been revealed. He left London just over a month ago in company of the Turkish ambassador, Fethi Bey, Mustapha Kemal's bosom friend. They traveled on board the khedive's yacht to Istanbul, stopping at Monte Carlo for a talk on technical matters with that great armaments expert Sir Basil Zaharoff. The new arsenal will make the Turks completely independent of the Skoda works on which they have previously relied for their heavy armaments.

It is significant that no sooner had London heard that Vickers had carried off their greatest coup of recent years that it was announced that the negotiations between the Skoda works and the Rumanian government had been broken off and that the proposal to build a great arsenal in Rumania is dormant, if not dead. No sooner had a representative of Vickers signed with the Turks, Ihan M. Fiala, the general director of Skoda, who was in Bucharest, took the train again to Prague.

Makes Turks Dependent.

The utmost importance is attached to this move. It will make the new Turkey more or less dependent upon Great Britain for a generation. Though their interests no longer conflict this sudden orientation was not expected and is considered in diplomatic circles in London to be one of the big silent strokes of Sir John Simon, foreign secretary.

The ex-khedive's rôle remains a mystery. It is known however, that he is ambitious for his son and wants both British and Turkish support to get him one of those quaint near eastern thrones which will become vacant one day by death. In actual financial terms it means that Britain has brought off a $25,000,000 deal with a country seemingly hostile yesterday. It will provide work in the north of England for 8,000 men for four years.

FRANCE TO PLACE UNEMPLOYED IN FORESTRY CAMPS

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The French cabinet today approved the establishment of forestry camps similar to the Civilian Conservation corps camps in the United States as part of the government drive to reduce unemployment.

Forestry camps are to be inaugurated in 13 departments. The proponents of the plan said the work of reforestation and road building would offer employment to thousands of men beginning next month.

Unemployed Frenchmen will be given the preference in selecting applicants for the camps, but if not enough Frenchmen volunteer, foreigners on the relief rolls will be offered jobs. If they are refused, the foreigners will be removed from the dole.

ARMY FLYERS COMPLETE FIRST LEG OF FLIGHT

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The army's 31st Bombardment squadron completed the first leg of a 10,000 mile flight today, landing at Kelly field at 4:20 p. m., 6 hours and 55 minutes after taking off from March field, Cal.

A radiogram from the office of the air corps chief to Capt. Harold D. Smith, squadron commander, instructed him to await orders before proceeding.

A report was dispatched saying that the flight could be continued according to the schedule, which called for completing the second leg to Washington.

MERRILL TO TAKE UP 12TH INFANTRY COMMAND FRIDAY

Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill is to take command of the 12th infantry brigade, with headquarters at Fort Sheridan, on Friday.

BRIG. GEN. DANA MERRILL.

Gen. Merrill, who took the oath of office and was given general rank only on Feb. 1, although his commission dates back to Dec. 1, 1934, has been in command of the 10th U. S. infantry at Fort Thomas, Ky., since July, 1933. He has also been in charge of the civilian conservation corps units in eastern Kentucky and southern Ohio.

In 1898 Gen. Merrill, a graduate of the University of Maine, joined the army as private. He received a commission in the same year. After the Spanish war he served in the Philippines. During the world war he served on the general staf in Washington, and later was chief of staf of the 37th division in France. The government awarded him the distinguished service medal for his work overseas.

Gen. Merrill will be accompanied here by his wife and their daughter, Miss True Merrill.

AIR LINE OFFERS NIGHT SERVICE TO NEW ORLEANS

Chicago and Southern Air Lines has been granted authority to fly the 910 mile airway between this city and New Orleans at night, it was learned yesterday. Postoffice officials informed the company officers that the grant is effective Friday, March 1. Both passengers and mail will be carried.

The grant is the result of the completion by the department of commerce of a line of light beacons along the airway south of St. Louis. The air line is meeting the requirement that no passengers shall be flown in single motored airplanes after sundown by using tri-motored Stinson planes over the route. The night planes will leave Chicago at 8 p. m. and reach New Orleans at 5:45 a. m. Day service as already flown over the route will be continued.

The postoffice department made two other changes in air lines operating out of Chicago. Several minor schedule changes were authorized for Northwest Air Lines on the Chicago-Seattle route and for American Air Lines on the Chicago-Washington, D. C., route.

New York Manufacturer's Wife Wins Reno Divorce

Reno, Nev., Feb. 26.—(AP)—William L. Allen, wealthy retired Kansas City and New York steel manufacturer, was divorced on grounds of extreme cruelty at a private trial here today by Mrs. Helen A. Allen. The decree was granted by District Judge Benjamin F. Curler.

POLISH ARMY CHIEFS ON MISSION TO THREE NATIONS IN BALTIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 26.—Gen. Janusz Gonsjorowski, chief of the Polish general staf, accompanied by a number of high Polish military officials, arrived here tonight for a conference with the Latvian general staf. Gen. Gonsjorowski will leave Thursday for a similar visit to Estonia, and then will go to Fnland.

The Latvijas Kareivis, official newspaper of the Latvian ministry of defense, welcomed the Poles. It asserted that the friendship of Poland, Latvia, Estonia, and Finland was welded together by coöperation on the battlefield during their simultaneous fight for freedom from the bolsheviks, and that whatever other political agreements are made, coöperation between the general stafs of these countries is the best guarantee for peace in northeastern Europe.

The Moscow Pravda is displeased with the actions of the Poles. It alleges that they are engaged in another plot with Germany against the soviet union.

Liquor Importers Organize; Name Chicagoan President

Fifty liquor importers from seventeen states met at the Hotel Sherman yesterday to form the Association of Alcoholic Beverage Importers. Maurice H. Rieger, president of Philip Blum & Co. of Chicago, was elected president. M. R. Tenenoff of the International Agencies, Inc., also of Chicago, was named secretary. Mr. Rieger said the association was formed under the industry's code authority.

GRACE CONTENDS BONUS DEMAND IS POOR POLICY

Believes Legion Campaign "Unfortunate."

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Eugene G. Grace, steelmaker whose war time bonuses amounted to $3,669,000, today told the senate munitions committee he felt organized demands by veterans for the bonus were "unfortunate."

Without expressing his opinion as to the justice of the appeals for bonus payment, the President of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, declared:

"It is unfortunate to have a demand by organized forces for the bonus. It is unfortunate to have such a situation."

"Do you wish such a situation could be avoided?" Chairman Gerald Nye [Rep., N. D.] asked.

Believes Demand Avoidable.

"Most certainly," the shipbuilder replied.

Nye then said he had been informed by Frank Belgrano, national commander of the American Legion, that veterans demanded the bonus because of war time profits and wages in industry.

"I had never thought of it in that connection," Grace said.

Earlier, he told the committee in two of the three war years his bonus and salary amounted to $2,798,000, upon which $1,810,000 in federal taxes were paid.

Grace defended the bonus system of his company and said it had been an "incentive" to greater efficiency. He refused to concede that the war time profits of Bethlehem Steel were "exorbitant," but said in the event of another conflict he felt there would be less difficulty in relations between government and industry.

For Moderate Profits.

"I agree profits should not be exorbitant," he said, "I should say there will not be a repetition of the situation in the world war."

Meanwhile Chairman Pittman [Dem., Nev.] arranged for a meeting of the foreign relations committee tomorrow to reconsider the 1925 Geneva arms treaty.

That pact was ratified by the senate last session, but it was recalled when several signatories refused to agree to a reservation sponsored by Senator King [Dem., Utah] declaring American adherence should not be interpreted as interfering in any way with whatever sovereignty Persia had over the Persian gulf.

That area is one of the few specified in the treaty to which signatories would agree not to ship arms under any circumstances.

The treaty aims to prevent the shipment of arms into any country without specific consent of the government of such a country, and to give publicity to munitions shipments.

LIBERTY LEAGUE PUTS CHAPTERS IN U. OF W., NORTHWESTERN, TOO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Student chapters of the American Liberty league have been founded at Northwestern university and the University of Wisconsin, the league's headquarters here announced today.

Formation of another chapter at the University of Chicago was reported to be under way. The league, whose leaders include Al Smith and John W. Davis, has been formed to preserve constitutional government and has spoken out in opposition to some radical New Deal plans.

A total of five university chapters have been chartered, the league announced. Yale, Princeton, and the University of Nebraska, in addition to Northwestern and Wisconsin, have student groups. Fourteen other colleges are reported to be forming groups.

Paul Ziffren heads the Northwestern group and William O. Schilling is leader of the Wisconsin society, headquarters said. The Northwestern chapter was organized originally by William A. Dyche, former business manager of the university.

WAR PREVENTION PLANS ASSAILED AS TOO FLIMSY

Proposed national legislation which would "take the profit out of war" was ridiculed as ineffective yesterday by Prof. Harry D. Gideonse of the University of Chicago in an address before the Tuesday forum at the Central Y. M. C. A. The legislation, regarded as of pacifist or socialist origin, has been espoused by the American Legion.

As an educational campaign showing that some enterprises and persons do profit from war, Prof. Gideonse saw some merit in the present munitions inquiry. As a deterrent to war, the proposed bills that would take profit from war were termed by the speaker as "silly."

Prof. Gideonse said a neutrality law should be enacted, specifically barring from the protection of the government persons or firms dealing with belligerent nations. Unless such a law is enacted before hostilities begin the United States will be a party to any conflict that lasts two years—or long enough for an interchange of diplomatic nates"—Prof. Gideonse contended.

W. Liberty Co-op Creamery Pays Its First Dividend

Muscatine, Ia., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The West Liberty, Ia., Coöperative creamery, organized in 1915, paid the first dividend in its history yesterday by dividing $2,700 among 600 persons.

V. F. W. COMMANDER ASKS LEGION CHIEF TO CONFER ON BONUS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—A conference for the purpose of reaching an agreement on bonus legislation pending before congress was proposed yesterday by James E. Van Zandt, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in a telegram to Frank Belgrano, national commander of the American Legion.

"I am confident we could sit down in a spirit of comradeship," Van Zandt's telegram stated, "and reach an agreement that would insure the prompt enactment of a bill for the immediate cash payment of the adjusted service certificates, as mandated by both our national conventions."

Aside from two score bonus bills referred to the house ways and means committee, there are two measures that have locked the bonus forces. These are the Patman bill providing for payment in greenbacks and the Vinson bill, which would pay the bonus through a sale of bonds.

Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], author of the greenback bill, had gained 133 signatures today to his petition to force his measure out of the hands of the ways and means committee and bring it to a vote. Under the rules of the house he will need a total of 218 names for the action.

Nazi Shot by Austrian Guard Dies of Wounds

A NEWSPAPER that lives its economic philosophy

The cherished novelty of one day is the commonplace of the next and is discarded on the third.

The wagon and the windmill have joined them.

So have the newspapers of 1800, of 1860, and 1900. The 1930 type of newspaper is heading into obscurity.

The Chicago Tribune lives through the generations because it adds to the solidarity of established tradition every achievement of progress.

Among the steps the Tribune has climbed in the stairs of progress in this century are: that in

1902 —Built a 17-story skyscraper, the third building erected for the Tribune. Installed electric-powered presses. Adopted autoplate machines to improve quality of printing plates and to simplify production problems.

1911 —Added four new features—"How to Keep Well" by Dr. W. A. Evans; "Beauty Secrets" by Lillian Russell; "Advice to Women" by Laura Jean Libbey, and "The Friend of the People."

1914 —Launched the Investors' Guide which has answered more than 350,000 investment queries, of which more than 110,000 were received in the five depression years, 1929-'33.

1918 —Established a foreign press service with its own staf of correspondents, the first composed entirely of Americans, to gather the news from the American viewpoint in the leading world capitals.

Began publishing original fiction in competition with book publishers and magazines to provide Tribune readers with first-run short stories and serials.

1919 —Purchased Tribune Square, a full city block in area, and broke ground for a new six-story plant for the editorial and production departments.

Instituted Employes' Benefit Plan providing sickness, accident, disability and death benefits, pensions, and health service for all Tribune employes without cost to them.

1925 —Completed Tribune Tower, the fourth building erected for the Tribune and for whose design 285 architects submitted plans in a $100,000 international competition.

Revolutionized handling of sports news, out of which has grown such international and intercity events as the Golden Gloves tournaments and the all-star baseball and football games.

1927 —Added the Metropolitan Section to the Sunday Tribune, printing the neighborhood news of Chicago and suburbs.

1933 —Increased the Comics Section from eight to twelve pages, requiring the installation of four new comic press units.

Introduced an improved grade of newsprint paper, resulting in better quality printing both in color and in black-and-white.

1934 —Installed air conditioning throughout Tribune Tower. Replaced all Tower elevators with newest high-speed safety cabs and cut 23-story shaft for new freight elevator.

Expanded Benefit Plan to provide life and disability insurance for all Tribune employes after one year of service.

Insured accurate register of 3-color printing by installing direct-pressure molder to mold and dry matrices in one operation.

1935 —Completed installation of first line of new presses in $1,110,000 order for pressroom equipment released in 1933, which replaced equipment installed not earlier than 1919 and rendered all other presses obsolescent.

For the first third of the century the Chicago Tribune has kept pace with the changing world and the changing interests of Chicago men and women.

Nobody knows what the next third of the century will bring. But this much is certain:

NEWFOUNDLAND IDLE DEMAND 50% INCREASE IN DOLE

1,500 Jobless March on Government Office.

BY JOHN BROWNE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Feb. 26.—Fifteen hundred unemployed men and a number of destitute women and children paraded through the principal streets of St. Johns today to the department of public health and demanded an interview with Commissioner J. C. Puddester.

The commissioner at first declined to hear their grievances, and objected to admittance of their spokesman, Pierce Power. After consulting with his colleagues Puddester consented to receive a delegation of three.

Demand Increase in Dole.

A hundred policemen guarded the entrance while the conference, which lasted forty-five minutes, took place. The delegation then reported to the crowd that Puddester had agreed to bring before Thursday's session of the government commission the demand for a 50 per cent increase of the dole allowance for clothing and a reduction in the period of coal distribution.

Since the public is taxed on every bottle of liquor sold to provide this coal fund, angry protests followed the report. The crowd, in a belligerent mood, objected to further delay, but was finally induced by its leaders to disperse and await the government's answer Thursday.

A squad of police also guarded the entrance to the Newfoundland hotel, where Commissioner of Justice W. R. Howley is ill with influenza. It had been reported the mob might attempt to force a personal call on Howley.

Recall Riots of 1932.

All morning police patroled the government house grounds and those of the colonial building, which was badly damaged in the political disorders of April 5, 1932, when former Premier Sir Richard A. Squires was manhandled. The result of that upheaval was the overthrow of the cabinet and the general election of June, 1932. Squires was overwhelmingly defeated.

The present commissioner of home affairs, F. C. Alderdice, became premier. Then his government voted on Dec. 2, 1933, to surrender the county's charter because of financial difficulties. The existing commission government, which has absolute powers of dictatorship, was set up on Feb. 16, 1934.

BRITISH KING AND QUEEN CHEERED ON SOUTHERN TRIP

EASTBOURNE, England, Feb. 26.—(AP)—King George and Queen Mary arrived today for a holiday in their first visit to the south coast since the monarch was convalescing from a serious illness in 1929.

In every town en route the royal automobile was slowed to walking pace and the townspeople lined the streets and roads, cheering.

The king and queen will rest here a month in preparation for the days of celebration next summer when the king observes the silver jubilee of his reign. He was welcomed by a crowd of 2,000 as he proceeded to the duke of Devonshire's residence.

Legionnaire Decorated for Valor in Combat

Formal presentation of the distinguished service cross for heroism in combat 18 years ago was made to Lawrence G. Andrews, 5715 Kimbark avenue, an Armour & Co. employé, by Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commander of the sixth corps area, at the meeting of the Armour post of the American Legion in the Stockyard inn last night. Andrews' award was for "extraordinary heroism" during an attack on the Germans near Berzy le Sec, France, in July, 1918. Andrews, a lieutenant in Company A, 28th infantry, First division, disregarded personal danger in leading his men, his citation said.

CUBAN CABINET CRASHES; REPORT MENDIETA TO QUIT

School Strike Brings Crisis to Head.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 26.—Deserted by all the members of his cabinet except Manuel Despaigne, secretary of the treasury, President Carlos Mendieta tonight was struggling to outlast another Cuban political storm, blown up by the island wide school strike of several hundred thousand students and teachers. Semi-official reports were that Mendieta's resignation is imminent.

Cosme de la Torriente, secretary of state, and Raul de Cardenas, secretary of interior and justice, led the defection of the cabinet this morning. They were regarded as the leading members of the Mendieta "brain trust." Tonight the other secretaries resigned.

Result of Clash on Election.

The resignations were the outgrowth of a bitter controversy with Mendieta and the leaders of his Nationalist party over the proposed general elections set for June 30. The Torriente-Cardenas faction argued that the government must first restore constitutional rights, release political prisoners, grant the school strike demand for educational freedom and abolish press censorship. They asserted that the elections could not possibly be held before November.

"Rather than continue the instruments of Mendieta's oligarchy and enforce violence and terrorist tactics, we resigned," Torriente and Cardenas said in a joint statement.

Strike Strengthened.

The school strike, which began nine days ago, gathered further impetus today when leaders of various labor organizations announced their support at a meeting of school delegates from all over the island. Threats of a general strike were issued. Communist and other radical spokesmen also indicated their allegiance to the strike movement, the leaders of which demand the ousting of the Mendieta government.

Meanwhile, Col. Fulgencio Batista, commander of the army, and Jefferson Caffery, American ambassador here, held three conferences during the day. According to reliable information they talked over methods of bringing order out of the present political chaos without bloodshed and a general paralysis of business.

A military dictatorship is considered possible in case matters become worse. Col. Batista is reported about convinced that Mendieta's removal is inevitable if peace is to prevail again.

AMERICANS WILL VOTE ON FATE OF CHURCH IN BERLIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—The American colony will be called upon to vote on the future of the American church in Berlin to decide whether or not efforts should be made to keep up regular services. The vote will be held at the suggestion of Consul General Douglas Jenkins, to whom the church committee handed the keys of the church in an effort to free itself of responsibility for the church's future.

The vote will not be taken until Frederick Wirth Jr., American lawyer, has completed a report based on his findings in the archives and about the complicated legal technicalities. Jenkins conferred with some of the former members of the church board today. Before sending his recommendations to the American and Foreign Christian union, to whom the church belongs, Jenkins will consult the wishes of the colony.

The general feeling now is that the library of the church should be continued as a center for American students, scholars, and visitors. Doubt is expressed about the possibility of continuing services, since the coal bill alone would eat up most of the regular contributions from members of the colony. These members are feeling acutely the pinch of the depreciated dollar.

DIES OF KNIFE WOUNDS.

Knife wounds allegedly inflicted in a fight with Edubige Lanberos Sunday night caused the death in the South Chicago hospital yesterday of Joseph Hernandez, 29 years old, 8956 The Strand, a laborer. Lanberos is being held.

HITLER PREPARES TO NATIONALIZE GERMAN MINES

Pledge in Original Nazi Program to Be Filled.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—Nationalization of German mines was prepared for in a special law issued by Reichsfuehrer Hitler's cabinet today when it went into the legislative business on a wholesale scale.

Nationalization of mines represents a partial fulfilment by the Nazi government of the plank in Hitler's original 25 point program calling for "nationalization of all trusts and united companies."

Supervision of mines, including those in the Saar territory, is placed in the hands of Germany's financial and economic dictator, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, in his capacity as minister of economics.

Thirty Laws on Saar.

The cabinet issued thirty laws dealing with the reincorporation of the Saar into Germany on March 1. The greatest importance is attached to the laws "for the safety of the state," directed against the possibility of the sabotage of nazism by "doubtful elements which may try to seek refuge in the Saar."

This statute will give the Saarlander Nazis a perfect chance to get even with those they consider their opponents.

The People's court, the star chamber division of which is working overtime on espionage and high treason cases, extends its jurisdiction to the Saar under today's decrees.

Saar Officials to Get Cuts.

State officials in the Saar will be placed on the same basis as officials in Germany. It is assumed this means a pay cut for them since the salaries of German officials have been reduced considerably in the last five years.

The German junkers (landed aristocracy) are also made to feel the Nazi whip. In former years they succeeded in wangling big loans for their farms from the republic, then from the Nazi government, and they often managed to avoid repayment of mortgages and loans granted them by the government. Now the "bad debtors" are forbidden advantages granted "good debtors" under laws on compulsory financial settlement.

BOLIVIA CHARGES PARAGUAY PLANS USING POISON GAS

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Bolivian war ministry today charged Paraguay with authorizing the use of poison gas in the Chaco war.

"In these moments," the ministry's communique said, "purchase of many tons of gas bombs and grenades is being effected in Germany, the Paraguayan government planning to put them into use March 20."

Small quantities of "iperita" gas, described as corrosive in effect, already have been sent to the front, the war ministry said.

'Burning Plane' Mystery Solved; Was Aerial Bomb

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The mystery of a "burning airplane," reported last Friday off Saba, in the Dutch Islands, was cleared up today by the revelation that airplanes of a British squadron had been practicing bombing near there. Some one apparently saw a bomb explode in midair and thought an airplane had blown up.

Two U.S. Battleships Reach Panama; 1,500 Get Liberty

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Arkansas and Wyoming, battleships of the training squadron, arrived today from Porto Rico and Antares. The 1,500 officers, sailors, and marines aboard were given shore liberty until March 6.

AUSTRALIA HEALS JAPANESE TIES WITH TRADE PACT

Two Nations Seek to Exchange Goods.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 26.—The fear of possible invasion of Australia by Japan has been forgotten in the friendly discussions now being conducted for a trade treaty between Australia and Japan.

It is expected that a trade treaty will be completed next month, according to Sir Henry Gullett, Australian minister without portfolio, who is negotiating here with a Japanese government delegation.

Australian Balance Favorable.

At present Australia enjoys a favorable trade balance with Japan at a ratio of three to one. The proposed treaty will call for an exchange of Australia's raw materials and produce, such as iron ore, metals, wool, wheat, flour, and dairy products, for manufactured goods from Japan.

The problem is a complicated one, as Australian merchants developed trade in recent years on quality and price in the days before the operations of individual traders throughout the world became restricted and controled by their respective governments and by governments at the other end of the trade routes. Japan requires Australian raw materials for its secondary industries and admits them without restrictions. Australia, on the other hand, has erected a high tarif wall against commodities of the kind exported from Japan, which is an issue in the present negotiations.

Australia Asks Guarantees.

Australia asks that it be given guarantees that its present favorable trade position with Japan be maintained in return for a reduction in duties on Japanese manufactured goods imported into Australia. It is expected that Australia will grant reduced duties on silks, textiles, glassware, pottery, toys, and other items which are not highly competitive with British and Australian goods.

Bound up with the negotiations is the appointment of an Australian trade commissioner to Tokio. Japan will also be asked to undertake not to endanger Australia's trade by any agreements with South Africa and South America. Among other requests Australia will ask for a freer market for flour and the possibility of obtaining a quota for meat to offset the British government's restrictions. Australia's exports to Japan in 1934 were worth 50 million dollars and its imports from Japan 16 million dollars.

NAZIS DON'T HURT JEWS, AMERICAN CHAMBER IS TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—In an effort to counteract the boycott movement against German goods in the United States, Julius Lippert, Nazi commissar for Berlin, today painted a rosy picture of the economic position of Jews in Germany at the American Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

"The American boycott is based on false assumptions," Lippert said. "No Jews in Germany have suffered economic damage. No Jewish firm has been expropriated. Economically the Jews enjoy the same rights as others, provided they fulfill their civic duties."

Lippert asserted that the American boycott of German goods has harmed American business interests. He pointed out that in 1934 Germans bought one-third less cotton than in 1933 and that the American share of German cotton imports dropped from 75 to 60 per cent.

BUS INJURIES KILL GIRL.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Louise Waggoner, 12, died this morning of injuries received last Wednesday when two school buses crashed on a curve north of Washington, resulting in the death of another student in one bus.

KEEP HANDS OFF AUSTRIA! BRITAIN TO TELL HITLER

Vienna Chiefs Quit London Under Heavy Guard.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Austria's chancellor and foreign minister left for home tonight, confident that Great Britain would press for Germany's adherence to the Rome pact between France and Italy designed to guarantee Austria's independence.

While British sleuths peered and poked under their railway coaches for fear radicals had placed bombs, Egon Berger-Waldenegg, the foreign minister, said the principal purpose of the Anglo-Austrian conversations here had been to "assure the independence of Austria forever—not for just some period of years."

Sees Britain Behind Accord.

He expressed satisfaction that the British are whole-heartedly behind the Rome accord and will demand, in forthcoming exchanges with Germany, that these must be completed simultaneously with other phases of the recent Anglo-French proposals for an inclusive European security agreement.

To the last British authorities continued their almost unprecedented precautions to guard Berger-Waldenegg and Chancellor Schuschnigg against molestation or bodily harm.

Officials examined their train from end to end before they boarded it at 4:20 p. m., and the tracks under the coaches were carefully searched for bombs. A cordon of police surrounded the Austrians as they arrived at the station and walked with them to their coach.

Simon to Visit Berlin Soon.

Although British official sources continued silent as to the date of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon's projected visit to Berlin, which may be extended to Warsaw and Moscow, Berger-Waldenegg said he understood he probably would go late next week.

Sir John will inform Chancellor Hitler, the Austrian minister said, that the reich must sign the Rome non-interference pact for central Europe before its former enemies will admit it to an air alliance, grant it arms equality and repeal the military clauses of the Versailles treaty, all of which are contemplated in the Anglo-French proposals.

Chancellor Schuschnigg, just before his departure, denied that the question of restoration of the Hapsburgs as rulers of Austria had been discussed with the British ministers.

Defending his government against the charge that it has dealt too harshly with socialists in Austria, Schuschnigg revealed that 23 death sentences have been carried out by his government as an aftermath of last year's political disorders. More than 2,000 persons are under sentence or awaiting trial, he said, while 2,179 more are held by police authorities.

Doug and Sylvia Cheered by Virgin Island Crowd

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A cheering crowd greeted Douglas Fairbanks and his party, including Sylvia Lady Ashley, when they arrived here today aboard the S. S. Europa to start their world yachting tour. Fairbanks, noted film player, waved his hands in reply to the crowd's greeting and then posed for pictures. The party went immediately aboard the yacht Caroline. It was expected they would sail tomorrow afternoon.

MARK SULLIVAN TELLS ROTARY OF NEW DEAL PERIL

President Roosevelt's passage of emergency laws is leading the United States to exchange individual liberty "for something which those who propose the change describe as economic security," Mark Sullivan, political writer, told members of the Chicago Rotary club at luncheon in the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

"These emergency measures cause an immense enlargement of the power of the state and a corresponding reduction in the freedom of the individual," said the speaker. "This is a violation of America's oldest and most deeply cherished traditions.

"If Roosevelt could throw his emergency laws out the window when the emergency is passed, we would not need to concern ourselves. But such discarding of the new laws is impossible."

REVIVE TRUCK FUME VICTIM.

Charles Pettelno, 24 years old, 224 West 23d street, was revived yesterday by a fire department inhalator squad after he had been overcome by engine fumes while working on a truck in the garage at the rear of his home.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

HISTORIC OXFORD LURES SCHOLARS AND TRAVELERS

Many Chicagoans Off for Foreign Ports.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Oxford, with its unforgettable spires, looms large on the horison of Miss Ann Steinbrecher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher of 48 East Schiller street. Today Miss Steinbrecher is sailing for England on the United States liner Manhattan, with the time honored university as her immediate objective.

Making the crossing with her is Miss Edith Christina Johnson, associate professor of English at Wellesley college and author of the recent book, "Lamb, Always Elia." Miss Steinbrecher, a graduate of Wellesley in 1933, will register at Oxford in mid-April to pursue the study of English literature throughout the spring term.

Goal of Many Tourists.

Since it was founded in 1214, Oxford has attracted scholars from all over the world and today it shares with London and Stratford-upon-Avon the power to attract more tourists than any other place in England.

It is not merely a schoolroom where professors lecture the youth of England and other nations. In its architecture the town represents every period from the time of the Saxons on.

A room in the divinity school at Oxford is said to be the most beautiful room in all of England. The Sheldonian theater, in which such distinguished Americans as Ulysses Grant, James Russell Lowell, Edward J. Phelps, Robert T. Lincoln, and a host of others became Oxford doctors of civil law, was designed by Christopher Wren.

Hundreds of Americans have studied at Oxford through the years, many of them on the scholarships endowed by Cecil Rhodes.

After the spring term at the university Miss Steinbrecher expects to go on to France, Germany, and Switzerland.

Chicago Tourists Seek Sunshine.

Sunshine rather than study is the goal of a far greater number of Chicagoans who are setting off this month for foreign ports. When the Lady Rodney of the Canadian National Steamship Line reaches Nassau Friday Mr. and Mrs. John MacLaren Simpson [Constance Hasler] will embark and proceed south to Kingston, Jamaica. There they will remain for several weeks.

In Nassau the next fortnight the Walter Hovings probably will be visiting the Porcupine club, an exclusive rendezvous where little black boys serve the guests peeled oranges and grapefruit on sticks.

The Hovings sailed for Nassau last Saturday on the Carinthia of the Cunard-White Star line. Going on the same boat this Saturday will be Col. John Roberts and his brother, C. J. Roberts, veteran travelers, and the young Richard Metcalfs. Col. Roberts knows the Carinthia well, for he was among its passengers on its last world cruise. He and his brother will spend some time in Nassau and then go on, perhaps to Barbados.

Next Saturday Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Wingard will be Nassau bound aboard the Panama Pacific ship, the Columbia. They are interested primarily in the soft sands of Paradise beach, where they can let the sun do its worst—or best . . . and wonder why on earth one has to work for a living.

Bound for West Indies.

Heading south today in the Atlantic aboard the S. S. Britannic are Lucille Davis and her sister Pasette, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis. Along with several dozen Chicagoans who are aboard the five year old liner, they have ahead of them two weeks of tropical scenes and sunlight in the West Indies.

The Britannic, owned by Cunard-White Star and operated for this cruise by Raymond-Whitcomb, is known for its newness and smartness, its spacious decks and handsome rooms, and the attentive service of its well trained English stewards. When another Cunarder, the Georgic, drifts out of sight Saturday toward the West Indies, it will have on board a party including Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Altman, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Greenhill, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Goodman. On this cruise La Guaira, with its pink roofs and green slopes, is the first port of call and Nassau the last.

Voyage as Winter Holiday.

Somewhere in the Caribbean today or tomorrow the passengers on the S. S. Pennsylvania and the S. S. California, both United States ships, will be exchanging greetings. The Pennsylvania is headed for San Francisco via the Panama canal with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Borg and the Fred Sauters among its passengers. The California has already passed through the canal and is on its way back to New York. Its passenger list includes Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Freund, Mr. and Mrs. William H. McGowan, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel L. Donavan.

Many families have chosen this 5,500 mile sea voyage for their winter holiday this year, providing they don't have to make Panama as quickly as young Dr. Frank V. Theis. Dr. Theis is just back from a trip to Panama—work, not vacation—made all of the way by airplane.

CHICAGOANS SAIL ON CRUISE ALONG SHORES OF MEDITERRANEAN

Since time immemorial the Mediterranean lands have stimulated man's curiosity with their glorious history overlaid by the artistic wealth of the medieval and renaissance periods. In these days when ocean liners are fast and sumptuous hundreds are satisfying this curiosity with a winter visit to the ancient ports.

Six young Chicagoans aboard the S. S. Excambion of the American Export Line are rounding the great rocks of Gibraltar today and scanning its 1,400 towering feet as they think of the 32 picturesque Mediterranean ports and cities ahead of them.

The party embarked a week ago yesterday in New York on the Excambion, whose itinerary is arranged by the American Express and Thomas Cook & Son.

The group includes Miss Elsie Schlueter, Miss Inez Ostberg, Miss Ethel Mealiff and her sister, Adaline, Miss Jessie Wernicke, and Miss Alexandra Duncan.

From Gibraltar they will travel down to the insular island kingdom of the Balearics, then to Marseilles, Naples, Cairo, and Jerusalem.

Others with this Mediterranean pageant ahead of them are Mr. and Mrs. William McGibbon, who embarked last Thursday on the Italian liner, Saturnia.

NEAR ZERO COLD FOLLOWS FREAK SNOWFALL HERE

But Moderate Weather Is Forecast Today.

Falling steadily after yesterday's freak snowstorm, the mercury stood at 2 above zero at the Municipal airport at 2 o'clock this morning. The cold snap was expected to moderate under fair skies today, bringing the temperature up into the comfortable twenties by midafternoon, according to the forecast of C. A. Donnel, government meteorologist. Warmer weather is predicted for tomorrow.

With the exception of parts of the Pacific coast and the far southeast the cold was general throughout all the country.

Second Freak Storm.

Yesterday's snowfall was a repetition of the freak blizzard of Dec. 10, when 11 inches of snow fell over Chicago and a limited nearby area. The area covered by the snow yesterday extended from Highland Park on the north to Gary and for a few miles inland, leaving many of the western suburbs untouched.

Cold winds blowing from the northeast met the warm air of the lake and precipitated the snow, Mr. Donnel explained. It varied in depth from 2.2 inches at the airport to 3.6 inches at the University of Chicago observatory, 6.2 inches in the loop, and deeper in some of the northern suburbs.

Shortly before 7 a. m. yesterday the first snow fell as the mercury stood at 10 above, its lowest level. Not until two hours later did the first flakes fall at the airport. Transportation lines experienced little difficulty in maintaining schedules.

During the snow the temperature rose gradually to 21 above at 2 p. m. It then began falling slowly.

One Below at Rockford.

The eastern wind, which caused the snow, prevented Chicago from experiencing the full force of the cold wave which 90 miles to the west left Rockford shivering at 1 below zero. All of northern Illinois felt the same intense cold, and highways covered with deep snow and ice hampered trafic but did not paralyze it.

Southward the gulf states shivered in below freezing temperatures. Texas had a light snow and central Alabama was reached by the advancing cold, which spread northward to the Canadian border.

BRIDE HANGS HERSELF.

Stanwood, Ia., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles Sarby, 20, a bride of two months, committed suicide by hanging herself yesterday in the hayloft at her farm home west of Olin.

KENNAMER GOING TO STATE'S PRISON; HE AWAITS APPEAL

Pawnee, Okla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Phil Kennamer, 19 year old son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, will be taken to the state prison March 5, to begin serving his 25 year manslaughter sentence for the slaying of John F. Gorrell Jr.

The youth's departure for the penitentiary on that date became certain after his attorneys decided not to seek his release on $25,000 bond. C. B. Stuart, defense attorney, said, however, he believed the conviction would be reversed and that "Phil will walk away from the McAlester penitentiary in a few months a free man."

"We think it wise not to release the boy from prison. That was my answer to his father and he has agreed to follow it."

DENVER NUDISTS WIN FIRST ROUND OF COURT JOUST

Denver, Colo., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Nudism today won the first round of a fight in two courts to decide whether its followers can go undressed legally.

The Rev. T. Krueger, Methodist minister, and his 25 fellow defendants, eight of them women, gained a postponement of their trials in both courts.

The 36 are charged in Juvenile court with contributing to juvenile delinquency and in Police court with contributing to a disorderly house.

The Juvenile court action resulted because four children were present in the undraping party in the home of John L. Garrison and his wife when officers called. The minister said he was present to "obtain a sociological view of nudism."

FROST SMUDGES SPREAD SMOKE TO LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Smudge smoke from the heating pots of frost fighters in the orange belt today placed Los Angeles in an all day twilight after orchardists spent last night responding to the freeze warnings put out by weather offices.

The black pall shrouded the shipping lanes of Catalina channel. One man, Lee Holder, 26, of Pomona, Cal., was killed when his car and another collided headon, both autoists being unable to see through the smoke of the smudges in groves adjoining the highway.

Freezing temperature damaged fruit to some extent, particularly in orchards not installed with smudge furnaces. Temperatures fell to 19 above zero in Saugus, 27 at Corona, 28 at Santa Ana, and 30 at San Fernando.

REILLY ATTACKS DEATH VERDICT OF HAUPTMANN

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The jury which found Bruno Richard Hauptmann guilty of murder in the Lindbergh case consisted of "twelve sterling citizens upon whom nothing registered," Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, said in a luncheon speech today before the Lions club of Brooklyn.

Reilly amended that to say one thing did register, "the noon recess." One jurywoman, Reilly said, ate fifteen rolls for luncheon.

"This case is not lost!" Reilly exclaimed. "I believe that Hauptmann never will pay the extreme penalty in the electric chair."

Reilly added that "the best we could get in that section—the Sourland mountains"—returned "a verdict on hero worship." He referred to Lindbergh's presence "under the jury's nose."

Death Sentences Affirmed for N. Y. Slayers of Priest

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Court of Appeals today affirmed the first degree murder convictions of Matios Leylegian and Nishan Sarkisian, sentenced to die for the slaying of Archbishop Leon Tourian in New York City in December, 1933. They were convicted of fatally wounding the archbishop while he was marching up the alle of the Armenian church on 137th street to celebrate mass.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Here's a live, engrossing and "different" football picture.

"The Band Plays On" tells the story of four wayward gamins who, under the guidance of a fine man—a football coach—grow up to splendid manhood and win fame on the gridiron.

The boys become known as "The Four Bombers." If you're up on your football you'll sense who inspired the story. Sure—the "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame.

The tale of the rise of the four, their adventures, the romance between one of them and the sister of another, who is also adored by a third of the quartet, furnishes interesting material that has been screened with sympathy and zip.

The boys are splendidly portrayed by Robert Young, Stuart Erwin, Russell Hardie and William Tannen. Little Betty Furness—whom you all loved as the daughter in "The Case of Vergie Winters"—is a darling as Sister Kitty who goes along with the boys, step by step of their way, weeping them out of juvenile court and darning their socks and mothering them at the co-ed college which she also attends. Ted Healy does a grand job as Kitty's chiseling elder brother.

To me, though, the outstanding performance was furnished by Preston Foster as the coach. I tell you, he never misses a cue! If this show doesn't send his fan mail up I'm no seeress!

There's just one place—toward the end—where the piece grows soppy. I won't tell you where, because I hope the general fineness of "The Band Plays On" will prevent your noticing it.

See you soon!

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The second annual All-Lutheran Chicago Student conference will be convened Sunday at the Lawson Y. M. C. A., Chicago avenue and Dearborn street, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Rev. Charles W. Kegley, Lutheran student adviser at Northwestern university. More than 2,000 students from the various campuses of Chicago and vicinity are expected to attend.

The Rev. Mr. Kegley said that a new organization, the Lutheran Student council of Chicagoland, will be developed at Sunday's meeting. Nationally known Lutheran leaders will participate in the conference.

One of the objects of the association, the Rev. Mr. Kegley said, is to build up an international fellowship of Lutheran students. It was first organized at Toledo, O., in 1922, and the first general convention was held a year later at Augustana college, Rock Island.

Fiery Milstein Stirs Audience at Orchestra

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Nathan Milstein, returning to make his sixth appearance as violin soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon, continued to set a disconcerting example to other violinists. For when he plays his fiery mastery affects his hearers so much that they sit and applaud and refuse to go home. They did it yesterday. Mr. Milstein returned to the stage again and again, leaving his violin behind and mopping his brow as an indication that one concerto was as much as any one soloist ought to be expected to do.

But the audience would have none of this sort of pantomime. They continued to bang enthusiastic palm against palm until he picked up his violin again, made another trip to the front of the stage, and played Bach's Prelude and Fugue in G minor.

All this had happened because of his performance of the Dvorak Concerto in A minor. It worked out as something of an extra triumph for him, for under ordinary circumstances the Dvorak Concerto is not the sort of piece over which one lies awake at night and muses. One thinks of it rather as just another extended and complicated work for the violin.

But Mr. Milstein has the commanding tone and is the commanding personality that transforms written music into exciting experience. He is one of the rare artists about whom one forgets all considerations of technic. He just plays, and you just sit and rejoice that there should be such a violinist in the world. And this is a good time to state once more that he will again be the soloist tomorrow night and Friday afternoon, at which times he will play the Brahms Concerto, preceded by Frederick Stock and the orchestra in two D'Indy works, "Wallenstein's Camp" and the Second Symphony.

Mr. Stock and the orchestra preceded him yesterday in Beethoven's Eighth Symphony and Richard Strauss' "Thus Spake Zarathustra," two noble works played on the plane of nobility.

The Musical Guild, an organization with the habit of discovering and presenting artists who have something to say for themselves, presented two more at Kimball hall last night, Mary Pearce Niemann, pianist, and Lucile Turner, violinist. Seldom has the guild justified its existence more completely.

Miss Turner played a Bach sonata, and later the Ravel "Tzigane" and a group of short pieces with fine, firm tone and musical appreciation. Mrs. Niemann, heard in works by Haydn, Schumann, and Chopin, was both fluent and brilliant, with full knowledge of how to play in both the big style and that of the miniature.

Beauties to Show London German Women Have Chic

LONDON, Feb. 27.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Twelve of the "most beautiful girls in Germany," with accent on the chic rather than the old "Gretchen" type, were due today from Berlin with the blessings of the ministry of propaganda. Their mission is to show Londoners that German women are just as modish as the English or French, and to disprove the still prevalent idea that German women under the Nazi régime have been ordered to revert to the "Gretchen" style.

Society Goes to Concert at Orchestra Hall

Disproves Reports That "Every One's Away."

BY JUDITH CASS.

"EVERY one's away" and "there's absolutely nothing doing" are on every one's lips these days, and sometimes when one is trying to collect society news one decides that the poet Bryant's description of the autumn, "The melancholy days are come," aptly fits this season, too.

But a visit to Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon for the fortnightly Tuesday concert made us realize that every one's not away and that there are plenty of interesting things happening, even though this is a dull season, socially speaking.

Had yesterday been a day when spring seemed just around the corner, perhaps some of the regular Tuesday concert goers might have been tempted to spend the day in the country, but the snowstorm and the fact that Nathan Milstein was the soloist made every one glad to spend the afternoon in Orchestra hall.

Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, who shares a box on Tuesdays with Mrs. John A. Spoor, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Charles K. Foster, and Mrs. James O. Heyworth, was hearing the last concert by the Chicago orchestra that she will hear for some time, for she is leaving next week with Mrs. Ezra J. Warner for a two months' Mediterranean cruise.

Mrs. Cummings Will Motor to South.

Mrs. Cummings will not be hearing the next few concerts, either, for she is leaving today with her sister, Mrs. James C. Sharp, and Mrs. Charles C. Adsit for several weeks of motoring in the south. Mrs. Cummings plans to be in Bermuda for the first anniversary of the marriage of her daughter, Edith, and Curtis Munson on April 7. The Munsons have a house on the island this winter.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham and Mrs. Americus F. Callahan have a box together on Tuesdays, and yesterday their guests were Miss Regina Wallace of the "Sixteen" company, Mrs. Louis K. Boysen, Mrs. Frank Towner, and Mrs. Avern Scolnik [Amy Neill, the violinist].

Mrs. F. Edson White is on her way to California, so her box yesterday was occupied by Mrs. Robert Hunter, Mrs. Robert Cabell, and Mrs. Charles Faulkner. Among others who enjoyed yesterday's concert and who by their presence belie that generality, "every one's away," were Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. John T. Pirie, Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Oliver Dennett Grover, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr., Mrs. Alfred D. Tyler, Mrs. William W. Dixon, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener, Mrs. Thomas Coyne, Mrs. William K. Kenly, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. Theodore A. Shaw, and Mrs. Dennis F. Kelly.

Winnetka Parties for Women Voters.

The Winnetka League of Women Voters is putting aside all thoughts of a serious nature today and is planning a day of play and relaxation in which the members are asking their friends to join. Four homes are being opened for bridge parties and one for a reading by Mrs. Edward V. L. Brown.

Bridge will be played at Mrs. William G. Hibbard's, 840 Willow road; Mrs. William B. Hale's, 900 Mount Pleasant road; Mrs. James F. Porter's 1085 Sheridan road, and Mrs. Walter F. Straub's, 1250 Westmoor road.

Mrs. Frank Ferry will open her residence at 391 Sheridan road for Mrs. Brown's reading of "Rain from Heaven." Mrs. George F. Munns is chairman of the ticket committee and Mrs. Whipple Jacobs is chairman of the committee that has arranged refreshments for the five parties.

The bridge parties will start at 1:30 o'clock with the serving of cake and coffee before the play commences, and the reading will begin at 2:30 o'clock and tea will be served afterwards.

Clever rhymed invitations, lettered and edged in silver, have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Otto Butz of Winnetka for Saturday night at 9 o'clock at their residence on Oak street. The occasion is the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Butz' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst C. von Ammon of Evanston.

Ellen Wacker Will Attend Eastern Wedding.

Miss Ellen Wacker, daughter of the Frederick G. Wackers of Lake Forest,

THIS is our favorite story of the day. The stewardess on an American Airlines' new Douglas plane—her name is Thelma Maul, handed the customary "ventilation card" to a quiet gentleman among the passengers en route from Chicago to New York. The card gives elementary instructions as to how to control the individual ventilation slot in the plane. The quiet man read the notice, smiled and fished out a card of his own, which he handed to Miss Maul. It read:

Cards—
Hunter—
Oddments—
Helpless—Letter.

"B. Alexander, Chief Engineer, Douglas Aircraft corporation."

MRS. CHRISTIAN SELLS JAEGER, historian of the Columbus Genealogical society, who traces her ancestry to Adam and Eve [4000 B. C.], bears an appropriate surname . . . the German equivalent of "hunter." She is certainly a hunter, but an anthropological minded friend wonders how she got by the Piltdown skull and the Java man, both of whom are at least 50,000 years older than the Adam of biblical chronology.

WEDNESDAY Notes from the Tuesday Cuff. The iceman who delivers to the bar aboard the Show Boat Dixiana wears spats. The press agent told me about it on Feb. 22, the most unliable of all days. . . . And Chicago's "farmer artists" will wear red underwear to the artists' dream ball at the Hotel Sherman Friday night. The "farmer artists" are Ivan Allbright, Marvin Marr Allbright, J. Theodore Johnson, and Davenport Griffin, all from downstate. . . . Martin K. Ash writes to ask "Have you heard about the lady who took up bowling in order to make a little pin money?" . . . The shop windows have broken out in a rash of gray tailored suits, with red ascots. . . . Architectural Colorist Johns H. The present day hostess can burn the candle at both ends, with the help of the U-shaped candle holders in the shops. . . . When Bert Lytell was in Chicago six years ago in "Brothers," he married his leading lady, Grace Menken. She retired from the stage and now runs a dress shop in New York, but she will be here next week when Lytell opens in "The First Legion," to celebrate their anniversary.

IT was a busy morning at the headquarters of the Garden Club of Illinois, which is planning its flower show for April at Navy pier. A lovely lady, fragile, young, and a little bewildered, entered and, hunting up Mrs. O. W. Dynes, general chairman of the show, asked a question about a vase for a flower arrangement. But before her question was answered she had the entire personnel of the office in attendance. Her heavy mink coat slipped to the floor; she lost her cigaret case; she had no matches; the dial telephone presented a problem too difficult to cope with. However, such appealing helplessness seemed its own excuse for being.

The woman was told that the container could be found at a shop in one of the larger buildings in the loop.

"I'll just go over there, then. Thank you," she said, gathering up her belongings.

"Are you quite sure you can find it?" Mrs. Dynes inquired. "I'm going over that way and I'll be glad to drop you."

"O, thank you, don't bother," came the reply. "I really know just where the building is. I own it."

AN Evanston book lady, Mrs. Mary Beimfohr, wrote to Gertrude Stein in regard to a manuscript dealing with Miss Stein's work—a manuscript called "It Is Very Easy to Be Land," according to R. E. Wolseley's book page in an Evanston paper. Miss Stein wrote back as follows:

"Thanks so much for the easy way you sent me. I think it is a very, very good way to find an easy way and it is a very great pleasure to me that there is this easy way to land really and truly and I do hope we will see you some time. We are in Chicago the beginning of March and I hope then we will see you."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One of the models we use in the photographs with which we adorn this column every other day put us next to a very interesting trio of lipsticks. We had seen them in one shop one day, but didn't give them much thought until we saw how satisfactorily this girl's lips were rouged and how the color stuck in the face of hot lights and considerable fussing with her face.

There are three, each a lovely shade. The texture is admirable—they're sufficiently moist and spready to ward off dryness. The color is utterly true and the lasting qualities are all you could ask. We might add that the three shades—called "morning," "noon," and "night," strike us as being somewhat unusual—not in the sense that they are bizarre but that they have a richness about them that we find admirable.

These lip rouges hail from Hollywood and are not very well known here; only one shop carries them, so far as we know.

If you're gift hunting or are in the market for a cigaret case for yourself, don't overlook the stunning one in black and white enamel that is made by one of our great perfumers. It is a match for several of his compacts and quite the most stunning thing in cases we've seen in a long time.

It holds a pretty generous supply of cigarets—though not a whole package—and is slender and light weight, always something to consider if you value the life of your pocketbook. It's wood on the inside. In the center of the outside is a wide panel of white enamel, with a silver crown adding a touch of distinction. Bands of black enamel flank the crown on either side.

Spring Shoes Go Fancy in Varied Ways

Style Changes Greatest of Several Years.

BY RHEA SEGER.

Fashions in shoes are just about the most different fashion of the last few years. Color rages in every collection. At the moment waves of blue in every shade and tone known to blue mixers have deluged the shops. Good navy blues, another deep blue the shade of cornflowers, a slaty blue and some gray blues, all hitherto distinct colors to match any costume, are so plentiful that they almost get in your hair.

Spring shoes have gone fancy and think nothing of many straps, curlicues in shiny lether against either fabric or dull lether, patches on the toe, heel or anything else. It's a clever shopper who can find a good unadorned pump and be satisfied after seeing the glory of the newest arrivals.

One very popular pump or strapped slipper that slid across the smartest dance floors throughout winter is now out in kidskin and street suedes. The straps across the instep are edged with white and they are especially effective with all the new blue costumes. Heels of patent lether or kidskin to match the patches and trimmings on dull fabric models make the pumps look inches shorter than plain creations.

The pumps are the smartest things in town. They appear in deep brown, navy and all kinds of stunning black numbers. The heels are high and sleek and there are both short and long vamps. The narrow tailored ribbon instep bows are an added way of keeping your feet looking short. Cutouts, from small designs to large complicated intercircle gouged out sections, are going to be the best buys for air cooled spring and summer footgear.

Fashion photo . . . Black and white dash for evening . . . the long clinging evening gown of dull crêpe has a glittering chest ornament of tiny rhinestones at the right side. The back is deeply cut in a square outline. Over this dress is worn the newest of white matelasse long coats, loose and boxy with long sleeves and a detachable scarf like an ascot to be tucked in the deep V in front or tied loosely around the neck. From a Chicago shop.

Morgan Will Sell Family Collection of Miniatures on Ivory

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Offices of J. P. Morgan disclosed tonight that the financier plans to offer for sale his collection of miniatures on ivory.

The miniatures will be sold at auction at Christie's in London later in the season, it was said, the London market being the recognized center for this type of art.

The collection, consisting of about 900 miniatures dating from the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries, was assembled by the late J. Pierpont Morgan, father of the present financier.

Morgan sold about a month ago six paintings from his art collection for approximately one and a half million dollars, disclosing he was seeking to put his estate in more manageable form. Subsequently he sold another famous painting for an undisclosed sum.

Last week it was learned he had placed on the market thirty-one acres of his estate at Glen Cove, N. Y.

REAL SKIN SOFTNESS MUST COME FROM THE Inside... that's Nature's way

And now scientists have discovered a new hand lotion (VELURE) that works with Nature to give hands a natural refreshing softness. Stimulates oil cells to give off more natural softening oil.

• The ordinary sticky hand lotion tries to do what skin specialists say is impossible. It tries to feed the skin from the outside—with a thick, gummy or creamy substance. This gives the skin a coating—almost a varnish—but it is an artificial and very temporary smoothness.

Velure, the sensational new hand lotion, works from the inside, stimulating the oil cells of the underskin to supply more of their precious softening oils to the outer skin. It aids Nature, gives hands a natural softness—the kind you feel in a baby's skin.

Velure goes into the skin quickly, dries almost immediately. Two drops on the back of each hand is all you need.

Use Velure after exposure to weather, water, housework or office work. Your hands will be free from roughness or chapping—with a supple, natural softness.

At your druggist or department store—or send coupon.

Velure is orchid in color, delicately scented. Bottle is authentic copy of early American hand blown bottle. Made to shake out one drop at a time. 50c

Velure RAPID LOTION • A BAUER & BLACK PRODUCT

More voluntary statements from typical Velure users

"Velure goes into the pores and does a lot for the skin—the most perfect hand lotion I've ever used, and I've used them all."

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives and attends a dinner party at the De Bellesnaves with his aunt and Sarah.

INSTALMENT XV.

FRIGHTENING OMENS.

Polly, the bulldog, waddled persistently from one to another, questing tit-bits and making a nuisance of herself. Gilcrest pushed her firmly away. Miss Venables more than once had to hide her repugnance, and finally when she laid a slobbering jaw on Mme. de Bellesnaves' lap her misplaced affection met with so violent a recoil that the baron rose, gathered the clumsy beast in his arms, and crooning softly to her, carted her from the room. To Sarah the episode was somehow pathetic, and the same could be said of another incident which followed soon after.

They had returned to the salon for coffee, and Miss Venables, producing a tissue paper parcel she had all along been guarding in her lap, unwrapped the small gifts she had brought from London—a bottle of scent for the baroness and a round, flat box of chocolates at sight of which the baron's features lit with childish delight.

"For me?" he cried. "My own particular weakness—and you remembered it! My dear Miss Venables, I am overcome!"

It was when the chocolates had been handed round that Sarah saw the little by-play not intended for the general eye. The baron, holding the box in his hands, gazed longingly at its contents, then up at Gilcrest with a whimsical pleading. The doctor whispered, "Well—just one, but no more," whereupon the baron made a careful selection and crunched his prize with deep enjoyment. As he did so the candle light flickering on him showed up the unhealthily livid tint of his wrinkled face, and it came over Sarah with absolute conviction that he was suffering from some grave internal complaint, perhaps unrealized by any one save his medical adviser and friend. Evidently chocolate was forbidden, yet he was far too considerate to allow his guest to suspect it. Her heart warmed towards him, and again, before the evening was over, she was to feel the same sympathetic emotion, though for a different reason.

It was while he was holding aloft the silver candlestick Sarah received her first shock.

Eleven had struck. The baron rose and whistled to the dog, and, turning to Sarah, who was watching, asked if she would care to assist at the coming ritual.

"You mean see you put her to bed? Yes, immensely."

"Then come with me."

Lifting a two branched candlestick, he led the way through the hall to a red tiled passage at the back, where stood a huge wooden cage. He let the beast out into a dark kitchen garden to prowl and sniff amongst gooseberry bushes, and during its absence washed and refilled an earthernware drinking vessel, afterwards plumping up a pile of cushions covered in faded red rep and shaking out an old gray army blanket. Presently the dog ambled in to dispose her ungainly bulk on the bed made ready for her. The baron tucked her up so that only her great, ugly muzzle protruded like a snail's head from its shell. Sarah supposed the performance was over, but it had only just begun. Polly's dull eyes bulged at her master with eager expectancy. They were watching him search with slow absent-mindedness through all his various pockets.

At last the baron fished up a small phial, unscrewed the cap, and let a single white tabloid trickle into his palm. He bent down, holding it out.

"Well, just one, but no more," he murmurred in so exact an imitation of Gilcrest's manner that Sarah burst out laughing.

"What on earth are you giving her?" she demanded, seeing the loose jaws clamp down on the coveted tabloid with intense satisfaction. "It looks like aspirin."

"It is aspirin." The faded eyes twinkled. "You find it ridiculous? Well—so it is. I pamper her, you see; but she is old, she is rheumatic, and she will not sleep comfortably unless she has her nightly dose. I, as it happens, have known what it was to wish for aspirin and not get it."

Sarah's amusement was checked. She noticed the sudden twist of pain about the little Frenchman's mouth as he straightened his bent back, and the absorbed devotion with which he stood regarding his loathsome pet compose herself for slumber. When he spoke again it was with a change of manner, to ask if Sarah liked paintings.

"I saw you looking at the Daumier in the hall. Come, I will hold the candles up to it so you can have a better view."

"So it is a Daumier! I thought so. I recognized the Don Quixote. What a lot of those he painted, and all beautiful! And during dinner I couldn't keep my eyes off the portrait opposite me. Is it an Ingres?"

"Yes, a portrait of my great-grandmother—one of the few good things left in my possession; but if it will not bore you, let us make a small tour of the others. Here, in the library, are some drawings you might care to see."

The library, with lether bound books mounting to the ceiling, contained various treasures over which Sarah exclaimed in delight. The baron must have divined her unspoken thought, for with a slight shrug he remarked that sooner or later they would have to go.

"Just possibly not in my time," he added, a smile like watery sunshine breaking through the gravity of his face.

It was while he was holding aloft the silver candlestick to illumine a group of miniatures hung against the brown striped damask of the wall that Sarah received her first shock of the evening. In the doorway lurked a rough clad man, squat, burly, with an inky, low growing thatch of hair and cunning, almond shaped slits of eyes set far apart in an oily, dark face.

"Well, Demo!" said the baron in French, kindly. "If your work is done, what are you hanging about for? Go home to your wife."

There was a stubborn mumble in a thick patois incomprehensible to the girl's ears. With a tolerant shrug the baron whispered that this was the gardener who had been helping Angela in the kitchen, and that what he really wanted was a drink.

"I suppose I must give him one. You will excuse me? But first let me light you back to the salon."

"No, no, I can easily find my way."

As they passed the ill smelling suppliant in the doorway Sarah was aware of shiny, crescent eyes following her with the same look of shrewd speculation. This appendage of the De Bellesnaves' household bore a striking resemblance to the swarthy traveler who had so excited Miss Venables' alarm. His features, his oily utterance, his mock cringing manner as he had saluted her were definitly oriental. Stick a fez or a turban on his head and he could have passed for one of the itinerant vendors so inextricably associated in her employer's mind with threats of death.

The four guests, leaving together, took a short cut through the grounds in the direction of the beach, whence a path led direct to the harbor end of the village. From the bottom terrace they turned to wave a last good-by to the figures framed in wavering yellow light to watch their departure. Gay voices cried to them. For a moment the baroness' sleek, raven head and glowing eyes were visible, her slender arm seen to link itself through that of her husband, whose wrinkled features, clearly fatigued, still shone with genial humor.

Harry strode confidently ahead with his aunt clinging trustfully to his arm. Sarah and Gilcrest followed more slowly, in a silence which neither seemed able to break. Now, thought Sarah, was her opportunity to get better acquainted with this man whose stubborn diffidence continued to pique her curiosity; but how start a conversation with one who simply made no advances? If he really were slavishly subjugated by Maddalena de Bellesnaves' fascination it might arm him against every other woman who ventured near; but was this the case? She felt a burning desire to find out.

A Friend in Need

Mother Needs Baby Carriage.

"Dear Miss Brown: We are helping a young couple who have two children of 2 years and 6 months, respectively. They are much in need of a wicker baby carriage or a stroller. They formerly had a huge dilapidated one which always was too heavy for the mother, who is small, to manage up and down several flights of stairs, and it is now past use.

"With more pleasant weather in the offing, we are anxious to see her children have more fresh air and will appreciate your help. L. A."

Actress Tells the World She Has a Son, 23

Helen Broderick Arrives for Film Debut.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Helen Broderick, who has arrived from New York to go into movies after a Broadway stage career that included seventy-four weeks in "As Thousands Cheer," proves to be less interested in making a success of her initial film venture than in the New York stage debut of Brod (Broderick) Crawford this week.

"Why shouldn't I be excited about him?" the actress demanded. "He's my son."

"Some actresses might not want the public to know they had a son 23 years of age," it was suggested to her at the studio.

"That doesn't hold good for me," Miss Broderick retorted. "I'm proud of him; I want everybody to know."

Her husband, Lester Crawford of the old vaudeville team of Crawford and Broderick, is here with Miss Broderick and will also take screen tests. Helen Broderick goes into "Top Hat," the next Fred Astaire starring vehicle, shortly.

Katharine Hepburn has given the studio exponents of "What a Well Dressed Actress Ought to Wear" another body blow, insisting on running around her set for "Break of Hearts" at Radio studio wearing woolen sox, but no shoes, in rehersals and close-ups.

Several movie actors own their own planes, but Harvey Stephens, a young actor at M. G. M., goes almost too far to please the studio. He pilots a glider towed by somebody else's plane.

Robert Taylor celebrated his new M. G. M. contract, which gives him a raise, by buying a bungalow for his mother, ordering a surgeon to take out his tonsils and setting up a trust fund which will tie up most of his salary every pay day.

Glenda Farrell's valuable Siamese cat, Frankie, who has been bothered so badly by failing sight that he has been banging into chairs and table legs, is now a happy cat again. Glenda took him to an optician, Merrill Hard, who made up a special pair of spectacles for the pet.

Fred Bartholomew, the English lad who made a hit in the boy rôle in "David Copperfield," returns to the studio Thursday after a personal appearance swing around the United States. Freddie will join Greta Garbo in "Anna Karenina," playing the same part formerly played by Philippe de Lacy in Garbo's previous appearance in the same story in silent days. That picture was made under the title "Love."

Will Rogers reported to Director David Butler at Fox studio yesterday morning, was told he could have the day off, and said: "Okay, I can catch a plane at 10:30 for Phoenix, Ariz. Will see you tomorrow." Fifteen minutes later Butler found a hitch had developed in Billie Burke's wardrobe for her rôle with Rogers in "Doubting Thomas," and he had to send studio cops, breaking speed laws, to catch Rogers before he took off. They brought the actor back in time, but not without some grumbling from Will.

Incidentally, Will Rogers was one of those who got up at 5 a. m. to fly with the newsmen's camera plane when Wiley Post attempted his sub-stratosphere takeoff to New York City last week.

"Rise and Shine," an original musical, will be the vehicle for Ted Lewis, his band and crooner, Pinkie Tomlin, at Metro, the plot having been written by Victor Mansfield and Paul Sloane. Sloane will direct it on a pretentious scale. The music isn't written.

Polish Consul to Attend Dinner to Aid Hospital

A dinner to which friends of St. Mary of Nazareth hospital are invited will be held Friday evening at the hospital to lay plans for the golden jubilee benefit concert scheduled for Easter Sunday. At the same time a reception will be held for the Polish consul general, Waclaw Gawronski. The concert will be in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the arrival in this country of the Polish Catholic order of Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth who conduct the hospital. Dr. John J. Killeen is general chairman of the concert committee.

BY MARY MEADE.

This new booklet of our about "Pantry Shelf Dinners" has been making us what I expect you'd term "jiffy-minded" lately. And it's rather fun. You begin by forgetting to order any groceries for dinner, and end up by triumphantly turning out an acceptable dinner, all in the course of about 20 minutes or so.

If you want to play, too, this aforesaid booklet holds a number of suggestions on foresighted pantry shelf stocking. After all, you do have to start with something. One of those handy things which do a lot to assure your success in the game is a can of spaghetti with a tomato and cheese sauce. It's really remarkable what you can turn out with that little can for a starter and almost any other convenient odds and ends for trimming.

Consider, for instance, the solution to your plight should your refrigerator disclose only the disconsolate remains of your yesterday's meat dish. All you'd need to do would be to reach for that can of spaghetti and a can opener, and you could turn it into something like this:

Meat Scallop.

1 can spaghetti with tomato and cheese sauce
1 to 2 cups of ground leftover meat, ham, beef, pork, lamb, or corned beef
Buttered bread crums or prepared cereal flakes

Chop the spaghetti a little, and arrange in a layer in a shallow greased baking dish. Spread the chopped meat over the spaghetti, and arrange in alternate layers, ending with spaghetti and a topping of crums or cereal flakes. Bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes. Either an onion or a green pepper, chopped and cooked until tender in a little butter or margarine, may find its way into the dish, if you encourage the idea.

Exactly the same idea works with leftover fish, or a can of salmon or tuna fish from that comforting pantry shelf. Begin by cooking about three sliced onions in butter or margarine until they're tender and yellow. Then mix the onions and the flaked fish with the can of spaghetti, and bake it just as the Meat Scallop.

Now, you're pretty certain to have a few eggs around, no matter how forgetful you've been about planning dinner. Assuming that there's cheese as well, here's an idea.

Baked Eggs in Spaghetti.

1 can spaghetti with tomato and cheese sauce
2 tablespoons butter
6 eggs
3 tablespoons grated cheese
Salt, pepper

Line six well-buttered ramekins, or a large baking dish, with the spaghetti. Make the necessary indentations for the eggs with a fork, and in each drop a small bit of butter. Then break an egg into each declivity, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and top with a small spoonful of grated cheese. Set the baking dish, or dishes, into a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set.

One of these recipes calling for a can of spaghetti is so good you'll probably want to start on it from scratch, and actually remember to order the necessary cubed lamb for its preparation.

Fricassee of Lamb.

10 small onions
4 carrots, cut in lengthwise strips
1 teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 can spaghetti with tomato and cheese sauce

Simmer the cubed lamb with water to cover and the salt and bay leaf, for an hour. Then add the onions and carrots and continue cooking gently for another half hour and, at the same time, separately heat the can of spaghetti. To serve, arrange the lamb in the center of a large platter, flanked with the onions and carrot strips, and at either end arrange a tidy mound of the hot spaghetti. Serve separately a gravy made from the thickened liquor in which the meat and vegetables were cooked, and seasoned with the Worcestershire sauce.

Predict New Fad in Which Rouge Will Cover the Face

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you know what they're trying to tell me now? Maybe you've heard it? That we'll be rouging all over the face shortly, instead of blushing only with the cheeks?

Now, I ask you, sisters, if that won't be something? Foreheads, chins, sideburns, everything eating up rouge as if we weren't running enough of a fever already. It won't become my peculiar style of beauty, I know. A case of slight sunburn sets my enemies to inquiring if perchance my grandpa mightn't have been one of the early lobster immigrants. But I don't think that'll stop me from trying the new wrinkle, if it takes on, that is.

Anyway, I've got to pass on the news to you in beauty circles whether I agree with it or not. And here's the way the news was passed on to me.

"Paris is wearing it. Everywhere you go you see glowing faces. This new radiance is achieved simply by using rouge all over the face. Yes, forehead, nose, and ear lobes too. The rouge is blended delicately, of course, with the greatest amount of color in the spots where it ordinarily would be. But it really is amazing, the young, animated, fresh appearance this new, all over rouge effect makes possible."

The thing we are told to remember, if we decide to burn up the rouge supply all over, is that to get the radiance, the sun kissed look that is most attractive, lighter, brighter rouge and lipstick are required.

There's a powder catch in this sun kissed look. You cannot use the old pinkish tints. You must douse the glimmer with ivory powder. Then, if you want to see what you can do to your face when the Don't Disturb sign hangs off the boudoir door knob, you can keep on experimenting with an additional shade of powder atop the sun glow with its ivory frosting. The blurb reads: "It's remarkable how, with two powder tints over a face entirely rouged, a woman can take her face in her own hands and better the sculpturing job done by nature!"

Now you try it, sisters, and tell me about it.

Mebbe that sun kissed glow is all we poor old shutins need! I dunno! It sounds kinda Van Gogh to me! But I've been wrong before.

is leaving Saturday for New York, where she will be a bridesmaid in a fashionable wedding on March 9. The bride is Miss Emilie Theresa Lesher, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Lesher of Rye, and the bridegroom is Spencer Jennings Leech, son of Mrs. Robinson Leech of Greenwich, and cousin of Miss Wacker. The wedding is to take place in the Presbyterian church at Rye with the Rev. Carl Barr officiating.

Miss Wacker, who has been studying at the Art institute since the debutante festivities finished, is going east early enough to be on hand for the many parties that will precede the wedding.

Walter S. Brewster is expected to return home today or tomorrow from a trip to the Virgin Islands, but Mrs. Brewster will not return for another ten days. At present she is in Palm Beach visiting Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick. Comte Serge Fleury has concluded his visit to Mrs. Chadwick and has returned to Paris via Havana. Robert Eskridge, who also has been a house guest at Mrs. Chadwick's Villa Today, now is a member of a house party to which Mrs. Robert R. McCormick is hostess.

More Palm Beach news: Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings have returned to the Breakers after a trip to Nassau which they took as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher of Detroit aboard the Fishers' yacht Nakoda. They will spend several more weeks in Palm Beach before returning to Chicago.

Mrs. Charles A. Klotz of Winnetka has been joined in Palm Beach by her daughter, Mrs. Austin Pardue of Minneapolis, and by Mrs. Charles A. Klotz Jr. Mrs. Pardue, former golf champion, is playing in the annual women's golf championship tournament of South Florida this week at the Palm Beach Country club, as are her mother and sister-in-law.

Additional Travel Items of Interest.

The William M. Spencers will return next week from a jaunt to Mexico City.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus D. Richards of Winnetka are leaving Friday for New Orleans to sail the next day for a sixteen day cruise to Havana and Panama. In Havana they will meet Mrs. Richards' mother, Mrs. George Mirick of Boston, who will be with them for the remainder of the cruise.

The Charles Lobdells and their son, Edwin, are leaving Hubbard Woods Saturday for New Orleans to visit for three weeks in the beautiful and interesting old city in which Mrs. Lobdell lived as a girl.

More comings and going of society: Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes and Dr. and Mrs. William A. Pusey returned recently from three weeks in Mexico City. From the same city came Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler and Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, who spent a month there.

The Horace E. Newcomets and their daughter, Marion, arrived at home last week from California. They returned via the Panama canal. The Alden H. Littles will arrive Saturday from a two weeks' tour of the west, partly on business and partly on pleasure. Miss Eleanor Wheeler is expected at home shortly from Palm Beach, where she is visiting friends. Robert E. Shaw, who lives at the Oak Park club, returned yesterday from a trip around the world begun last July. Mr. Shaw spent six weeks in Honolulu and another fortnight at Palm Springs.

Mrs. Valentine in Pasadena.

Away are Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, who will spend a fortnight in Pasadena; Mrs. H. Paul Juergens, who is in Springfield, Ill., visiting relatives; Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lawlor and their son, Daniel J. Lawlor, who are in Miami Beach for two weeks. Two new grandchildren were added to the Lawlor family recently, bringing the third generation total to five: William J. Lawlor III., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lawlor Jr., and Daniel Lawlor Douaire, son of the junior George F. Douaires, the Lawlors' daughter and son-in-law, who is now 2 months old.

Mrs. Edward W. Pardridge is leaving today for Palm Springs, Cal., where her daughter, Mrs. Columbus Healy, will join her. Mr. and Mrs. Healy are living in Seattle now, so Mrs. Pardridge will visit them there before returning to Chicago. She will be away about two months.

The Arthur Farwells of Geneva are leaving tomorrow for Tyron, N. C., where they will spend three or four weeks. Miss Harriet Leonard left yesterday for San Antonio, Tex., where she will spend a month or so on the Gallagher ranch. Her brother and sister-in-law, the Daniel Leonards, have taken a house in Lake Forest.

The former Peggy Glidden and her husband, John Roderick Rogers, who live in Au Sables Forks, N. Y., are enjoying a midwinter vacation, too. They have gone to Eustis, Fla., for a month to visit Mrs. Rogers' grandparents, the William Workmans of Springfield.

Miss Emily Goehst, Miss Dorothy DeRiemer, Mrs. Carroll William Johnson, Miss Julia Drake, Miss Elizabeth Peitzsch, Miss Margaret Broomell, and Miss Ruth Griffenhagen are some of the Chicago College Club players hard at work on a comedy entitled "Players' Variety Hall Night" to be given tomorrow evening in the club lounge, 196 East Delaware place.

Willing Workers.

The Willing Workers Woman's club will meet at 1:30 p. m. today in the Real Estate Board building. Blanche Zippert Lurie will read a three act play, "Romance," by Edward Sheldon.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

REBIDDING AFTER DOUBLING WITH AN AGGRESSIVE HAND.

I am now thinking of hands with which the double is more than "strategic" because the object is not to interfere with the enemy, but to get to game or slam; game on one's own cards alone, slam if the partner can make some desired response. Others use jump overcalls as forcing bids with these hands. I prefer to double first and then, if necessary, to force on the next round and possibly even force again. This particular use of the double will make it clear why I do not wish my partner to pass my double "for business" unless I am going to get another chance to bid.

Let me make it clear that when I double and then make a jump bid this jump bid is an absolute force, just as much so as an opening forcing bid, and my partner must not pass any bid below game. He may trust me to have the situation absolutely under control, and if he cannot fathom my actions at the time he may feel assured that either I do not need to know anything about his hand or that his first response has either satisfied me in some way or else it holds me to game when I had hoped for slam. His duty is to respond to my bids in the normal manner, bidding no trumps as denials but showing preference if I seek it. The following hand came up in a rubber game recently. I sat North.

S—A
H—A Q J 10
D—A Q J x x x x x
C—None

S—K Q J x
H—x x x
D—x
C—A J 10 x x

W. E. S. N.

S—10 9 x x x
H—x x
D—K x x
C—x x x

S—x x x
H—K x x x
D—x
C—K Q 9 x x

West bid a club, third hand. I doubled. My partner bid a no trump. Three diamonds by me, a force telling him that I do not need normal support for the diamond suit and that I have a very strong hand and a very long, strong suit. Three no trumps by him, having nothing to tell me at this point except that he cannot raise diamonds; four hearts by me.

Please Follow and Check These Inferences.

He now knows that I have at least ten red cards, and that his singleton diamond and his four hearts to the king are key holdings especially because the king of hearts not only removes a loser for me, but means a sure quick entry card to his hand. He has been clearly told that the hand is safe at six, because I was prepared for him to go to five diamonds if he had less than four hearts, or to bid four no trumps, compelling me to bid five diamonds. So he made the very illuminating response of five hearts.

Why I Bid a Grand Slam.

I now bid seven hearts, realizing that the king of hearts was the only high card on which he could be directing me to a slam [with x x x x in hearts, he would pass unless he had the king of diamonds] and that if after all he had two small diamonds I would still have a finesse for grand slam and a heart entry to dummy to enable me to take that finesse. Had we been playing our responses differently South would have surely passed the club double; the opponents were vulnerable; we would have scored 500 points, a poor substitute for what we actually did score. With a powerful two suiter, you might have to force twice, the second time to show that your second suit was of at least five cards, and that you only need a slight fit in one suit together with a short holding in the other in order to have no losers in either suit, as the off suit will be ruffed out and thus be relieved of its losers. In today's hand, if I had held one more heart and one less diamond the bidding would have been one club, double, one no trump, three diamonds, three no trumps, five hearts, as I certainly want to play the hand at six in a red suit—the one my partner prefers; I will gamble on a play to make small slam. That bidding would show at least eleven red cards, and announce that I do not have two immediate losers in the black suits.

Child's Dislike of Chores Is Easily Cured

Intelligent Explanations Best Therapeutics.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I don't know what's come over my boy—he used to love to help me when he was little and now he grumbles over being asked to do almost anything," is one complaint I often receive.

Sometimes it is the daughter who is the cause of the complaint. Let us take this then as the second trying phase of the in-betweens—this dislike of doing a share of the family work.

The cause of this is largely that the novelty that these chores have earlier has worn off, and they have become duties instead of being play and small adventures. Also there are all the other interests and diversions that come along about this time which seem much more important than dishes or errands or odd jobs.

The cures for this reluctance to work around home may be various, as: trying to find an incentive that will make the task take on interest; or explaining "man to man" the need and importance of the little job being done; being free with praise; trying to have the chore done while you are working so that there's a "doing things together" spirit; or, as a last resort, making a game of the work. The good sportsmanship of doing your part can be an underlying spot to be touched when the child is a little older.

Now there is one more suggestion for dealing with this trouble of the in-betweens that I want to put in a paragraph all by itself. That is, that you vary the particular task you expect your inbetween to accomplish. Monotony takes the zest out of things that are hard to do at best. So if you see lagging or neglect in the "offing," switch to some other kind of work. This I know helps a lot.

The other suggestion along this line is that you take a child's likes and dislikes into account when it doesn't really matter to you. One boy said, "Give me anything to do, mother, except beds." Another said, "As long as you don't give me anything to do that would make the boys call me a sissy—why, okey-doke, mom." A daughter seemed to have a real aversion for getting her hands in biscuit or pie crust or bread dough, but was willing in other ways. Respect these little idiosyncrasies where possible.

"Living With Our In-Betweens" is a fully written booklet on the 6's to 12's and will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. George Roberts, Lake Forest Pastor 20 Years, to Quit

The Rev. Dr. George Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Lake Forest, will terminate his 20 year pastorate on Sunday, March 10, he announced yesterday. Dr. Roberts tendered his resignation last September, stating that the resignation would take effect at the close of 20 years of service, and added his belief that "no minister should serve the same church for more than 20 years."

Members of his congregation and citizens of Lake Forest will hold a reception in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Roberts on Friday, March 8. On the following Sunday he will preach his farewell sermon. The session of the Lake Forest church has announced that no successor has been chosen. Dr. Roberts has not announced his future work.

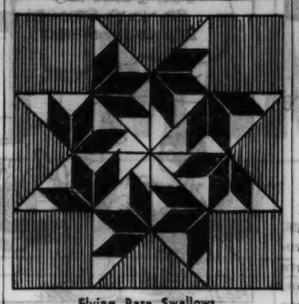
Pieced Quilt with Swallow Theme Is Complicated One



Flying Barn Swallows.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

Good looking, though slightly complicated, is the pieced block, Flying Barn Swallows. Because of the very fact that it is more difficult to piece than the average block, its value is increased in any competition. This block also is known as Falling Star, Flying Star, or Circling Swallows. Note how the diamond shaped bird patches all are facing one direction. One may judge the age of the quilt pattern from the fact that it ranked among the prime favorites of New England and Pennsylvania around 1800.

With her second book of quilts, Nancy Cabot now offers 10 patterns of her own choice at a combination price of 10 cents (12 cents by mail). The booklet alone is 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices—1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

George I. Rohrbough Named President of Monticello Seminary

The appointment of George Irwin Rohrbough, 34 years old, of Newtonville, Mass., as president of the Monticello seminary, a college for girls at Godfrey, Ill., near East St. Louis, was announced yesterday in the office of Theodore Chapman of the law firm of Chapman & Cutler, 111 West Monroe street. Mr. Chapman is a member of the board of trustees of the seminary.

Mr. Rohrbough will succeed Miss Harriet Congdon, who has announced her retirement because of ill health. She has been president for twenty years.

Mr. Rohrbough, who is married and has one son, is a graduate of Harvard university and for the last few years has been connected with the Newtonville High school.

The seminary is one of the oldest colleges for girls in the United States, having been founded in 1838 by Capt. Benjamin Godfrey of Monticello Prairie, Ill. Godfrey, who was a sea captain, was the father of ten daughters.

Big Salary No Longer Needed for Marriage

Parents Should Modify Point of View.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Her father tells the girl, now 23, that if she marries it will prove to him that she has no appreciation for all the money he has spent on her education. He says he wouldn't mind so much if she were marrying a man earning a good salary. The one to whom she is engaged is making around $37.50 a week. Dad thinks a man should be making $65, at least, before he talks marriage to a girl.

The young woman, trained for teaching work, has had no luck getting a job. The last six months she has been hanging around home, and she hates living longer off her dad. Dad doesn't mind, says he likes to have her home. He would rather have her at home earning nothing than married under the circumstances already named.

We just wonder where dad has been living and on what the last few years with this $65 per week salary idea for young men. He must have had his invested in depression-proof bonds or he would have become aware that times have changed and that $65 per week is not the usual young man's weekly income these days.

Of course, father's interest in seeing his girl comfortably set cannot be condemned. It's a natural interest. Fathers, when they are indulgent, feel that there isn't anything too good for their girls. We don't lay much emphasis on dad's argument about his girl's ingratitude for the sums he has spent on her education. The fact that he relishes her remaining around home indicates a generous affection. He isn't opposed to the girl's marrying, but only to marrying on a limited income.

Well, if the dads don't know what's going on in the world at the moment the children will have to tell them. About the only chance a girl has for marriage today, the average girl, that is, is to be willing to struggle along on a modest weekly income. Those who have the courage to do it, seem to be making good headway, at that. If the girl is willing to take on the rôle, we think dad would be contributing more to society if he'd give her a boost instead of a knock on this marriage thing.

NAME 3 TO RULE ALL AGRICULTURE IN NEW ZEALAND

Protests of Farmers Are Turned Down.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Feb. 26.—With the appointment of an executive commission of three members named by Gov. Gen. Lord Bledisloe, the New Zealand government has taken charge of the whole domain of agriculture. The commission is to supersede all farmers' organizations and is to become virtual dictator, responsible only to the government and removable only by the ministers.

The commission is charged with the coördination of agriculture and the encouragement of profitable lines of production, a task which demands something similar to a series of five year plans. Legislation for creation of the new commission was rushed through parliament at the close of last year on the plea of the government that the crisis of falling prices and dwindling markets for farm products was desperate and that action must be immediate. Farmers fought the measure on the claim that their own elected boards were able to accomplish all necessary work and that rule of this sort is dangerous and undemocratic.

Two from Producers.

On the commission are Judge Fraser, president of the national arbitration court; David Jones, chairman of the New Zealand Meat Producers' board, and George Andrew Duncan, secretary of the Hawera Dairy company.

Judge Fraser is known for his understanding of a wide field of industries which have been under investigation during the ten years he has ruled the court governing working conditions, hours, and wages of all unions. He was the balance between the delegate of labor and of employers and ruled so consistently in favor of unionists that some employers grew restive and claimed his court "worked only in one direction." This charge influenced the government three years ago to reform the court by providing that it could command the conduct of various industries only if both employers and workers' organizations agreed to go before it.

Jones is the government appointed chairman of the meat producers' board which was largely elected by farmers themselves. Recently the board sent Jones to England to make representations to the British government against the quota imposed on New Zealand meat. He was snubbed by the British, who claimed they could deal only with the government.

Move to Other Fields.

Duncan is known as one of New Zealand's most efficient executives in the field of milk products. This is the nation's other great export industry and the one at present most menaced by an unexplained fall in prices, while the cost of milk shipped by other countries remains high.

The new control of agriculture, however, is merely one move in a series which seems certain to extend to other fields. Manufacturers are considering creation of a similar board for themselves, to estimate quotas of various goods needed by the country, and to seek refusal of licenses to industries duplicating existing plants which can supply the demand.

Transport by road, rail and air is similarly controled following acts of recent years. The creation of a new central reserve bank by the government was openly avowed by the finance minister to be directed at the trade banks which were accused of running finance in their own interests and not those of the country. State intervention has released farmers from the need to meet mortgage payments and has cut interest, present and in arrears. A great new mortgage corporation to take over all mortgage finance and relieve indebted farmers by imposing still lower rates is promised for this year.

Circumvent Court Losses.

In every field the government thus has embarked on a path akin to the methods of Fascist Italy. Parliament has even extended its own term to avoid an awkward election early this year.

Some control measures have lost tests in the Supreme court, but this has made little difference as the acts, carefully reframed, have been put through in different language. One of these provided for refusal of licenses to movie theaters operating in territories which the minister of commerce considered already well served.

Another act refused the right of farmers supplying milk to one dairy plant to change to another in the same season. Still another declared the erection of new dairy factories or meat freezing works must depend on certificate of the minister of agriculture.

This trend of New Zealand events will form the major issue of the election campaign to be waged at the end of the present year.

TEN ACCUSED OF INDECENCY GIVE BAIL.

Seven women and three men arrested Monday night at the North Shore ballroom, 2048 Hampden court, were released in bond of $100 each yesterday after they had been charged with giving an indecent show. The defendants are to be arraigned in the Woman's court today.

"MY LIFE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

Irish home rule rears its head in the British parliament and Churchill is asked to undertake a difficult task which he feels compelled to refuse. Instead he becomes home secretary, a position not to his liking, but one involving rare honor for a man of 36.

BY WINSTON CHURCHILL.

We now entered upon the memorable political struggle and crisis centering round the house of lords and Irish home rule. When the Liberals after having been shut out of power for so many years gained a great majority in 1906, they not unnaturally thought they would be able to pass some at least of the bills they wanted. In particular the non-Conformists wanted to alter Mr. Balfour's education act of 1902 and the Temperance party, then very strong, wanted to handle the brewers and publicans with severity. But it appeared that the house of lords acting in conjunction with the opposition in the house of commons meant to throw out all Liberal bills to which the Tory party objected.

In the first two years they threw out both the education and licensing bills which came to them by tremendous majorities after many months of labor. When Mr. Asquith became prime minister it seemed that the Liberal government was in a hopeless position. It could not pass any controversial legislation, and without controversial legislation party governments cannot live. Mr. Lloyd George therefore prepared a budget for 1909 which was virtually a political program in itself. It contained proposals for the taxation of land values which were indeed a decisive challenge to the house of lords. Either they should swallow these or they must break the constitutional tradition which had grown up for generations that the lords had no control over finance.

Conservatives Beat Budget.

The house of lords guided by the Conservative leaders in the commons did not hesitate to reject the budget. This was a terrible political blunder. It relieved the government from defending their own record and enabled them to lead all their forces to the attack on the vote of the house of lords which had just been used in such a partisan and unconstitutional manner.

Had the Conservatives taken any other course they would have won the election. As it was, although they gained nearly one hundred seats, the Liberals were still the largest party in the house and with the Irish Nationalists had a majority of one hundred and fifty. Politics then passed into a most violent phase and no one can tell how far partisanship would have carried the two great factions, if we had not all been overtaken by the awful ordeal of the great war.

Becomes Home Secretary.

When the government was reshuffled after the election of 1910 and it was evident that Ireland would be in the forefront of affairs, Mr. Asquith wrote inviting me to take the Irish office. I could not see my way to undertake this fierce and deadly task, and instead I was made home secretary. Naturally I was pleased to become at thirty-six the senior secretary of state. But of all the offices I have held this was the one I liked the least. The whole administration of criminal justice, the prisons, the metropolitan police and the responsibility for law and order are in the domain of the home office. Upon the table of the secretary of state stands by ustom a gloomy frame with the names of murderers condemned to death. The duty of the jury is to find in accordance with the evidence. The judge is bound to pass a capital sentence after a verdict of murder.

The officials of the home office advise on precedent. But the secretary of state alone has a discretionary power. He decides whether the royal prerogative of mercy shall be invoked or not. There are perhaps twenty or twenty-five executions a year. In the majority of these cases there are hardly grounds for interfering with the due course of the law. But there is a proportion of cases about which there is a vehement conflict of opinion and where guilt and innocence are veiled in doubt.

Difficulties of Office.

The Court of Criminal Appeal, which did not exist in my day, is no doubt an invaluable process in these cases. But there is a third class of case in which no court can assist the home secretary. Here there is no doubt that the murder has been committed and the decision turns upon the provocation or other extenuating circumstances. When justice has exhausted all her procedure, compassion must still seek for any means of entry that may be open. Any one will understand how painful and anxious are the personal decisions which every home secretary is forced to give, and what a shadow they cast upon the year's work.

I interested myself very keenly in our prison system, and was able to make a number of changes on a humane character none of which have ever been reversed. I abolished the notorious ticket-of-leave system and substituted the use of Prisoners' Aid societies so that a well conducted exconvict need never again be brought in contact with the police.

I reduced the period of solitary confinement with which sentences of penal servitude began from nine months to a few weeks. The prison libraries were enlarged by a greater variety of books. The system of entertainments in the prisons every few months was introduced, and we soon saw from the convicts' letters how much they liked and looked forward to these interludes in the grey monotony of their existence.

Reduces Number of Prisoners.

By the simple expedient of allowing time to be given for the payment of fines inflicted by the courts of summary jurisdiction, the whole prison population of the island was reduced by scores of thousands without any appreciable loss in the collection of fines. It is pleasant to reflect that these mitigations in the rigor of our punishments were accompanied and followed for many years by a steady diminution of crime.

While at the home office I succeeded in passing the shops act which secured compulsory, universal weekly half-holiday to our two million shop assistants and enabled voluntary local arrangements for early closing to be made compulsory on the minority. I am still president of the Early Closing association, and it has been a great satisfaction to watch year by year the public making their very much larger purchases within more reasonable restricted hours. This with "Daylight Saving" has opened a different kind of life altogether to all these young people of both sexes who serve behind the counters of our shops.

BRITISH POLICE BAFFLED BY LEGS FOUND ON TRAIN

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A new and mystifying theory that the human legs found wrapped in a brown paper parcel under a seat in a railway coach at Waterloo station yesterday belonged to a youth masquerading as a woman was advanced tonight by Sir Bernard Salisbury, Europe's most publicized criminologist.

The ace sleuth of Scotland Yard said after examining the gruesome find that there were indications peroxide had been used to whiten the flesh and remove the hair from the legs. He also pointed out that the toes were abnormally cramped and the insteps arched, as if deformed from wearing a woman's shoes.

Another theory is that medical students might have wrapped up the legs and put them aboard the train as a practical joke. The police are seeking three young men who lounged about the station at Hounslow just before the legs were discovered. The stationmaster there said one of the three, who was red haired, later entered the Waterloo train.

WORKER DIES AT HIS TASK.

FEAR 28 BODIES LOCKED IN HULL OF SUNKEN BOAT

CASTRIES, St. Lucia, British West Indies, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A ship of death, the capsized excursion launch St. George lay beached at Choiseul village tonight while officials sought entry to its hull to determine the death count in the tragedy that ended its Sunday cruise along St. Lucia's southwest shore.

The little craft overturned Sunday afternoon. Six bodies have been brought to shore and buried. Between 28 and 34 are missing, and it was believed many of them were trapped in the ship.

No bodies were found today at the spot three miles off the nearby village of Laborie where the capsizing St. George sent its Negro passengers and crew plunging into the Caribbean. None have been found since Sunday, when small boats crept into harbor with the six bodies and 74 rescued survivors.

FRIENDS SEE PLOT TO HAVE BRITAIN DEPORT WALKER

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The suspicion that James J. Walker's creditors may be planning an attempt to "put him on the spot" for failure to register as an alien during his stay in England the last couple of years was expressed tonight by his friends.

They recalled that a creditors' attorney pressed the former New York mayor strongly during the court hearing yesterday in order to force him to admit his negligence in not registering.

Legal experts, however, were dubious as to what creditors could gain by forcing his return to the United States. The chief inspector of the main registration bureau indicated that he has until April 24 to register if he chooses to do so. Inquiries at the home office revealed British authorities disinclined to take any action against Walker with a view toward deportation.

U. S. EMPLOYE TO FIGHT CONVICTION ON THEFT CHARGE

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The appeal of Leonard McIntosh, chief clerk of the public works department here, from a conviction of misappropriating federal building materials, will be heard by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia next month.

McIntosh was put on trial last December before District Judge Webber Wilson after the government attorney refused to prosecute him on the grounds that there was no evidence against McIntosh. The judge tried the case himself. He found McIntosh guilty and sentenced him to pay a fine of $200.

"The American Civil Liberties union went into this case," Ernst said, "to test the right of a judge in the Virgin Islands to act as judge, jury, and prosecutor."

McIntosh said the materials he was charged with having misappropriated, and which he admitted he had received, were given him in exchange for materials and services he had furnished the public works department. He said the total value of the alleged misappropriated articles was around $12.

BRITISH ADMIRAL IS ACQUITTED IN WARSHIP CRASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Great Britain's first court martial of an admiral since the world war ended today in acquittal for Rear Admiral Sidney Robert Bailey. He was found not guilty of "negligently or by default suffering the battle cruisers Hood and Renown to be hazarded."

The trial arose out of a collision between the Hood, the world's largest warship, and the Renown in Spanish waters on Jan. 23.

Admiral Bailey, whose wife is the former Mildred Bromwell, daughter of the late Col. Charles Bromwell of the U. S. army, said he thought the Renown was to blame as it did not swing aside so as to pass astern of the Hood, its normal position at the complicated maneuvers called inclination exercises.

Both Capt. Francis T. B. Tower, commanding the Hood, Admiral Bailey's flagship, and Capt. H. R. Sawbridge of the Renown testified they thought the other vessel was going to give way. At the last minute both took steps to avoid a collision, but it was too late. The two captains will be tried by the court martial tomorrow.

FOUND DEAD IN SHED.

REDUCE GOLDEN GLOVES FIELD TO 32 TONIGHT

HEAVIER BOYS POUND AWAY BEFORE 9,000

Thomas Wins Twice in Title Defense.

Fight Facts

Place—Chicago Stadium, 1800 Madison street.

Time—First bouts in one ring at 7 p. m.; doors open at 6:30 p. m.

Admission—$1.10, 66 cents, and 40 cents reserve seats; general admission 25 cents.

Number of bouts—Sixty.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The big Berthas went into action in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium last night.

Otis Thomas, giant colored boy and the Chicago heavyweight champion of last year, uncorked a few punches that rocked nearly the whole west side. A mighty left to the chin which Otis shot from the hips upward knocked out La Rue Norris of the University of Illinois in the second round.

An hour later Thomas was back in the ring firing away at Paul Williams, a big colored youngster from Joliet. Otis won off by himself after his terrific left had connected twice with Williams' chin in the second and had landed again in the last session.

Otis didn't seem to want to knock Williams into slumberland. He appeared fully capable of doing it at any stage of the battle.

Danville Boy Punches On.

George Shields, the Danville heavyweight, also romped to two easy victories. His first victim was Bobby Longfellow of Kokomo, Ind., and the second fellow to feel the power in his gloves was Jake Roundhouse of Grand Rapids.

Paul Hartnek of Omaha was another husky whose punches carried a load of dynamite. The Omaha big fellow whipped Charley Williams of Chicago in his first appearance in the ring. Then he came along and whipped Mike Kuzman of Milwaukee.

The devastating punches of Tom Neil of the Bloomington Pantagraph team put Pete Doss of Centralia and Roland Hayes of Fort Wayne out of the running.

From Detroit there came a new light heavyweight to take up where the sensational Joe Louis left off a year ago. His name is Clinton Bridges. A mighty man is this colored boy. He knocked out Woodrow White of Vincennes in the second round. Then he came back a few minutes later to put Edward Yde of Doubuque to sleep also in the second session.

Tales are drifting in from Detroit that Bridges whipped Louis on two occasions before Joe drifted into the professional ranks.

Continue Fighting Tonight.

At the end of last night's fighting, witnessed by a highly enthusiastic crowd of 9,000, an original Golden Gloves field of slightly more than 10,000 had been reduced to less than 100. When tonight's battles, which will start in the same arena at 7 o'clock, but in one ring only, are over just 32 boys from this enormous field will survive.

Chicago boys were fighting with their backs to the wall. Out of 250 fights in two nights they had been able to win less than fifty engagements. The Chicago victors hailed from the Catholic Youth organization, from the three Chicago sectional centers, and from some smaller clubs.

Snowstorm Gives Dixie Boys Greatest Golden Gloves Thrill

Boxers from the sunny south woke up yesterday morning to a typical northern winter day. Several of them had never seen a real snowstorm before. And were they hot for it?

The boys from below the Mason and Dixon line romped in the snow, tossed snowballs, and rolled each other in drifts as they waxed hysterical. It was the big day of the tournament so far as they were concerned.

Tommy Barry of Springfield, National A. A. U. champion, is awaiting competition in the 118 pound class with considerable apprehension. This is perhaps the toughest weight division in the tournament. Remaining with Barry are Troy Bellini of Cleveland, the diamond trophy winner here last year and conqueror of Barry in the bantamweight finals, and Johnny Brown of the C. Y. O.

Barry's hardest fight Monday night was with Frankie Cvitak of Omaha, a clever southpaw. Barry was clipped on the chin and hit in the solar plexus in the second round and admitted being almost out. Able to hold on until his head cleared, he came back in the third to win a close decision.

Ben Finnerty, the Omaha World-Herald's fighter, is the tallest flyweight ever to compete in the Golden Gloves tournament. Standing six feet, Ben weighs only 112 pounds, but he employs his tremendous reach to good advantage. Floyd Olds, sports editor of the Omaha paper, believes he has a potential champion in Finnerty.

Omar Crocker of the Green Bay team is a brother of Charlie Crocker, a lightweight who turned in many great fights in Wisconsin and Chicago about five years ago.

Little Andy Medina, Peoria Journal-Transcript flyweight champion, who is of Indian-Mexican parentage, has fought and defeated a Negro, Filipino, Irishman and American in his four bouts to date. Andy's brother, Raul, won the featherweight championship in the Streator tournament, but was unable to appear last night because of a strained muscle. Andy started amateur boxing less than six months ago.

Billy Sparks, the Indianapolis flyweight, is a substitute who made good. The little Hoosier battler was a last minute nominee. Ray Waggoner, the Indianapolis champion who shaded Billy in the Indianapolis final, was unable to make the trip because of illness. Sparks was brought into action and was the hero of the Indianapolis team. He won two bouts by decisive point margins.

Bloomington fans predict that George Dungey, lightweight member of the Pantagraph's Golden Gloves team, will be a finalist, if not a champion, in his division. Dungey was a finalist on the Peoria team two years ago and a quarter finalist on the Bloomington team last year. He won his first two fights Monday night.

Herb McKane, the featherweight member of the team from Quincy, didn't know a thing about fighting until he entered the Quincy tournament. He trained just two weeks before winning the title. The lad from Bevier, Mo., takes his fistic efforts seriously, so much so that he shed a tear or two when he lost his fight Monday night.

Johnny Dill, trainer and coach for the Danville team, was the 160 pound champion at Danville in 1932.

Included among the Cleveland, O., Plain Dealer boxers are Pat Kelly, 126 pounds, and Lloyd Marshall, 160. Kelly is a redhead of Italian descent. Marshall, a colored youth, can't pass by a piano without sitting down to bang out a few peppy tunes.

SIXTY STIRRING BOUTS

That's tonight's program at the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions as the best boxers in 11 states swing into the third night of competition.

If you were on hand at the Stadium last night or the night before you'll be back for more tonight. And if you missed the first two nights' great cards, don't let it happen again.

Tickets are 25 cents, 40 cents, 66 cents and $1.10. The 25 cent seats—7,000 of them—are unreserved and will go on sale at gates 1, 3 and 6 of the Stadium tonight at 6 o'clock. The other tickets will be available at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, at Tribune Tower, and at the Stadium beginning at 10 a. m.

Tickets for the finals March 8 at the Stadium, at 55 cents, $1.10, $1.65, and $2.20, are also on sale over the counter or may be ordered by mail. Send check or money order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

GRIMM DOESN'T PREDICT PENNANT FOR HIS CUBS

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dodge City, Kas., Feb. 26.—Negative first paragraphs are bad business but nevertheless we are obliged to report the following things are among the incidents that did not happen today on the train that is carrying half of the Cub cast to California for spring training.

Manager-Vice President Grimm did not predict a pennant. He is hopeful, but in most respectful voice says that the Cardinals and the Giants must be slain before the Cubs can develop a chance. Unlike many, Grimm does not consider the Pirates in a class with the Cards, Giants and Cubs.

Challenge is Ignored.

Manager Grimm did not announce the possibility of a deal which will bring the Cubs another starting pitcher ere the season gets under way. He intimated that he does not know enough about any of his rookies to guess on the identity of the gent who is destined to be the auxiliary starter in conjunction with Lon Warneke, Lefty French, Bill Lee and Tex Carleton.

Pitcher Hugh Casey, whom fellow Georgians hail as the greatest shot in baseball and one of the best in the country, did not accept the challenge of Lon Warneke for a shotgun and rifle tournament. The tournament had been suggested several weeks ago by THE TRIBUNE in a partisan burst of indignation following Georgia's boasts about Casey. Casey now claims to have bagged as many as 200 quail in one day and Warneke says he doesn't believe it.

Reach Camp Tomorrow.

The Cub party is scheduled to arrive on Catalina Island at noon Thursday. Trunks will be opened forthwith and regalia will be available to those who desire to take a workout Thursday afternoon. The first formal call will be for 10 o'clock Friday morning.

GOLDEN GLOVES SPONSORS GIVEN ANNUAL BANQUET

More than 200 publishers, editors, and sports writers of newspapers that sponsored teams in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions were the guests of THE TRIBUNE at a banquet at the Palmer House following last night's Golden Gloves fights. The occasion marked the eighth annual gathering of the newspaper folk who have coöperated in making the Golden Gloves the largest amateur boxing tournament in the world.

SOX SQUAD OF FIFTEEN STARTS FOR SPRING CAMP

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who aren't certain just where they'll go to or come from by the time next October arrives, set forth last night toward a definite goal. With the assistance of the Los Angeles Limited of the North Western road they pulled out for Pasadena, Cal., where for the third spring in succession they'll do what can be done about whipping a team into shape for the impending American league race.

Because some of the boys are close to camp and can make the journey direct with less loss of time and expense, only about fifteen assorted notables were in the party headed for sunshine and warmth.

Durham Is Delayed.

All of the employés slated for the journey out of here showed up as per schedule. Duke Al Simmons was a bit late checking in, but explained that he had been detained by making his annual visits along Mitchell street in Milwaukee, his home town. Sam Jones also checked in late enough to cause some anxiety for Joe Barry, the Sox traveling secretary, but Sam always was a leisurely fellow and besides has done so many training jaunts that he wasn't worried about getting to the depot early so as to be assured he would be in on the picture taking.

Nothing further was heard from Ed Durham, who yesterday forwarded information that he would be detained at his South Carolina home by prospects of an operation for removal of an annoying appendix. If an operation proves necessary he probably will not be available for actual pitching until some time in June. In the event he escapes the surgeon's knife he may join the Sox inside a couple of weeks.

No Word from Bonura.

Additional word from Zeke Bonura, the bold, bad holdout, was missing at get-away time. The burly first sacker isn't due to reach the Pasadena camp until March 8, and if he doesn't show up then or shortly thereafter he may have to explain his conduct to the office of the baseball commissioner. President Comiskey still insists that he has offered the New Orleans lad a fair salary, considering his limited service as a major leaguer, and that the ante will not be raised. Zeke wants $10,000 for his 1935 effort and the amount is considered a bit excessive in view of the current baseball scale.

Just how the Sox will function on their training lot isn't known at this time, because Manager Jim Dykes, who will boss the job, was not among the departing performers. He has already reached camp, so will have ample time to frame up a welcoming speech when the boys arrive Friday morning. He will put them to work the same day and probably will order one drill a day until the remainder of the squad clogs up the training premises March 8.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth was released outright by the New York Yankees today and immediately signed a three year contract as vice president and assistant manager of the Boston Braves.

Thus, after his 15 years of fame and achievement here, the Babe returns to the city where he first made himself known as the player who could hit a baseball farther than any other man who ever lived.

Ruth may hit the ball a few times again, for he announced he would continue as a player this year.

"I figure on playing 100 or more games," he said. Then he surprised reporters by declaring he would try out at first base. "I played first base all through the Japanese tour," he explained, "and I did pretty well. I'm in good shape and I've got a lot of baseball left in me, no matter what anybody else thinks."

Col. Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees, who brought Ruth here in 1920 and then had to build a stadium large enough to hold all those who wanted to see him, surrendered the man who for years has been baseball's greatest drawing card without getting a nickel in return, although in 1920 the Babe cost Ruppert $125,000.

He'll Share in Profits.

"I gave Ruth his unconditional release and allowed him to go to Boston for nothing because I wanted him to have this chance to advance in his profession. I regard this as the greatest opportunity Babe has ever had," Ruppert said.

The terms under which Ruth goes to Boston are:

1. He will sign a straight salary contract; the salary to be paid to him was not announced, but it was reported to be $25,000 a year.

2. He will occupy an official and executive position as vice president of the club and assistant manager of the team.

3. He will receive a share of the profits.

4. He will have an option to purchase stock in the club.

McKechnie Is Enigmatic.

"McKechnie is manager," he said. "Babe will assist him, but in addition Babe will be vice president. They will get along very well together. They will share authority."

A reporter suggested that Babe might be moved up into McKechnie's

Would Permit Him to Fight Baer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 26.—For the first time since Jack Johnson's victory over Jim Jeffries caused a series of race riots to sweep the country 25 years ago, a colored challenger will be permitted to fight a white champion when Joe Louis attains the prominence of an opponent for Max Baer.

The sensational colored youth who won THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S 175 pound Golden Gloves title last year will be permitted to battle Baer here when he has established himself as the No. 1 contender in his division, Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, declared in disposing of the racial question today.

Gen. Phelan and Bill Brown, the practical member of the commission, admitted that the Detroit slugger, at the rate he is traveling, should be ready for a title shot within a year.

May Get Bout in 1936.

"We will approve a Louis-Baer bout when Louis shows he is of championship caliber," Phelan said. "Right now he looks like the most promising prospect in America, and if he continues to improve he should be Baer's No. 1 challenger in 1936."

While the late Tiger Flowers and Kid Chocolate were champions among the smaller sluggers, the only heavyweight who got within shouting distance of a title was Harry Wills, who might have fought Jack Dempsey if former Mayor Jimmy Walker and Tammany Hall had not used Harry's hopes as a ballot magnet.

Walker, who wrote New York's boxing law, wrested Harlem from the Republicans in 1925 by insisting that Dempsey couldn't fight Gene Tunney or anybody else in New York until he had faced Wills. Dempsey himself was willing to face Wills, whom Jack Sharkey later tamed, and Tex Rickard planned to stage the bout in Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City.

Mixed Match Ruled Out.

But when Washington began to apply pressure against this mixed match Rickard called off all bets and took Tunney and Dempsey to Philadelphia.

11 EVENTS ON MIDGET AUTO CARD TONIGHT

Ronny Householder, Tony Willaman, and Jimmy Snyder, midget auto race pilots, will renew the rivalry inaugurated last week, when they meet in a series of races at the Chicago Riding club, 333 East Erie street, tonight.

Other drivers entered in the eleven event program include Harold Hartley and Ted Shaw of Indianapolis; Jimmy Rogers, Melrose Park, who also races in outboard motor boats; Ted Tetterton, and Marshall Lewis. Time trials are set for 7:15 p. m. and the first race will start an hour later.

MOSTLY about DOGS
By Bob Becker

The Kerry Blue.

Although the history of the Kerry blue terrier [like several breeds] is rather obscure, this stylish dog from Ireland, as he is known in America today, has come down through the years to us a typical terrier. He is an active, rugged dog of distinctive appearance with lots of pluck, a sharp brain, and a lively disposition. The breed is quite popular in England and Ireland, but in this country is not nearly as well known as many of the smaller breeds of terriers.

Any dog lover seeing a Kerry blue for the first time is not going to forget him right away. Here is a dog that has a most unusual coat—one that makes you stop to take a second look. Whereas two of Ireland's most famous breeds [the Irish setter and the Irish terrier] can be designated as "red dogs" because of their color, the Kerry is the "lilac blue dog." His coat can be any shade of blue, from light to dark. A young Kerry can have some slight tan markings on his body up to the age of 18 months, but any tan after that age is not according to the show standard.

With the Kerry's coat a striking blue shade, its silky hair, and its whiskers combed forward, this terrier when groomed for a dog show is one that is bound to impress any dog fancier. Because this breed is such a "spring symphony" in blue, I suggest that dog lovers unfamiliar with the breed be sure and look for it at the forthcoming Chicago Kennel club show.

The Kerry blue is no wishy-washy dog. He has a lot of character. He also has what I like in dogs—sparkle. When you are around a Kerry there is little chance for you not to be aware of the fact that there is a Kerry in the vicinity. A pup that I was playing with a short time ago was keyed for any command, an invitation for a game, or anything that anybody in the room could suggest. And when it came time for a roughhouse with an old dog of another breed this pup took the lead in aggressiveness.

Considering the history of this breed one need not be surprised that the Kerry is an extremely active dog. He has the earmarks of a breed that needs and enjoys lots of exercise. The stock from which our Kerrys have come was made to work in the old country. The Kerry could fight at the drop of a hat, exterminate vermin when the opportunity was offered, and even help his hunter-master retrieve game in the hunting fields.

From this early working dog has come our good looking Kerry as he is known in the United States today. He's a game dog, gives real devotion to his master, makes a good guard, is keen about playing with children or adults, and can be added to any household that wants a trusted canine companion. Weighing 33 to 38 pounds, this blue terrier from the Green Isle is surprisingly strong, too.

RUTH IS NAMED BOSTON BRAVES' VICE PRESIDENT

Famous Slugger Also Will Be Assistant Manager.

place before the end of the season, particularly if the Braves—which finished fourth last season and lost money—fail to make a better showing this year.

"Babe will be assistant manager," repeated Fuchs. "That is all I will say about it."

McKechnie has no formal contract with the Braves, but manages the team under a year to year agreement with Fuchs.

When word of the deal reached McKechnie in St. Petersburg, Fla., the Braves' manager was enigmatic.

"Ruth will be an asset to any ball club just as long as he can step to the plate," he said. "Whether he can play regularly remains to be seen."

"Do you think you will remain as manager?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied, "until I am advised otherwise. You know no ball club can have two managers. If the club decided to make Ruth manager I will naturally step out."

Ceremony Prevails to End.

Negotiations that ended in closing of the deal at Ruppert's office in his brewery this afternoon began last Sunday when Ruth telephoned the Yankee owner at his country place, Eagle's Rest, near Harrison. Ruth told Ruppert Fuchs, who was with him at the moment, desired to arrange a conference for yesterday morning at the brewery, when the plans were drawn.

Ruth, Fuchs, and Edward G. Barrow, general manager of the Yankees, were present today when Ruppert made his announcement. At the conclusion he said, not without an eye to the dramatic possibilities of the situation:

"I hereby give you, Babe, your unconditional release."

Babe Is Glad.

With those words he handed Ruth the papers that made the transaction official. After that Fuchs made a speech in which he expressed his happiness at having the famous slugger back in Boston, where he started his American league carrer 21 years ago. Ruth then said he was glad to go back to Boston, but that in his long personal relationship with Ruppert there always had been a complete understanding and fine feeling.

It was revealed later that the Yankees asked for waivers on Ruth at noon yesterday following the meeting between Ruppert and Fuchs. Barrow called the other American League club owners on the telephone. One call, to Miami Beach, could not be completed at the moment because Frank Navin of the Tigers was at the races.

Barrow finally got in touch with Navin.

Ruppert revealed that two club owners, whose identities he refused to reveal, had been cold toward his request for waivers.

"But they fell into line when I told them a few things," he said. "I told them they should either make Ruth a proposition similar to that of Judge Fuchs or let him go. They thought it over and agreed I was right."

Red Sox Readily Agree.

Among the first to waive was the American league owner most affected by Ruth's return to Boston. This was Tom Yawkey, youthful owner of the Red Sox, who has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to build up his club and now must contend with the Babe as a counter attraction.

"I join in welcoming the Babe back to Boston," Yawkey said. "I believe that the presence of Ruth in Boston will be a great thing for baseball and that my club, as well as the Braves, will share in the benefits of it."

Actual signing of the contract will take place with appropriate formalities Thursday in Boston, where Ruth will be the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner. Ruth said he will leave Sunday for St. Petersburg, Fla., to join Manager McKechnie and the Braves.

It is believed Ruth insisted on the change rather than sign another player contract with the Yankees. He was keenly disappointed when he wasn't named manager of the Yankees after the death of Miller Huggins in 1929. Bob Shawkey was chosen instead and Shawkey was replaced by Joe McCarthy after one year.

Ruth Resented McCarthy.

Bringing in a National leaguer riled Ruth. He resented such an intrusion on a domain he considered his by rights. Consequently he never felt friendly toward McCarthy. With Ruth around, McCarthy never felt he was supreme in command, as Babe had his supporters within the ranks.

Today's signing marked another chapter in the career of baseball's most magnetic figure, a career crowned with frenzied finance, broken records, idolization of fandom and—in short—symbolic of the national pastime itself.

With Ruth's rapid rise as the greatest long distance hitter of all time and an attraction of immeasurable magnitude, he began to command huge salaries, climaxed by his $160,000 contract for 1931 and 1932. Last season, when he received $35,000, Ruth's total salary including world's series purses, approximated $1,000,000. In addition his income through by-products is believed to reach $300,000.

Reaches Peak in 1927.

Ruth's career as a home run hitter began in his early days and reached a climax in 1927, when he hammered out 60 drives, an all-time mark. His career was interspersed with rebellious periods. After one run-in with the late Miller Huggins he was fined $5,000 and suspended. The fine was returned later.

Ruth participated in 125 games last year, batted .288, and hit 22 home runs. It was his lowest average since 1916, when he batted .272 for the Red Sox. It was the second time in the last 18 years that he had dropped below .300. In 1925, when ill, he batted .290 in 98 games.

THE BABE GOES BACK TO BOSTON—AS EXECUTIVE

Babe Ruth's American league career, which stands as the greatest single accomplishment in baseball history, came to an end yesterday when the famous slugger was released outright by the Yankees and signed by the Boston Braves of the National league as vice president and assistant manager. The Babe says good-by to his old boss, Col. Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees (right), in the presence of his new employer, Judge Emil Fuchs of Boston (left). Ruth started his big league career in Boston as a pitcher for the Red Sox. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

THE CAREER OF BABE RUTH IN TWENTY-TWO PARAGRAPHS

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A thumbnail sketch of George Herman [Babe] Ruth by years follows:

1914.—At the age of 20 he made his professional debut with Baltimore Orioles in International league as pitcher and outfielder. During the year he was purchased by the Boston Red Sox for $2,900 and farmed to Providence club.

1916.—Pitched full world series game against Brooklyn Dodgers, winning, 2 to 1, in 14 innings and holding Dodgers scoreless in last 13.

1917.—Still a pitcher, but his batting prowess began to take shape as he hit .325 in 52 games.

1918.—Won two world series games against Chicago Cubs and ran his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 29 for a series record.

1919.—Started his home run splurge, hitting 29 for the Boston Red Sox and was sold to New York Yankees for $125,000.

1920.—Received salary of $20,000 as first baseman and outfielder, hit 54 homers and batted .376 in 142 games.

1921.—Hit 59 home runs for a new record, boosted his average to .378, and hit .313 in series against New York Giants.

1922.—Tumbled from home run heights, falling off to 35 and losing leadership to Rogers Hornsby who hit 42. Some reporters began to write obituaries of the "busted phenomenon."

1923.—It was known as the year of the "return of Ruth." He hit 41 homers during the season and then in the series with the Giants hit three home runs, a triple, a double and two singles and became the first player to hit two homers in successive times at bat and three homers in one world series.

1924—Yankees tumbled to seventh place, but Ruth hit 46 homers and led the American league hitters with .378.

1925—Had the famous "stomach ache felt around the world" and was fined $5,000 and suspended indefinitly by Manager Miller Huggins for "misconduct off the playing field."

1926—Hit three home runs in the fourth game of world series with St. Louis Cardinals, breaking record.

1927—Signed three year contract with Yankees for $70,000 a year and boosted his home run record to 60.

1928—Repeated the feat of three home runs in one series game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

1932—Signed one-year contract for $75,000 and celebrated opening of season with two homers against the Athletics.

1933—Injuries plagued him and his decline as a player began. He received $52,000 and batted .301.

1934—Paid $35,000, played 125 games, hit 22 homers, and batted .288 in last year as Yankee regular. Collected his 700th homer and 2,000th base on balls.

J. Dean Resents Ruth's Coming to National League

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, tonight expressed resentment at Babe Ruth's entrance into the National league.

"He made all his money in the American league, so why doesn't he stay there?" the star declared.

"I don't believe he [Ruth] was ever worth $80,000 a year," Dizzy said. "I don't think I am worth it and I don't believe there ever will be a player entitled to that much money for playing one season."

He expressed belief that Ruth may replace Bill McKechnie, manager of the Braves.

"McKechnie's one of the finest guys in the game," Dean commented. "Baseball has been good to Ruth. He's made enough money. Why come over to the National league and knock a fellow like McKechnie out of a job?

"The American league couldn't make a place for him, could they? Why don't they take care of their players? I resent Ruth coming to the National and I think practically every player in the league will feel the same way about it.

"You can bank on this—Ruth will take plenty of razzing from the players and there will be many fans who will be on him as well. For one, I'm going to pan him every time I see him in a National league park."

Lynn Waldorf Arrives at Northwestern

Arriving in Evanston at the height of yesterday's snow storm, Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern university's new football coach, was quick to announce postponement of the start of spring practice for the Wildcats. Waldorf had hopes of getting a first glimpse of his players in action this week.

If the present snow blanket continues for any great length, Waldorf plans to conduct indoor workouts at Patten gymnasium until weather conditions improve.

Waldorf will be joined later in the week by Burt Ingwersen, who is motoring to Evanston from his home in Baton Rouge, La., where he was assistant to Coach Biff Jones at Louisiana State before signing as line coach at Northwestern.

TONY CANZONERI LOSES DECISION TO CHUCK WOODS

The rugged Detroit fighter piled up an early lead and lasted through Canzoneri's furious attack during the late rounds. There were no knockdowns. Woods weighed 137 pounds and Canzoneri 133.

In a fight on the supporting card Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids lightweight, took the decision over Jimmy Vaughn of Cleveland, winning eight of the ten rounds. Ramey weighed 136 pounds and Vaughn 139.

In the other bouts K. O. Morgan, 127, of Toledo, defeated Tony Scalba, 123, of Chicago, in six rounds and Lefty Gwynne, 117, of Toronto, defeated Lenny Cohen, 114, Chicago, in six rounds.

BERLINGER MAY BE SUSPENDED BY NATIONAL A. A. U.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Suspension of another track star because of professional basketball activity became likely today when it was announced that the Amateur Athletic union may drop Barney Berlinger, former Olympic decathlon star, from the University of Pennsylvania.

E. J. Aronoff, secretary of the District of Columbia A. A. U., today said that he has filed a protest with the national organization because Berlinger, a member of the Penn Athletic club quintet, played Sunday against a local professional team.

Prep Lights Reach Quarter Final Round

Roosevelt and Senn in the north, Hirsch and Parker in the south, Hyde Park and Farragut in the central, and Tuley and Manley in the west yesterday became the lightweight sectional winners in the Chicago Public High School Basketball league race. These eight teams will enter the quarter-final round of play next week.

In the north section two games were postponed until the latter part of the week, but they will not affect the standing. Roosevelt goes to Von Steuben today and Lane will engage Sullivan Friday on the latter's court. If the Roosevelt lightweights lose they will be tied with Senn. A toss of the coin probably will decide the team in No. 1 spot. The west section race ended in a deadlock between Tuley and Manley.

Austin rallied in the last period in a west section contest yesterday with Tuley, but lost, 38 to 30.

In the Catholic league St. Patrick and St. Mel heavyweights remained tied for the west section league last night when both won. St. Patrick defeated Fenwick, 28 to 22, while St. Mel whipped St. Philip, 35 to 21. The lightweight race was narrowed when St. Philip beat St. Mel, 21 to 19.

De Paul heavyweights defeated St. Michael, 28 to 21, to remain the only unbeaten team in the league. Leo lightweights won from Mount Carmel, 39 to 33, while the Mount Carmel heavies triumphed, 37 to 34. Lineups:

JOE LOUIS, HEAVYWEIGHT.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Joe Louis, sensational Chicago Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion last year and future aspirant for Max Baer's heavyweight title, is wanted by Los Angeles promoters for a bout against Art Lasky, coast favorite. Julian Black, co-manager of the Detroit colored fighter, feels Louis would receive more money for an appearance in Chicago or Detroit, even if the same Lasky were imported there.

Louis' percentage from his battle last week against Lee Ramage, whom he stopped in the second round, was a bit disappointing, something over $3,000. Instead of the $30,000 anticipated the gross was slightly more than $16,000. Two factors decreased attendance. It turned somewhat cold for an outdoor show. Fight fans figured Louis to win because he had knocked out Ramage in Chicago. The visitor was a 2 to 1 favorite, even money for a knockout, at ringside.

Coast critics were extravagant in their praise of Louis. Already they are discussing his chances against Baer, an engagement Managers Black and Roxborough say is far in the future. Joe was not afraid of Ramage's feathery taps. Just how he would perform against a hitter like Baer is another matter. Louis, however, sends his own powerful jolts from a shorter radius than the champion and looks a far better defensive boxer.

For one thing, Louis should continue to improve. Whether Maxie has reached his peak may be argued. As long as he keeps boxing, as he evidences his intention of doing, even in four round exhibitions against secondary opponents, he will not become ring rusty as did Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey, and some other champions of the past.

Clouds in Turf Skies.

The dissatisfaction of the Agua Caliente Jocky club because it was not given open dates between the close of Santa Anita and the opening of Bay Meadows near San Francisco.

Application of Bay Meadows for the same dates next season as Santa Anita had this year, thus dividing the better horses. [This is not considered serious and a compromise is likely if necessary.]

Political pressure to obtain new racing board when present terms expire. Charlton F. Burke, chairman, gentleman sportsman nationally known for his polo activities, is not amenable to suggestions from politicians. Most horsemen feel his retirement would be a turf misfortune.

Too high a mutuel "take"—voluntarily reduced for the last two weeks of the Santa Anita meeting from 8 to 6 per cent. The state still receives 4 per cent.

Just a Coincidence.

Mrs. Isobel Dodge Sloan, whose Cavalcade was ante-post favorite for the Santa Anita handicap until injury forced his withdrawal, is a daughter of John Dodge, former Detroit man whose millions were acquired in the automobile industry. Azucar, winner of the handicap, is owned by F. M. Alger Jr. of Detroit, grandson of Gen. Russell A. Alger, secretary of war during the Spanish-American fuss in 1898. While the Alger fortune originated in lumber, the estate has large holdings of Packard Motor stock. Capt. Fred Alger, father of Azucar's owner, died within recent months.

HAARLOW NEEDS 22 POINTS FOR SCORING RECORD

Has 146, with One Game Remaining.

Bill Haarlow of Chicago, who has been leading the individual scoring in the Western conference basketball race despite the fact that he plays with a team which has won only one game out of eleven, retained his advantage by a strong margin Monday night, even though the Maroons were losing to Illinois at Champaign.

Haarlow has now scored 146 points, leading the conference in field goals and free throws. He has scored 51 times from the floor and 44 from the free throw line. Bob Kessler of Purdue and Johnny Barko of Iowa, his closest pursuers, kept pace with the tall Maroon Monday. Kessler has accounted for 49 baskets and 33 free throws for a total of 131 points, while Barko has 119, gained through 50 field goals and 19 free throws.

Haarlow will have his biggest opportunity of the season, that of tying or breaking the conference record made by Joe Reiff of Northwestern two years ago, when the Maroons entertain Wisconsin here in their final game Saturday. Reiff set a mark of 167 points, meaning that Haarlow will have to count 22 against the Badgers Saturday to better that figure.

20 GIVEN JAIL TERMS FOR HELP TO TWO OUTLAWS

Case Recalls Shooting of Clyde Barrow, Woman.

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Twenty relatives and friends of the desperado Clyde Barrow and his cigar-smoking inamorata, Bonnie Parker, were sentenced in the federal court here today on charges of conspiracy to harbor that outlaw couple, later shot down in Louisiana.

Sentences imposed by Judge William H. Atwell ranged from two year terms in the Leavenworth penitentiary, for Floyd Hamilton, brother of Raymond Hamilton, successor to Barrow as the southwest's No. 1 public enemy, to one hour imposed on Floyd Hamilton's wife, Mildred.

Two Plead Mother Love.

Mothers of Clyde Barrow and of Bonnie Parker gave "mother love" as the reason for their clandestine visits with their children. A defense attorney pleaded for Clyde Barrow's mother, Mrs. Cumie Barrow, on the ground that "the law of nature is stronger than man-made laws."

United States District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus replied that Mrs. Cumie Barrow "is a leader in this conspiracy." Mrs. Barrow, however, was allowed to fix her own sentence. She gave herself 30 days in jail. Mrs. Parker was given a like sentence. Mrs. Steve Davis, mother of the fugitive, Raymond Hamilton, also was ordered to serve 30 days.

Meanwhile, the wide search for Raymond Hamilton, who was Barrow's lieutenant, was being pressed by federal, state and local authorities without success.

Three Boys Quote Outlaw.

All known hideouts of that desperado have been watched since he and a companion shot their way out of a police trap at McKinney on Sunday night, kidnaping three farm boys in their flight. The boys were released late yesterday.

The three boys said the last words they heard Hamilton utter, after giving them $2 and telling "get back home and keep your mouths shut," was his nonchalant comment:

It was believed Hamilton has a premonition he will not long escape a violent death similar to that of Clyde Barrow. Mrs. William Mayes, farm wife at whose home Raymond Hamilton hid Sunday night, said he remarked to her:

"Clyde was jumped by the law three times and the third time he was killed. This makes the second time for me. The next time may be the last one."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Sees All

FIND WANDERERS LIKELIEST HANDS AMONG JOBLESS

Age, Energy, Training Favor Floaters.

The transient relief population—which shifts but not for itself, since Uncle Sam supplies food and lodging—is better suited to re-employment than the stay-at-homers on the relief rolls, according to a survey made public yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

The study revealed that 96 per cent of the unattached "floaters" and 92 per cent of the families registered at transient bureaus throughout the country are employable and willing to work. These figures compare with 62 per cent employables among the individual relief "clients" residing in Chicago, and 87 per cent for Chicago relief households.

Largely a Matter of Years.

The principal reason for the difference is age. About 99 per cent of the transients fall between the theoretically "employable" age limits of 16 and 65, while 83 per cent are under 45 years of age. Only about half of the regular relief population in Illinois is in the "employable" age range.

Nine-tenths of the transients were found to be experienced workers, although few were skilled.

The study revealed more than a third of the state's resident relief-rollers to be children less than 13 years old. This percentage constituted proof on a large scale that relief families have a far larger birth rate than self-supporting families, since less than one-fourth of the total population in Illinois is less than 13 years old.

Statistics from FERA.

The data regarding transients were obtained by research workers of the Federal Emergency Relief administration. Activities in the transient branch of relief work are paid for wholly by the federal agency, no state or local funds being contributed. The estimated cost for March is $250,000, of which $25,600 is for administration expense.

GOVERNOR TALKS PLANS FOR STATE POLICE RADIO

Gov. Horner yesterday discussed, with several advisers, the feasibility of establishing a broadcasting system for the state highway police force. The meeting was held in the governor's suite at the Congress hotel prior to his return to Springfield last night.

In the conference, which did not progress beyond the discussion stage, were M. M. Taylor, acting chief of the highway police; State Highway Engineer Ernest Lieberman; Frank Rafferty, radio engineer for the Chicago police department, and Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

"It would be a fine thing if the state police could be equipped with radio," the governor said before the conference. "I believe it would be a valuable adjunct to the service, and, once operative, would become a crime deterrent. But I want to find out what it would cost before we make definite plans."

Descendant of Calverts Killed by Automobile

Mount Rainier, Md., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Charles Benedict Calvert, 60, descendent of the Calverts and Lords Baltimore who founded Maryland, was injured fatally tonight by an automobile here. Calvert, a former corporation counsel of Mount Rainier, Md., was born in the old Calvert mansion at Riverdale, Md., later occupied by Senators Hiram Johnson and Thaddeus Caraway.

Robbers Miss Pay Roll by 10 Minutes; Flee Lootless

Missing the arrival of a $300 pay roll by ten minutes, two young well-dressed gunmen yesterday afternoon entered the office of the Atlas Specialty Manufacturing company, 3259 Shields avenue. After making a hasty survey of the empty safe and the office desks, the robbers fled. A police squad arrived two minutes later, summoned by C. J. Wollheim, 7136 Ogleby avenue, president of the concern.

John J. Treacy, Formerly of Jersey High Court, Dies

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 26.—(AP)—John J. Treacy, one time member of the Court of Errors and Appeals, New Jersey's highest tribunal, died at his home tonight of acute indigestion. He was past 60 years old. He was appointed to the Court of Errors by Woodrow Wilson in 1911 and served one year before resigning. In 1914 he was named to the public utilities commission.

Four Miners Are Killed, Four Injured in Cave-In

Uniontown, Pa., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Four miners were killed and four injured by a cave-in today at the Pleasant Valley Mining company's mine at Oliver, one mile north of Uniontown. The cave-in occurred while the men were clearing the rail tracks in the pit after a 20 car mine train had been derailed.

Canada to Hang American Who Killed Mother May 2

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Harold W. Vermilyea of Ontario, Cal., convicted last night of the hatchet murder of his aged mother, was sentenced today to be hanged May 2.

DR. AXSON DIES, WAS IN-LAW OF WOODROW WILSON

Houston, Tex., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Dr. Stockton Axson, 67, professor of English at Rice institute, died this afternoon in Memorial hospital here. He suffered a stroke yesterday after an illness of several weeks. Dr. Axson was a brother-in-law of former President Woodrow Wilson. He was probably one of the closest intimates the war President ever had.

He joined the Rice institute faculty in 1914 and later was made head of the English department. He became a recognized Shakespearean authority, but when the United States entered the world war he temporarily dropped consideration of Elizabethan matters for the more pressing concern of helping his brother-in-law's administration handle the problems inherent in the great conflict.

First he stumped for the Liberty bonds. Next he became national secretary of the Red Cross with headquarters in Washington.

FIVE MEN DROWN WHEN LIFEBOAT, DREDGE CAPSIZE

Newport, Ore., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Five men were drowned today when a dredge and a coast guard lifeboat capsized at the entrance to Newport harbor. Two bodies had been recovered four hours after the tragedy occurred.

The bodies of George Meadows of Florence, and George Elkins of Lebanon, both coast guardsmen, were taken from the sea. Another coast guardsmen, William Schultz of San Francisco, and two unidentified members of the dredge crew, were missing and searchers held no hope they had escaped death.

Two other members of the coast guard, John Hart and Elrod Halsey, were badly hurt in the accident and were taken to a hospital.

Funeral services for Frank Rio, Capone gangster, who died Saturday of heart disease in his home at 1000 Belleforte avenue, Oak Park, will be held this morning in Rago Brothers' undertaking rooms at 624 North Western avenue. Burial will be at Mount Carmel cemetery at Hillside. Several squads from the detective bureau will be on guard at the funeral.

ABBOT REPORTS FLU EPIDEMIC ON WANE AT TRAPPIST ABBEY

Gethsemane, Ky., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Abbot Frederic M. Dunne today pronounced as well under control the influenza epidemic at the trappist abbey of Our Lady of Gethsemane. For three days there have been no new cases. Two patients have been discharged as recovered.

Abbot Dunne highly praised the help received from Brothers Lukens and Rigohert of the staf of the Alexian Brothers hospital in Chicago. Bishop John A. Floersh of Louisville sent an emergency call to which the brothers responded.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

That snowstorm yesterday settled it; Charlie Correll and Freeman Gosden are heading for a month's vacation in California. They're starting Saturday morning for Palm Springs, the movie stars' vacation retreat, but their Amos 'n' Andy broadcasts will continue as usual beginning Monday. A 10 by 10 foot cubicle atop their hotel will be rigged up as a studio during their stay in Palm Springs. As in the early days of radio, blankets will be draped from the walls to absorb echoes. They will take with them a few simple sound devices which they operate themselves.

And they have practically decided to reveal who stole the fancy violin on Friday. Thus listeners will not be left in three days of suspense while Amos 'n' Andy are making their trek westward.

The $500 award for the best title for the Otto Harbach musical serial heard on NBC Monday evenings went to a Long Island woman for the name "Music at the Haydns." . . . Bobbie Isbell, 6 year old son of Harold Isbell, CBS production man, will become the announcer for the "Woody and Willie" program beginning next Saturday.

Congressman Karl Stefan of Nebraska, a former radio announcer at Norfolk, will give a talk titled "A New Congressman in Congress" at 10:30 tomorrow night over CBS. Stefan was the only Republican elected to the house of representatives from his state last fall.

Francis X. Bushman will be on familiar ground when he revives his own early screen success, "The King of Nowhere" during the Nickelodeon program at 9 p. m. tomorrow over WENR. . . . John S. Young, NBC announcer, is getting his fill of court. He was assigned recently to the Hauptmann trial at Flemington and now he has been called for jury duty in New York.

Frank Munn is happy; Gus Haenschen, the musical director of the American Musical review on which both have appeared long together, has given Munn the microphone used on their first broadcast together more than ten years ago.

The American Broadcasting system is planning an unusual experiment through a new program beginning at 7:45 tonight. There will be no announcer for the program which will endeavor to create a musical mood unbroken by a speaking voice. The continuation of the program will depend on the reception of the program by the public. WIND will be the local outlet.

Nomination for the fanciest program title to date: "Lilac Time with the Night Singer," which is to make its appearance March 11 at 9:30 p. m. on CBS. An anonymous baritone will present famous love songs of the world on this one.

Great-Granddaughter of F. C. Havemeyer Kills Self

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Katherine Lupu, 33, great-granddaughter of Frederick C. Havemeyer, founder of the business that became the American Sugar Refining company, committed suicide today in her Fifth avenue apartment by drinking poison. She had never fully recovered from a nervous breakdown suffered several months ago. Mrs. Lupu was the wife of Aural Lupu, art collector and tapestry expert.

Capt. F. Mechlenburg Dies; Ocean Liner Commander

POLICE SERGEANT HOGAN, 'FRIEND OF UNDERDOG,' DIES

Sergt. Michael J. Hogan, 70 years old, police veteran known as "the friend of the underdog," died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 4222 Jackson boulevard.

Sergt Hogan was born and reared on Chicago's west side. He joined the police force April 1, 1891, and was made sergeant Jan. 1, 1898. Some years after his promotion he became parole officer at the detective bureau, a post he held until his death.

As the department's "contact man" with paroled convicts, Sergt. Hogan was known as a stern but merciful worker. It was his boast that he had never broken his word to a paroled prisoner, and fellow policemen credited him with influencing many a youth to abandon a criminal career.

Although he was eligible for retirement many years ago, he stayed on, declaring: "Those boys need me." Associates said he used much of his salary to clothe and feed the dependents of paroled men. Despite this philanthropy he reared a family of three daughters and two sons, who, with his widow, Margaret, survive him.

Many of the unfortunates he befriended are expected to attend Sergt. Hogan's funeral at 9 a. m. Friday in the chapel at 1946 Ogden avenue.

NET ESTATE OF WESTINGHOUSE TOTALS $2,100,144

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The estate of Henry Herman Westinghouse, inventor, and late chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Air-brake company, was filed for transfer tax appraisal today. The gross estate came to $2,190,917; the net to $2,100,144. Mr. Westinghouse died in Goshen, N. Y., on Nov. 18, 1933.

The chief assets consisted of securities, with mortgages, notes, cash and insurance approximating $566,063. Under the terms of the will Mrs. Clara L. Westinghouse, the widow, receives all specific tangibles and a life estate in the residue; Mrs. Catherine W. Clark, a daughter, receives a specific bequest of $5,000, a share in the Mohawk Securities company to the amount of $732,500 and 60 per cent of the remainder of the life estate.

Mr. Westinghouse's philanthropic bequests included a gift of $100,000 to the board of directors of the Westinghouse Airbrake company to be used for the benefit and welfare of the company's employés.

ISABELLA GORDON OF DENVER OPERA FAME, DIES AT 82

Denver, Colo., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Isabella Frances Gordon, 82, once known as the "Songbird of the West" who appeared in many of the colorful old opera houses of the west in the '80's as the leading soprano of the Abbott Opera company, died at the home of her daughter here today.

At the peak of her career, when she was 29, she attained national fame when she sang the leading rôle in the opera "Maritana" at the opening of the Tabor Opera house in Denver, in 1881.

Singing with the Abbott company of troopers, she gained particular note for her portrayal of Carmen.

Mrs. William Fleming Dies; Widow of Pioneer Oil Man

Salt Lake City, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. William Fleming, 80, widow of William Fleming, pioneer oil man of Oil City, Pa., died of a heart attack in the hotel apartment of her daughter, Mrs. George O. Relf, here today. William Fleming for many years was president of the Ohio Oil company.

George Runyan, 76, Dies; Kankakee River Pusher

Valparaiso, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—George Runyan, 76, who acted as a "pusher" on the Kankakee river for Gen. Lew Wallace and other notables in early hunting and fishing days in South Porter county, died today at his home in Kouts.

The Rev. J. C. Galloway, Retired Pastor, Dies at 52

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Rev. J. C. Galloway, 52, retired, of the Wilmington M. E. conference, died at his home at Cranston Heights, Del., last night. He served as pastor of the church at Church Creek, Md., last year.

"Moist-Throat" Method
STOPPED COUGH in 1 DAY!

"My cough was so bad," writes Marjorie Sheerin, Brooklyn, "I called a doctor. He said to take Pertussin. Next morning my cough was gone!"
WHEN you catch cold, thousands of tiny moisture glands in your throat clog; their normal secretions thicken. Throat dries. Sticky mucus collects. Tickling starts—then you cough. PERTUSSIN quickens the throat's natural moisture flow. Infected phlegm is loosened and raised. Relief—so quickly! Get a bottle.
PERTUSSIN
Tastes good, acts quickly and safely

MORRO CASTLE SKIPPER LOSES MASTER LICENSE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The master's license of Capt. William F. Warms, who was acting skipper of the Ward liner Morro Castle, has been revoked, the commerce department has been advised, by its local inspectors in New Haven, Conn.

Warms was tried before two United States steamboat inspectors recently in New York in connection with the disaster.

The New Haven inspectors also suspended Eben S. Abbott, Morro Castle chief engineer, for 90 days, beginning Feb. 25, and Antonio R. Bujia, first assistant engineer, for 30 days, beginning Feb. 25.

At the end of the suspension periods in the latter two cases they automatically regain their papers unless some other action is taken.

DR. WM. TYRRELL KILLED IN PLUNGE IN NEW YORK CITY

Dr. William Davis Tyrrell, 63 years old, member of a pioneer Elgin family, jumped or fell to his death yesterday from the ninth floor of New York hospital in New York City, where he had been a patient since last July. He was 64 years old.

Dr. Tyrrell, a child specialist, was the son of Dr. Pierce Tyrrell, pioneer physician in Elgin. He was graduated from Elgin academy, the University of Michigan, and Northwestern university medical school. Dr. Tyrrell practiced in Elgin until 1904, when he left for New York City.

A brother, Attorney Pierce Tyrrell, is a practicing attorney in Elgin. Another brother, J. Stafford Tyrrell, lives in Washington, D. C.

CHRYSLER GAINS IN TOTAL SALES; PROFIT LOWER

Number of Cars Put Out Near Record.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The Chrysler corporation reported today a net profit for 1934 of $9,534,836, equivalent to $2.19 a share on the capital stock. This compares with a net profit of $12,129,120, or $2.78 a share in 1933. The board ordered the regular dividend of 25 cents a share on the common, payable March 30 to stock of record March 9.

Commenting on the results for 1934, in the pamphlet report to the shareholders, Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board, said that unit sales to dealers and to the public were greater than in any previous year.

Lower Priced Cars in Demand.

"The trend in recent years," Mr. Chrysler said, "towards cars in lower price classes has absorbed an increasing percentage of the market for automobiles. Increased costs of labor and materials, incident to the recovery program obtained during all of 1934, whereas during 1933, such increased costs arose only towards the end of the year. These conditions are reflected in the net earnings for 1934, as compared with 1933.

"Sales to distributors and dealers of the corporation's products in 1934 totaled 598,884 units, to the value of $362,254,625 as compared with 451,734 units, to the value of $238,675,951 sold in 1933. This is only $12,778,829 less than the all-time peak sales for this corporation of $375,033,455 in 1929.

"During the year, the corporation has reduced its outstanding funded debt by $9,876,000, has paid a premium of $493,800 by called Dodge debenture bonds in anticipation of their maturing, and has paid out $5,432,235 in dividends.

Current Assets Decline.

"Net current assets as of Dec. 31, 1934, were, however, $49,402,104 as compared with net current assets of $53,417,113 at the close of 1933, a net working capital decrease of only $4,014,965.

"Cash and marketable securities on Dec. 31, 1934 amounted to $32,415,842. Through liquidation, balances in closed banks declined during the year $510,197.

"Inventories at the close of the year were $37,533,615, an increase of $2,976,846. These inventories reflect, in part, the materially larger volume of business flowing through the company's plants as compared with a year ago, and in part, the continuation of the corporation's previously announced policy of fortifying its inventory position in anticipation of increased prices for materials. The corporation's present policy of maintaining a strong forward position in materials and commodities has contributed substantially to its profits during the past year.

"Net permanent assets, representing the depreciated book value of plants and other operating facilities, decreased $1,052,841, due to the fact that during the year charges for depreciation and amortization, together with requirements, exceeded expenditures on new facilities."

CHICAGO GROUP BUYS 32 STORY FOSHAY TOWER

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The Tower company, a Minnesota corporation formed in Chicago, today purchased the 32 story Foshay tower, $3,750,000 building that was the scene of the meteoric rise and spectacular collapse of W. B. Foshay's utilities holdings. The purchase is subject to approval by federal court.

The Tower company, formed by a bondholders' committee representing 93 per cent of the $1,000,000 in mortgage bonds on the building, submitted its bid at the twenty-seventh offering of the structure. It will take over the interest of Joseph Chapman, receiver for the federal court in the assets of the Foshay corporation, subject to all unpaid taxes, mortgages, leases, and lien claims, as of March 1.

The price offered was approximately $1,500,000. The debts of the corporation totaled nearly $500,000. Lewis M. Watson, Chicago, is president of the Tower company. R. R. Claybauth, St. Louis, is vice president, and Henry C. Mackall, Minneapolis, is secretary and treasurer.

The purchase of the tower and other Foshay corporation assets will be effective March 1. The receiver is recommending approval of the sale to the court. Foshay, who built the tower, is serving a 10 year prison sentence in Leavenworth for using the mails to defraud.

SILVER TRADERS BELIEVE CHINA AND U. S. BUYING

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Silver bullion dealers, far eastern exchange brokers and others following the silver market closely were seeking a more precise explanation today for the rise of silver in the London market to a new high since May, 1929.

While it is believed that both the National Bank of China and private banks have been making purchases to some extent to bolster their currency reserves, it is not thought that their takings have been large enough to cause the steady upward movement. Some arbitragists believed that the United States treasury was again making purchases in volume, but this explanation was discounted in other usually well informed quarters.

It was felt, however, that renewed speculative buying in the metal probably accounted for most of the rise. Lack of interest in other speculative markets and the conviction that the United States treasury program of silver purchasing has not been changed, has led funds into further silver investment, it was declared.

Radio Corp. Profit in 1934 Is $4,249,264

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The Radio Corporation of America reports for 1934 a consolidated net profit of $4,249,264, after all deductions, comparing with a net loss of $582,094 for 1933. After one year's dividend requirements on the Class A preferred stock, the 1934 earnings were equal to $3.27 a share on 767,275 Class B preferred shares, on which annual dividend requirements are $5 a share.

Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman, and David Sarnoff, president, said in a report that a profit was earned in each of the four quarters of 1934, but only in the fourth quarter of 1933. As a result of the improvement in earnings, they added, it was decided to pay all dividend arrears on the Class A preferred stock, amounting to $4,519,610, on Feb. 19, 1935.

Gross Income Increases.

Gross income from all sources in 1934 amounted to $78,756,993, compared with $62,333,496 for 1933, an increase of 26.3 per cent. Costs and expenses were $69,266,538, against $58,678,211 in 1933 depreciation was $3,138,339, compared with $3,394,933, and taxes were $805,850, against nil for 1933.

Current assets at the end of 1934 amounted to $41,163,706, compared with $35,383,031 a year before. Cash was $15,073,921, against $13,149,483, and U. S. government and other marketable securities were $8,605,537 at cost with a year end market value in excess of this amount, compared with $7,396,274, stated at market value, at the close of 1933.

"The requirements of increased current business," the report said, "are reflected in an increase of $2,096,631 in inventories, the total inventories of $8,699,967 represent current merchandise valued at the lower of cost or market."

No Bank Indebtedness.

The corporation has no bank indebtedness, and financed all its 1934 activities without borrowing. Current liabilities were $6,913,283, against $6,765,763 a year ago. Surplus at Dec. 31 amounted to $13,518,354, comparing with $9,269,091 at the close of 1933.

The report said that while the A preferred stock has been relieved of all arrears, the problem of meeting the arrears on the B preferred stock still remains. This amounted to $12,468,220, or $16.25 a share, on Dec. 31, 1934.

"While the cash resources of the corporation are sufficient for its capital requirements and the necessary developments of its business, it is evident that those accumulated and accumulating dividends on B preferred stock cannot be paid at present without serious impairment of your corporation's working capital."

DOLLAR LOWER AS ORIENTAL CURRENCIES RISE

Shanghai dollars rose 55 points to 38.80 cents and Hongkong dollars 25 points to 46.70 cents, while the yen was unchanged at 28.42 cents. The advance in the Chinese exchanges was believed in foreign exchange circles to represent the firmness in silver.

The British pound was off ¼ cent at $4.86½, while French francs rose almost a point to 6.63¾ cents, with the dollar worth 99.94 cents against francs, compared with $1.0007 yesterday. The gold value of the dollar against francs was 59.03 cents, compared with 59.10 cents yesterday and par of 59.06 cents. Other gold currencies rose moderately.

In London sterling rallied slightly, the cross rate put at 73.78 francs to the pound, against 73.38 at yesterday's close. The dollar firmed against the franc in Paris, being quoted at 15.09 francs.

With sterling opening at $4.86⅝ the open market price of gold was set at 143 shillings 6½ pence, a reduction of 3 pence from yesterday's level. This put the dollar value of world gold at $34.93 an ounce, against $34.95 yesterday. Later, however, sterling receded to $4.86 7-16.

FISHER BODY COMPANY REJECTS DEMANDS OF UNION; GIVES REASONS

Cleveland, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Fisher Body corporation today refused to sign a working agreement with Federal Labor union No. 18,614. The agreement had been viewed by the union as a pattern for the automotive industry.

In a statement issued by E. F. Fisher, general manager of all Fisher body divisions of General Motors, the company stated that "no written agreement has been or will be at any time signed by the company tending toward a closed shop."

Refusal to sign an agreement calling for a 30 hour week, minimum wages, minimum hourly rates, collective bargaining, and rules for seniority layoffs was based on the following reasons, the statement declared:

"The union represents only a minority of the plant's employés. Legislation for a 30-hour week is now before congress which will determine the issue. Minimum wages demanded would amount to an increase of 66 2-3 per cent over present minimums and hourly rates demanded would be 2 1-3 times the present minimum code rate.

"The question of employé representation for collective bargaining is now being determined by means of an election of all company employés. The question of pay for employés' representatives will be determined by the automobile labor board after the final election has been conducted by that board. Rules for seniority have been laid down by the automobile labor board."

Pepper, the collapse in the price of which sent a number of London firms to the wall recently, has had a spectacular market record since 1928. From 41 cents a pound at New York, the price of black pepper coasted steadily downhill to a low of 7 cents in 1933. The recovery carried the price to 13½ cents and it was selling there in mid-January before dropping suddenly to 9½ cents. White pepper fell even more: to 18¾c from 35¼c. But the pepper market is in London. There, speculators, finding the stock market dull, bought spices. The consequent high prices brought in a burdensome stock of pepper. Imports rose from 140,873 cwts. in 1933 to 365,922 cwts. in 1934. The result: the inevitable collapse.

Hitler Finance Policy Likened to New Deal's

BY SCRUTATOR.

Germany has just socialized the nation's cash. By a law passed last Thursday Luitz Schwerin von Krosigk, the chief of the nation's finance, was given authority to seize private cash and bank accounts to whatever extent he considers necessary. The only veto is possessed by Hitler. Der reichsführer is to make a personal determination of the amount each individual or corporation is to be permitted to keep.

For the funds which the German government takes over bonds or other evidences of national indebtedness are to be issued. To such an extremity has the German government been driven to finance its budgetary deficit. It is preposterous.

* * *

It may be surprising to some people to be told that the government of the United States is practicing the some sort of confiscation. Where did the three billion dollar gold profit come from? It was simply an appropriation of 41 per cent of the gold which the government held as trustee. The remainder of the gold was also taken over, but it is not shown as a profit.

The confiscation did not stop here. The government has created the conditions which compel banks to turn over to the government the money of their customers as fast as it is deposited. Secretary Morgenthau gives the banks bonds or other acknowledgments of debt for the funds he takes over just as Finance Minister von Krosigk does.

* * *

The extent to which the American government is taking over private banking funds is seen in the weekly report of Chicago banks which are members of the federal reserve system. In the year which ended Feb. 20, 1935, individuals and corporations increased their deposits in Chicago banks by 419 million dollars. Of this amount the government took over 396 millions carefully giving the banks a receipt in the form of bonds or some other evidence of debt.

It would appear that Washington permitted the Chicago banks to keep 23 million dollars of the funds which were deposited with them during the last twelve months. But Washington does not overlook 23 million dollars. For the government which a year ago had 69 million dollars on deposit in Chicago banks has reduced that balance to 43 millions. It has, therefore, drawn down its deposits by 26 millions. Thus the government is taking money out of Chicago banks faster than the people are putting it in. In other cities the experience has been the same.

* * *

The difference between the German confiscation and what Washington has been doing right along appears to be this: Under the Hitler scheme individuals are permitted to keep only such funds as are necessary for their well-being, but the backing of the mark is left undisturbed. Here the government is allowing the people to have all the currency they can acquire and as large bank balances as they can maintain, but has abstracted all that was valuable back of both. The result is the same in both cases.

C. A. M'CULLOUCH MADE CHICAGO CORP. DIRECTOR

Charles A. McCulloch, former receiver for Middle West Utilities company, and Edwin L. Weisl, representative of the Atlas corporation, were elected directors of the Chicago corporation at the company's annual meeting in the Field building yesterday. McCulloch succeeds Stanley Field and Weisl replaces Floyd B. Odlum, president of Atlas, both of whom have resigned.

Charles F. Glore, president of Chicago corporation, replying to a stockholder's question of how the company is hedging against possible inflation, explained that investments are being confined largely to equities in sound, well managed companies, particularly those with inventory assets which would appreciate through devaluation.

Stockholders unanimously approved a motion for a vote of confidence, proposed by Edward Menkin, a stockholder, who in the past has been outspoken in criticism of the company. The vote was the first of its kind in the corporation's history.

Hearing on Consumers Co. Plan Is Continued Again

Hearing on reorganization of the Consumers' company under section 77 B of the amended bankruptcy law, was continued yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson until 10 o'clock this morning.

WILSON VOTES TO PAY 12½ CENTS A SHARE ON NEW COMMON STOCK

Wilson & Co. yesterday declared a dividend of 12½ cents a share on the new common stock, payable June 1 to stock of record May 15, it was announced by Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board. This payment does not establish an annual basis, it was explained.

An initial dividend of $1.50 a share was also declared on the new 36 preferred stock for the period from Feb. 1 to April 1 and payable May 1 to stock of record April 15.

Elgin National Watch company resumed payments on the capital stock with the declaration yesterday of 15 cents a share, payable March 15 to stock of record March 8. This is the first dividend on the stock since Feb. 1, 1931, when 87½ cents a share was paid.

Chlorox Chemical company declared an extra dividend of 12½ cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents a share, both payable April 1 to stock of record March 20.

Reynolds Spring company declared a dividend of 10 cents a share on the common stock, payable March 29 to stock of record March 15. In the preceding quarter a similar payment was made after having omitted dividends for several years.

Wolverine Tube company declared a dividend of $3.50 a share on arrears on the 7 per cent preferred, payable March 1. Accumulations will then be $5.25 a share, according to Fitch.

REPUBLIC STEEL FILES ANSWER ON TRUST CHARGE

Cleveland, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Republic Steel corporation filed a general denial in federal court today to the department of justice suit which charges that Republic's plan to acquire the Corrigan-McKinney and Truscon Steel companies would violate the Clayton anti-trust act. The department of justice suit seeks a permanent injunction against the transaction. A hearing is scheduled for March 18.

Republic's answer said that its ingot capacity is only 7.2 per cent of the total of the industry and Corrigan, McKinney's only 1.5 per cent.

"The proposed purchase of the assets of Corrigan by Republic," the answer said, "is not based on any purpose to eliminate or lessen competition or merely to create a larger unit in the steel industry, but rests on sound business considerations."

Outlining the "sound busines considerations," the answer said Corrigan, McKinney and subsidiaries have production capacity for pig iron and semi-finished steel in excess of finished steel, while Republic normally has an excess of finished steel over semi-finished steel. Material savings in production and distribution costs would be effected through the proposed merger, the answer said.

ELECT McCLURE SECRETARY OF HOUSEHOLD CORP.

Donald F. McClure was elected secretary of the Household Finance corporation yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors. He replaced F. B. Hubachek, general counsel and chairman of the executive committee of the board, who relinquished the position of secretary because of the press of professional work.

Arthur R. Dana, F. L. Thompson, and Eugene E. Ford were made vice presidents at the meeting, while E. N. Raty, former secretary of the Illinois Bankers' association, and W. T. Christian were given the titles of second vice presidents.

Members of the board of directors were reëlected at a meeting of stockholders before the board meeting, with the exception of Charles Daniel Frey, who withdrew with the explanation that the expansion of his business forced curtailment of outside activities. Officers reëlected are: B. E. Henderson, president; M. R. Drennan, first vice president; Fred Huttmann, treasurer, and Leslie H. Huettmann, assistant treasurer.

Oscar Mayer & Company Earnings Lower for 1934

Oscar Mayer & Co. had a net profit of $267,204 after all charges for the fifty-one weeks ended Nov. 3, 1934, it was announced yesterday by Oscar G. Mayer, president. This was equivalent to $1.75 a share on the common stock after preferred dividends and compares with net of $319,441, or $2.18 a share, in the fifty-two weeks ended Nov. 11, 1933.

Utility Rival of TVA Halves Its Dividend

New York, Feb. 26.—Special.—Directors of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, one of the two important utility holding companies most vitally affected by the program of power development and distribution now being carried on by the Tennessee Valley authority, reduced the preferred stock dividend by a half at a meeting today. The board held that dividends should be well within earnings because of the threatening attitude of legislators and public officials.

The board declared a devidend of 75 cents a share on the preferred, or half the stated cumulative rate that has been paid without interruption since the stock was originally issued.

Explains U. S. Threats.

The "threatening attitude" referred to by Wendell L. Willkie, president of the company, in explaining the dividend cut to stockholders, was illustrated by the following points:

1. "Competition by governmental agencies such as the Tennessee Valley authority.

2. "The gifts and loans to municipalities for the purpose of erecting competing plants and distribution systems.

3. "The continuing increase in taxation, some of which is specifically imposed on the utility business as distinguished from other businesses.

4. "The continued political propaganda which has created a constant ferment for the lowering of rates when none of the operating companies of the Commonwealth and Southern system are now earning a fair rate of return on the fair value of their property devoted to the public use.

Holding Company Bill.

5. "The recent introduction in congress of a bill, 'Public Utility Act of 1935,' aimed, not only to regulate but avowedly to destroy the public utility holding companies. This bill is almost as destructive to operating companies as to holding companies, for it superimposes drastic and strangulating federal regulation on existent state regulation and converts all interstate transmission lines, of which the Commonwealth and Southern system possesses many, into common carriers, available for the transmission of power generated by federal power projects."

Gross earnings of Commonwealth and Southern and subsidiaries in January were $10,429,961, compared with $9,724,437 in the first month of 1934. The balance available for dividends was $1,100,553, compared with $933,902. For the twelve months ending with January the balance available for dividends was $7,697,436, equal to $5.13 a share on the $6 preferred.

DELAWARE PLACE BUILDING FILES 77-B PETITION

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The Two Hundred and One East Delaware Place Corporation of Chicago today filed a petition in the United States District court here under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act. The corporation seeks debt relief under the act. The corporation's petition places current liabilities at $177,663.26 and current assets of $3,415.08. The residential apartment owned by the corporation is subject to a first mortgage bond issue of $860,000 and a second mortgage of $100,000. The petition was presented by Thomas B. McKeown, former Oklahoma congressman and now a resident of Chicago. He helped write the amendment to the bankruptcy act under which the action was taken.

Former Congressman McKeown was a member of the congressional committee which took testimony from several federal judges in Chicago on receivership practices here several months ago. He declined to comment yesterday on the reason why he had filed his petition in Peoria but pointed out that such action can be brought anywhere in the state.

WILSON & CO., INC.

Preferred and Common Stock Dividends

The Board of Directors of Wilson & Co., Inc., meat packers, a Delaware corporation, has declared a dividend of One Dollar and Fifty Cents ($1.50) per share on its Preferred Stock for the period from February 1, 1935, to April 30, 1935, payable May 1, 1935, to holders of record at the close of business April 15, 1935. At the same meeting the Directors also declared a dividend of Twelve and One-Half Cents (12½c) per share on its Common Stock, payable June 1, 1935, to holders of record at the close of business May 15, 1935. Checks will be mailed. Dated: Chicago, February 26, 1935.

GEO. D. HOPKINS, Secretary.

MIDDLE WEST CREDITOR PLAN UNDER ATTACK

Appeal to Supreme Court Threatened.

Opponents of the creditor plan for reorganization of Middle West Utilities company occupied the spotlight in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court yesterday at hearings on the fairness of the plan. Attacks on the rights of secured creditors occupied most of the time of the court, which on several occasions sharply criticized Irving Flamm, counsel for a small group of noteholders, for generalities instead of concrete evidence.

Samuel Ettelson, former corporation counsel and representative of 153 common stockholders, closed the day with a burst of oratory against tactics of banking creditors in controling the receivership. He reiterated his charges of collusion and hinted that the assets of Middle West were looted by agreements under which the banking creditors took possession of certain collateral they held.

Urges Judge to Delay Decision.

Ettelson urged the court not to "think seriously" of approving any reorganization plan until the collusion issue is settled. He informed the court that he is attempting to get the case before the United States Supreme court.

"If we can prove collusion," Ettelson shouted, "I don't think your honor would like to put the assets back in the hands of these same men. We don't want them to have anything to do with the control of our property."

Congress intended "extremely tender consideration," he argued in reference to section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law under which the reorganization is being attempted. He alluded to the company as belonging to the stockholders, who "ask neither mercy or charity, but common justice."

"What I want to know," he cried, "is what happened to the assets."

Ettelson Criticizes McCulloch.

Ettelson then launched an attack on Charles A. McCulloch, former receiver of Middle West, and his request for additional fees.

The hearing ended in turmoil and threatened personal combat as Guy M. Peters, a counsel for the receiver and later for the trustee, arose to refute Ettelson's previous challenge than an appraisal of Middle West property had been prepared by the firm of Spooner & Merrill, only to be suppressed by the receiver because it did not meet with his approval.

Peters asked an apology, but no sooner had this been obtained than Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan appeared to tell the court that he has in his possession such an appraisal, addressed to the receivers.

This will be presented in court this morning as the hearing is resumed. It is said to concern National Electric Power, eastern properties which were lost to New York bankers during the course of receivership and over the vigorous protest of Mr. McCulloch.

Flamm Urges Investigation.

Attorney Flamm suggested adjudicating the company bankrupt, inquiring into its assets and collateral, and possibly reorganizing on the basis of what is learned in such a proceeding. He was immediately challenged for any new evidence in regard to collusion and disposal of collateral by Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson and Robert N. Golding.

Flamm argued the possibility of the bank creditors netting a huge profit—as high as 300 per cent—and said that if the value of the property increased to the point where stockholders exercised their option to buy stock through warants to be issued under the plan the secured creditors would own 45 per cent of the company, stockholders 29 per cent, and noteholders only 26 per cent. Noteholders still would be far from realizing what they invested, while secured creditors profited, he repeated.

KREUGER GOLD CLAUSE IS HELD STILL IN EFFECT

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The gold clause in Kreuger & Toll unsecured debentures is still operative as far as bankruptcy proceedings are concerned, regardless of the prevailing American law, the Stockholm Town court ruled today.

Thus a $1,000 debenture is to be considered worth 5,340 kroner, plus interest. At the prevailing rate of exchange, $1 equaling approximately 4 kroner, the same bond would be valued at only 4,000 kroner if the American law were applied.

The court, in ruling that only Swedish law must apply, pointed out that the dollar-krone rate on May 24, 1932, when Kreuger & Toll was declared bankrupt, was on the then existing gold parity of 5.34 kroner to $1.

The decision was regarded as most important, since secured or so-called "gold" debentures have first consideration in realization of Kreuger & Toll assets. A good share of these debentures are held in the United States.

Raising "L" Questions Is Quinn's Forte

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Patrick J. Quinn, 5120 North Lowell avenue, an ex-policeman with a fondness for oratory, yesterday made his annual but unofficial report to the stockholders of the Chicago Rapid Transit company. The occasion was the regular yearly stockholders' meeting, which was nominally presided over by Bernard J. Fallon, president of the company.

For the hour or so that the regular meeting was in session Quinn had the floor a good share of the time, but it was not time enough. When President Fallon in disgust finally gaveled through a motion of adjournment while Quinn was in the midst of one of his tirades the doughty ex-policeman refused to sit down. Holding the floor he persuaded a score or more of stockholders to remain for a rump meeting. President Fallon and fellow officers left the meeting room and Quinn continued to display his oratory for another half hour.

Mr. Quinn Has His Doubts.

During the regular meeting President Fallon managed to get in a word or two, including a few barbed ones aimed in the direction of Mr. Quinn, who seemed to be attempting to express the thought that the management of the "L" company and Chicago bankers generally were about as despicable a lot of people as one is likely to meet anywhere. He paused at times to reassure his listeners that, of course, he believed Mr. Fallon to be a most honorable and honest gentleman. Whenever he got off on this tack Mr. Fallon yawned and fingered the gavel nervously. Mr. Fallon had heard it all before, only a year ago, in fact.

When it came time to ballot on the nominees for the board of directors a stockholder asked why there was no choice among the names to be voted upon. Mr. Quinn rose to explain the matter. He said that the methods of electing corporation directors were the same as the political methods practiced in Chicago's First ward.

Which Brand of Politics.

"You ought to be an expert on First ward politics," Mr. Fallon remarked, "inasmuch as you served as a policeman there for a great many years."

"Between First ward politics and corporation politics, I will take the former every time." Quinn replied.

President Fallon told the stockholders they were free to make any nominations they wished. When the ballots were counted it was found that Quinn had received 95 votes against the several thousands voted for each of three nominees proposed by the management. Mr. Fallon and Edward J. Blair were reëlected to the board and Addison L. Gardner, general counsel, was elected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Britton I. Budd.

President Fallon told the stockholders that passengers carried on the elevated system last year totaled 127,276,803, an increase of 2 per cent over 1933. Car mileage operated increased 1 per cent. Gross revenues were also slightly higher, amounting to $13,131,170, compared with $13,076,802 in 1933. After expenses and interest accrued on funded and other debt the final deficit for the year was $1,998,257, compared with $2,114,452 in 1933.

PANAMA REJECTS U. S. CANAL RENT UNLESS IN GOLD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The United States today again sought to meet its $250,000 gold coin obligation to Panama in devalued currency, an action immediately interpreted in some Panamanian official quarters as constituting default of 1904 treaty obligations.

Panama, through its New York fiscal agent, promptly returned the check for the Panama Canal Zone rental to the treasury—as was done in 1934—and demanded gold instead. From the Panamanian standpoint the payment was viewed as default inasmuch as the government is denied use of the money due today.

The state department, however, pointed out today's payment was in accordance with present legislation barring gold payment and not final inasmuch as the question still was under study at the treasury and justice departments following the recent Supreme court gold decision.

In devalued currency the Panama obligation now amounts to about $423,000 and in addition Panama asks for interest on the 1934 annuity and considers that interest on the 1935 obligation starts from today.

Sears-Roebuck Annual Meeting Set for March 25

The annual meeting of Sears, Roebuck & Co. will be held in New York on March 25 and stock of record March 15 will be entitled to vote. Among other matters that will be taken up will be the election of a new board of directors.

NEW TAX THREAT BARS DIVIDENDS BY PEOPLES GAS

Uncertainties Cited by Simpson.

Uncertainties prevent any definite forecast as to resumption of dividends on the stock of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, Chairman James Simpson yesterday told the annual meeting of shareholders.

"Your management cannot see into the future clearly enough at this time," Mr. Simpson said in his prepared address. "While the financial position of the company has been improved, we believe it should be further strengthened, and there are other equally important questions bearing on the subject of dividends.

"One is the possibility of additional tax burdens. Only a few days ago a bill was introduced in the legislature to impose a tax of ten cents on each 1,000 feet of natural gas sold within the state. Second is the adjustment of the natural gas pipeline contract."

Insull Gas Contract Cited.

This was an agreement made during the Insull régime to buy 130 million cubic feet of gas daily at this time, while the company's top average has been only 97 millions. Answering a stockholder's question later, Mr. Simpson explained that the Illinois commerce commission never has approved the contract and that the company has high hopes of obtaining a modification.

"After that," he added, "we can look forward to dividends with considerable confidence."

A third uncertainty mentioned by Mr. Simpson in his prepared talk is the effect that contemplated "federal or other legislation may have on your company's operations." While admitting that certain practices of holding companies in the past have brought deserved severe criticism, the chairman deplored unthinking, blanket condemnation and disregard of the differences between holding and operating companies.

Not in Holding Company Class.

People's Gas has obtained at least 96 per cent of its gross earnings in each of the last 10 years from sale of gas to its customers, he pointed out, and will "vigorously oppose" being classified as a holding company for purposes of proposed legislative action against that type of concern.

As at stockholder meetings on Monday of the Commonwealth Edison company and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, Mr. Simpson referred to the company's winning its case for exemption from the 2 per cent retailers' occupational tax. If new legislation is passed to force their inclusion, the company hopes to be able to pass the tax on to the consumer in an addition to his bill in the same way that other retailers do, he added.

The company's net income was reported at $863,145, or $1.28 a share, in the annual report, printed before final decision on the tax case. Giving effect to the decision, Mr. Simpson said the net would be $1,402,885. This is equal to $2.08 a share.

Operating Expenses Increase.

Discussing the $4,420,000 increase in operating expenses which more than wiped out a $3,109,800 increase in gross earnings over 1933, the chairman said $2,600,000 was for additional gas costs. Of the remainder, $1,460,000 was the result of promoting the heating campaign—an increase of $860,000, or more than $1 a share, from 1933. He pointed out that "while a heavy charge against the year's earnings, it should be borne in mind that such expense is behind us, while the benefits will be reflected in future years' earnings."

Answering a stockholder's question, Mr. Simpson admitted that salesmen at first were "overenthusiastic" and sold people "who shouldn't be sold," with heavy losses resulting from cost of installation and subsequent removal. He assured shareholders that this has been changed and that much less loss should result, the management being committed to a policy of selling only to those who should buy.

Directors were reëlected unanimously by oral vote. Of the 676,385 shares entitled to vote, only 2,722 were represented in person, while 441,159 were represented by proxy for a total of 443,931, or 65.6 per cent.

SELLING IN RAIL GROUP PUSHES STOCKS LOWER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 26.—An outburst of selling in the carrier group, prompted by rumors of impending receiverships, dragged the stock market to still lower levels today. Some of the rails were pounded to the lowest price in years.

New Haven common and preferred sold to the lowest levels on record, and such issues as Atchison, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Illinois Central, Southern, and Coast Line bumped new lows for the year or longer in declines of 1 to 2 points. Percentage losses were considerable in the low priced issues, some of which figured in the bankruptcy or reorganization reports.

Tape watchers with a bent for comparison got some measure of consolation out of calculations showing that the rails at their lowest today were still on the average about 144 per cent above their lowest prices, July 8, 1932, and approximately 27 per cent above their lows for last year.

Equipment Shares Ease.

Equipments drifted down with the carriers, as they usually do. Heavy selling again came into Baldwin Locomotive following the filing of a petition for reorganization of the company after the close of the market yesterday. The common stock sold down $1 a share to the lowest price on record and the preferred dropped 3 points to a new bottom for the year, but later recovered from its worst. Pullman declined a point.

The public utilities held out better than usual, but the late afternoon found them in retreat with the rest of the list. Consolidated Gas managed to finish behind a modest plus sign, and such issues as Public Service, United Gas Improvement, and American Water Works were no worse than fractionally lower when the final gong came to their rescue. Halving of the Commonwealth and Southern dividend brought a quick drop of more than 3 points in that stock.

Meat Shares Bright Spot.

One bright spot of the list that stood out all the more conspicuously because of the general rout going on around it was the meat packing shares. Wilson was paraded out on the tape in long strings, finally crossing the $6 level as news of the dividend appeared. Armour rose fractionally, and Beechnut moved up nearly 2 points.

The sugars continued to resist selling pressure, and a handful of specialties made some headway against the receding tide.

Standard industrials bore up fairly well. American Can closed unchanged from yesterday, and U. S. Steel and Westinghouse lost less than a point each. General Electric, still basking in the favor of boardroom talk linking some of its high officials with the New Deal, countered the drift for a fractional gain.

OPERATING NET OF 17 ROADS DIPS AS GROSS RISES

North Western January Deficit Is $57,017.

Net operating income during January for the first seventeen railroads to report was 18.3 per cent below January, 1934, despite a gain of 1.7 per cent in gross revenues. Net operating income for these roads was $8,031,000, compared with $11,964,000 in December and $9,326,000 a year ago.

The Chicago and North Western yesterday reported a net operating deficit of $57,017 for January, compared with a net operating income of $420,484 in January, 1934, a decrease of $477,501.

Gross Revenues Decline.

Gross operating revenues amounted to $5,504,499, against $5,752,943 a year ago, a decrease of $248,444, while operating expenses totaled $4,799,843, against $4,610,061, an increase of $189,782.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific had a net operating deficit of $196,407 in January after an estimated contribution of $147,533 under the railroad retirement act. This compares with net operating income of $423,712 in January, 1934. Gross revenues for the month were $6,718,070, against $6,811,353, a decrease of $93,283.

Net railway operating income for the Pennsylvania railroad in January amounted to $4,248,702, compared with $4,808,260 in January, 1934, while that of the New York Central was $2,501,-195, against $2,454,237.

Freight Loadings Recede.

Milder weather last week caused a letup in coal loadings, with the result that freight trafic showed a more than seasonal decline from the preceding week, according to early reports by leading carriers. Following are loadings reported for the week, with comparative figures for the preceding week and a year ago:

Carrier—	Week ended— Feb. 23.	Feb. 16.	Year ago.
North Western..	21,359	22,252	22,142
Milwaukee	21,381	23,292	21,648
Illinois Central...	26,057	26,831	26,112
Atchison	20,634	20,843	20,667
B. & O.	39,077	42,020	40,833
Rock Island	18,652	19,750	18,860
Katy	6,113	6,163	6,385
Missouri Pacific..	19,314	19,295	20,510
Int. Grt. Northern	3,777	3,641	5,086
B. & O.	29,051	29,278	28,914
Nickel Plate	12,819	12,865	12,272
Gulf Coast	3,466	3,343	3,827

In trade circles it is estimated that trafic for the week amounted to approximately 545,000 cars, which would compare with 581,981 in the preceding week and 573,371 a year ago.

ICKES EXPLAINS LAG IN FEDERAL HOUSING SCHEME

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A two-fold excuse for a PWA housing program that has provided low rental homes for only 124 families in its year and a half of existence was offered today by Secretary Ickes. He accounted for the lack of results of spending thus far out of the $150,000,000 fund by saying that:

1. Land procurement had been the "chief difficulty" and although a Cleveland federal judge had upheld PWA condemnation of sites, a Louisville judge ruled it unconstitutional.

"I frankly admitted at the beginning that our organization wasn't functioning properly—it took me some time to find out what was going on Hackett predicted that $100,000,000 in housing projects would be under construction by Aug. 1.

N. Y. Exchange Seat Sells for $80,000; Near Low

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Arrangements were made today for the sale of two New York Stock exchange memberships, one at $83,000 and another at $80,000. The last transaction was at $90,000 on Jan. 17. Today's transactions brought the price to within $12,000 of the all-time low of $68,000 for a "seat" on the exchange, which was established on May 31, 1932.

Japan Gets 63 Pct. of U. S. Scrap Iron, Steel Exports

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26—(AP)—Japan was shown by commerce department figures today to have purchased 63 per cent of the United States' exports of scrap iron and steel. Total exports during 1934 were 1,835,554 gross tons, compared with 773,406 gross tons in 1933, an all-time tonnage record.

MODERATE BUYING OF LARD AS HOGS REACH NEW HIGH

Sharp advances in hog prices to new highs for the season yesterday brought in moderate buying of lard and bellies, but failed to get the market into new ground. Profit taking and hedging checked the upturn and later there was some recession due to the decline in corn and stocks.

Demand for the cured product here was reported as slow, although prices on hams were advanced as much as ½ cent per pound in sympathy with higher cost of hogs. At the close lard showed net gains of 7½ cents to 10 cents and bellies were up 5 cents to 12½ cents. Cash lard was quoted at $13.55; loose, $13.50; leaf, $13.75, and bellies at $16.75 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

Lard.

	Close. Feb. 26.	Feb. 25.	Feb. 27.
	High.	Low.	1935. 1934.
May	13.72	13.65	13.67 13.40 6.72
July	13.90	13.82	13.85 13.75 6.80
Sept.	14.00	13.90	13.92 13.85 6.97

May	16.70	16.57	16.70	16.57	8.15
July	16.80	16.80	16.80	16.75	8.40

Note—Above prices include processing tax at 2.47c per lb on lard and 2.62c per lb on bellies taxed on produce made since March, 1934. This tax is rebated on produce exported, but varies according to the amount due to the fact that the tax was gradually advanced.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(AP)—In a quiet market print cloths fell back ¼ cent a yard at the low point of 10 days ago. Moderate sales of finished cottons were reported. Wool goods production held high but new business was light. Rayon yarns were quiet. Rayon fabrics sold for cutting up purposes more freely. Silk goods were quiet with sheer goods selling best. Burlap trading was quiet.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—There was a general outcropping of weaknesses in the listed bond market today. Speculative railroad bonds were hard hit, many breaking 1 to more than 8 points.

Other domestic corporation, public utility and industrial issues pursued an irregularly lower course, and United States government closed generally lower, off 1-32d to 12-32ds point, with the treasury 4¼s, due 1952, up 1-32d and the federal farm mortgage 3¼s due 1964, up 3-32ds. Foreign loans moved slightly lower on the average.

Rails Under Pressure.

The pressure against the lower-priced railroad bonds was unrelenting today, much of it without adequate explanation beyond mention of fear that the federal funds may not be as readily available for the weaker roads as heretofore and the prospect of reorganizations is more pronounced.

Many blocks of low-priced rail bonds have been dealt in by speculative interests much on the same basis as stocks, and some of the selling today may be attributed to this speculative liquidation.

High Grade Rails Steady.

As far as the high grade rail issues were concerned, prices were generally well maintained, with such setbacks as were noted chiefly confined to small fractions. Leading issues of the public utility and industrial groups averaged lower in that order, with the major losses amounting to a point or two.

German loans were about the weakest of the foreign group, the declines ranging from small fractions to more than 5 points on the day. Other European loans were generally steady. In the Latin American section prices were irregularly easier.

HIDE FUTURES.

Hide futures in New York closed unchanged to 5 points lower, with sales of 824 lots, or 3,320,000 lbs. Closing bids in cents per pound: Standard contracts—March, 9.25c; June, 9.60c; September, 9.88c; December, 10.18c.

American Steel Foundries.

Investors' Guide: Would like what information you can give me on American Steel Foundries stock.—I. L. F.

Answer: Under normal conditions most of the output of American Steel Foundries, one of the leading makers of steel castings, goes into railroad equipment. Earnings, consequently, tend to vary with the earnings and borrowing capacity of the railroads as a whole.

During 1932 operations were at the lowest point since the founding of the company 32 years ago. Railroad earnings approached the vanishing point and railroad credit was tight. Volume increased about 7 per cent in 1933. The availability of PWA loans to railroads for the purchase of equipment has proved a big factor with this company, enabling it to operate at a profit in the second and third quarters of 1934.

For 1934 net income was $245,000, or only 62 per cent of preferred dividend requirements. The company lost $1,401,000 in 1933, $1,526,000 in 1932, and $791,000 in 1931. Net income in 1930 was $2,801,000.

Although working capital has declined steadily since 1927, current position still remains strong. Cash assets of more than $5,700,000 were well in excess of total current liabilities of $811,000 at the close of 1933.

The company in 1929 invested $7,400,000 in General Steel Castings common stock, which is jointly controled with several other manufacturers in related lines.

Production of castings for manufacturers of agricultural and industrial machinery, a growing phase of the company's business, has responded gratifyingly to stimulated activity in the industrial world.

Capitalization is represented by 56,557 shares of (per cent $100 par cumulative preferred and 370,111 shares of no par common. The preferred has been paying only 50 cents a quarter since March 31, 1933.

The preferred is speculative and the common more so.

Investors' Guide: I have in my possession $3,000 of Appalachian Gas corporation convertible 6 per cent debentures, series B, due May 1, 1945. What is the best way to sell these?

R. A. E.

Answer: You do not have to sell the bonds. The issuer went into receivership and its assets were sold at foreclosure sale to the bondholders' protective committee. Bonds that were not deposited with the committee are entitled to $53.45¾ per thousand dollar unit, or, for $3,000 of bonds, $162.60.

We suggest that you write to C. F. Bauman, secretary and treasurer of Commonwealth Gas corporation, 50 Broadway, New York City, for information as how to collect the amount due you.
